D NOT WANT POWER TALK

Meeting on Tuesday Evening Was Slimly Attended.

Weakness of the "Mere Estimate Admitted by Speaker.

Mayor Flails the Cataract and Newspapers.

Hamilton ratepayers were not looking for New Year Eve entertainment in the form of power by-law talk, and th meeting held at the Twentieth Century Club in the interests of the by-law o Tuesday evening was somewhat of frost. The Mayor was rather dubious as to the advisability of holding a meeting at all, but some of the aldermen pro vailed upon him to do so, on the ground that it will not look well to abandon it It was 9 o'clock before enough people were drummed up to make an audien of 35 or 40.

"I leave it to the judgment of the ratepayers to say whether we shall have our own plant or not," said Chairman Sweeney. He was elected to represent all the people, and did not feel that it was his place to say what they should

Mayor Stewart did not neglect the op-portunity to take a poke at the Cataract Power Company and rap the newspapers for the stand they took on the by-law The press, he said, from day to day was trying to place the matter in a light trying to place the matter in a light not favorable to the by-law, and mislead the people by endeavoring to make out that the money, if voted, could be sount for some other purpose. The Mayor hauled out the "big monopoly skeleton." which he had made use of on several oc-casions, and gave it another rattle. With the air of a prophet he peeped into the future and saw a big electrical merger looming up that would control the sit-mation in Ontario, have a uniform price for power for all municipalities, and leave Hamilton in the soup. His Worship explained that he was not there to say anything unkind about

"I think that is not true," he said, "for this reason. If it is true, why should the company bother about it the way it is doing? Why does it not let the eity go alread without interference? But they are afraid, and they made a move to-day at the City Hall, getting seventy-one application forms to appoint agents, and these will be spread all over the city on election day to defeat the by-law. I just want to ask you, as reasonable men, to consider this."

"There has been nothing come up since the company has been in existence that dreads worse than this. Hydro me." he said. "There is nothing burst it worse. If you defeat this if remark for all time to come Mayor and the other fellows us to vote for it were right e wrong. Mark my words." rs, "he said, "tell you I don" hing about it. "He thought, however, the Cataract was prepared to do business, and in chat case the city should not turn its back, providing it got a good offer. He was surprised at the spirit of indifference which permeated the electorate in not coming out to hear the question discus-ed. He referred to the amount it would add to the city's debt, and pointed out that the city could tap the wires passing through here to Tornoto at any time. Ald. Dickson said that while the fig-ures supplied were merely astimates, if the people elected the right kind of a Council they might rest assured that the city would not the itself up in any way, or spend a cent until it found out where two as t. If it was found that the ex-penditure was greater than the benefit likely to be gained they could be sure it would go no further. To give the Council a weapon or power to deal with the people elected hunght Ald. Farar slood alone in his desire to take a chance on the present pumps at the Beach for another five years to come. About the power by-law Ald. Dickson said he had his own opinions, and one very decided opinion was that unless the final figures were much better than the estimates it would not be well for Ham-ilton to enter. The fact that Toronto takes more power should not enter into it. Hamilton is well situated, and I think we can say, "Gentlemen, we must have a proportion-ate price."
