

From Day to Day

(Thursday's Daily.)

WHAT WILL WE DO?

Have you noticed from week to week in the Bulletin the commonplace bird chattering of one of the tragedies of the homesteading epoch of the West?

One day, an exclusive story was given to the public with a heavy black head line to catch the eye. "Miss Brown on the Prairie" or something like that. The story set out the bare facts of an Austrian settler in the Vermilion district who stayed too long on the prairie one bitterly cold night vainly endeavoring to round up his cattle; that he was badly from lack and brought to the Misericordia hospital for treatment.

That was the story's first appearance; it was news. Thereafter the hospital notes contained only occasional two or three line reports of the patient, but all the while the case was growing more momentous to the man himself.

Hope was dying out slowly in him. Medical science and careful nursing were futile. Reviewing the cause of his being there one might ask if he regretted the humanity and the thrift that drove him farther and farther on the white prairie to round up his shivering, famished cattle. He saved the cattle, and a neighbor is now tending them; but the man who found him suffering alone in his dreary bachelor shack.

But Opler can never be a burly, active farmer again. His two feet and one hand have been amputated one by one as the sick man could endure it to be done. He had gone through the hardest phase of pioneering; he could look forward to a buxom Galician wife probably some comfort, to a good prairie home, and the solid delight of a man who looks about on broad acres with a sense of possession. But his own industry, his own sense of humanity have defeated his dreams of "making good." Through no blame of his he is now a cripple for life. It is one of the tragedies of the Canadian prairie, another leaf from the big book of trying experiences that go to make this west developing the great land of the century.

For some of the tragedies we can not even offer compensation. But in this case something might be done in finding suitable employment for a man afflicted as Opler is.

STATE AND CHURCH IN FRANCE

Newspapers and reviews have been teeming lately with lengthy articles upon the present critical situation in France.

The effect of these are on the whole very confusing, side issues being continually raised. The clearest statement yet come under my notice is that by Mrs. Kathleen Blake Coleman, "Kil," whose work needs no introduction to any Canadian.

To a correspondent in her paper she answers:

"The Concordat was a treaty in fourteen articles, drawn up by Bonaparte in 1801, and presented to Pope Pius VII. The total value of the church property at that time was $300,000,000. At present the value is $300,000,000. The subsidy allowed for the clergy was an equivalent of about 1 per cent. A poor compensation. It offered a gift to the clergy and placed them under the control and at the mercy of government officials. Pius VII. had no choice but to accept the Concordat, since, had he refused, he would have deprived millions of Catholics of the opportunity to practice their religion.

"Now the Concordat has been broken, and broken without consulting the Pope, who stands as one of the parties of the contract. Had any such thing occurred to one of the active powers—the canon would have answered in short order. The Vatican is defenceless as far as temporary power goes, or military power, rather. France is in the wrong. She undertakes to dissolve one-sided a treaty. Then she should restore to the church the property worth $300,000,000.

"As Pope Pius X is bound in conscience to repudiate the law of associations, as Pope, he cannot alienate the possessions of the church; as Pope, he cannot permit the bishops and pastors to be ruled by laymen; as Pope, he cannot permit the kind of worship to be determined by laymen; as Pope, he cannot allow mass to be abolished; as Pope, he cannot permit laymen to govern the church. The constitution of the Catholic Church forbids it. The Pope would cease to be Pope did he countenance these things.

"His hand is forced. The play is not fair, and he is Catholic, Protestant or Pagan, the game is not a square deal."

SOCIAL

Mrs. Braithwaite will entertain at dinner on next Monday night. Mrs. W. W. Lemaire leaves shortly on a visit to the Pacific Coast.

Mrs. Cecil E. R. has had a card of invitation for a tea on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. D. L. Scott was the hostess at a very pleasant bridge-party yesterday afternoon for five tables of play. The prizes were won by Mrs. Nightingale and Mrs. Scott. The consolation prize going to Mrs. Hishop. The guests included Mrs. Braithwaite, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Ewing, Mrs. Short, Mrs. Callaghan, Mrs. W. Short, Mrs. Thibault, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Swaisland, Mrs. Turnbull, Mrs. Jettie, Mrs. Hishop, Mrs. McLaughlin, Mrs. Nightingale, Mrs. Duncan Smith, the Misses Hishop, Miss Helen Wood. The marriage took place quietly last week at St. George's church, Montreal, of Miss Florence Amelia Botterell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Botterell, of Montreal, to Mr. John Benjamin Rodpath, of Pincher Creek, Alberta. The Rev. A. J. Doall, M.A., officiated. The bride wore her travelling costume of navy blue, and hat to match. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Rodpath left for New York, whence they sail on Thursday for Bermuda, where they will spend the honeymoon.

The dance given by several young ladies at Rennie's Academy last night was a success. The enjoyable social affairs of the season. The floor was in excellent condition and the music good. The champagne of the dance were Mrs. T. M. Campbell, Mrs. Charlesworth, and Mrs. Allan Fraser. The list of those who enjoyed the dance were Mrs. T. M. ON STEVENSON DEAD

(Friday's Daily.)

The following verses on Robert Louis Stevenson appear in the "Songs of Vagabondage," by Bliss Carman, the Canadian poet in New York. It gives a fine hint of Stevenson's light-hearted battle for years against the lung disease that finally overcame him:

"You hearken, fellows? Turned aside Into the road house of the past The prince of vagabonds is gone To house among his peers at last!

The stainless gallant gentleman, So glad of life, he gave no trace, No hint, he even once beheld The spectre peering in his face.

But gay and modest held the road, Nor feared the shadow of the Dust, And saw the whole world rich with joy.

As every valiant farer must.

DOMESTICS COMING NEXT SPRING.

(Friday's Daily.)

The Beaver House Chapter of Daughters of the Empire has issued a circular concerning its plan to bring domestics from Great Britain to Edmonton in the spring. The number of girls to come will be limited only by the number of housekeepers here who express their will to have one.

The girls are being selected carefully from among many applicants in the old country and they will be placed only in good homes here.

The circular issued by Mrs. Saunders, of Sixth street, secretary of the chapter, asks all who are desirous of securing one of these girls to advance her fare, $56.35 to the secretary before Feb. 15th.

"This sum, it seems," covers all expenses from Liverpool to Edmonton, and is to be refunded to the employer by the domestic during the first six months of her engagement; the girl's wages to be at the rate of $12 per month.

WESTERN PLOUGH.

The London Advertiser has a kind word to say of us here in the West. "Command us to the Canadian western settler for courage and optimism," it says. "He has been passing through the severest winter in a quarter of a century, but he refuses to shake the depression of the thermometer. In the almost daily snow fall he finds the blissful assurance of a good crop. Never has there been a hard winter, with plenty of snow, it is pointed out, that has not been followed by a bumper harvest. Here's to the hardy settler of the west, and may his high hopes be realized in the autumn of 1930. He deserves it."

WOMAN'S INTELLECTUAL PLANE.

(Friday's Daily.)

Not long ago in Chicago, a man—a mere man—put himself on record as believing woman to be on the same intellectual plane as the savage, with the added opinion that "when she attempts to raise herself she is uncleanly." The man was now, in the Middle Ages it took a pope and all his court to utter an authoritative pronouncement, declaring it heresy to believe, as some learned men advocated, that woman had no immortal soul as man had. This morally dangerous teaching, drawing out the thunders of the church, was silenced.

But how the times differ! A single individual female, with soul and tongue, answers that speech of Prof. Thomas, of Chicago university, and no more is heard from him.

This in part is what she said, adhering strictly to facts always:—

"Professor Thomas is in an educational institution where the women are walking in and taking the prizes away from the men, and now when the women have won fairly he raises the cry that it is not womanly. It was man and not nature who set the standards of so-called womanliness. 'Of this thirty-five times over' composing the University of Chicago group ten were built by women.

"If he measures intellectual accomplishment by business ability, let me say that Mrs. Hetty Green could buy the University of Chicago, and its professors three times over."

"In Kentucky Mrs. Rose Foreman is president of seven industrial corporations and made $1,000,000 last year. In Texas a Mrs. King has a million acre ranch.

"The best citizen of Chicago, where this professor teaches, is by general consensus Jane Adams—better than any professor.

"In New York a woman contractor is putting in bids for pier work."

"In Virginia there is a woman railroad builder."

"In Nebraska a woman has beaten the grain trust."

"Ida Tarbell was the first to make the Standard Oil company listen to public opinion. No man did that."

SOCIAL.

Invitations are out in Toronto for the meeting of Miss Gretchen Edith Meyer, daughter of the late H. W. C. Meyer, K.C. of Calgary, and granddaughter of the late Hon. A. M. Ross, to Mr. W. Cromwell Gurney, of Toronto. The wedding will take place February 12.

The first public function given by Lieut. Governor and Mrs. Dunsmyr at Government House, Victoria, took the form of a large and very brilliant ball. Over fifteen hundred guests were issued, and about eight hundred people attended with palms and caudexes, with the galleries festooned with evergreens. A regimental orchestra provided the music and a large temporary dining room was erected in the open air. It was the beautiful view from this Government House that the artistic Princess Louise exclaimed, "It is half way between heaven and Balmoral."

The week of the dramatic competition in Ottawa was marked by a series of events. The amateur contestants present from various provinces were widely entertained; at night society flocked to the Russell theatre where the contests were taking place. Among those occupying boxes on the opening night were Lady Laurier, Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley Powell, Miss Marjorie Powell, Mrs. Alan Aylesworth, Mrs. Oliver and the Misses Oliver, Dr. Fletcher and Mrs. Fletcher. The clever Winnipeg play was received with marked appreciation, the West more than holding its own in the contest.

Mrs. Hardisty has issued cards of invitation to a large At Home next Tuesday afternoon at her residence, 1401 Broadway, for the benefit of the Canadian High Commission office, London, during the week ending January 15, are Mrs. John Phipps and Mrs. Robertson, Calgary, and H. B. Savin, Wetaskiwin.

Mrs. Robertson's post-nuptial reception yesterday afternoon was largely attended by Edmontonians desirous of welcoming her this charming new-comer. Mrs. Robertson, wearing her wedding gown of rich ivory white satin with yoke and bertha of exquisite lace, received her guests in the drawing-room of the cozy suite on Jasper avenue. She was assisted by her mother-in-law, who was surrounded by a group of friends. The death of Lady Victoria Grenfell will put an end to all the festivities at Rideau Hall for the rest of the season. During the last week of her illness, when she was believed quite out of danger, the first of the regular Saturday skating-parties were given. Lady Grey remained at Lady Victoria's bedside, but His Excellency attended with Mrs. Grenfell, Capt. Newton, A.D.C., and the others of his staff. Lady Lyall Grey received the guests, wearing a handsome costume of mauve broadcloth. Mrs. Hanbury-Williams was dressed in black velvet with ermine trimmings. Many of the vice-regal party skated. Music was furnished alternately by the Guards Band and the Church Lane Brigade of Newfoundland. The time was in Ottawa for the musical competition.

Mrs. Jettie was the hostess at a very pretty party for young people, given by Mrs. Short, Mrs. McLaughlin, Mrs. Premier (Clover Bar), and Mrs. Pietersen, at the home of Mrs. Jettie, 1401 Broadway. Canadian Pacific Officials in Calgary Commence to Feel at Ease.

Calgary, Feb. 8.—The different tie-up and the C. P. R. are gradually becoming past night mares to the officials. Last night at 11:30 the chinook which favored Calgary had reached Swift Current, the last mentioned place having been the point of one of the worst blockades of the C. P. R. had to combat with in a number of years.

On the branch lines of the C. & E. things are starting once more to thaw out and trains are no longer visions of wonders to the settlers in that district. The C. P. R. has been cleared by the snow plow and today the Wetaskiwin branch will receive the same treatment. On the Pacific division, there is in all probability something doing in the snow line, as the Atlantic ex-press is in Calgary last night at 24:35 is 24 hours late.

ANOTHER COBALT BONANZA.

Cobalt Lake Syndicate Finds Vein With More Silver Than Road Metal.

Township, Feb. 8.—A special from Cobalt says that interest centers in a rich strike made Saturday on the Cobalt Lake property. Whilst clearing on the east side of the lake a rich vein of two inches of native silver was struck. The vein appears to be unbroken and even. Assays show eight to ten thousand ounces of silver to the ton.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

Calgary, Feb. 8.—Preparations are being made for an irrigation congress which will be held early in the spring. The congress, it is expected, will discuss matters of great importance to every person in any way interested in irrigation.

The extent of irrigation in this district is sometimes underestimated. It is not generally known that the irrigated portion of Alberta is greater than one-fifth of the irrigated area in all the states of the United States.

Irrigation is already one of the big assets of this country, and along the irrigation canal at no distant date there will be a population denser than any other part of Alberta.

It is not generally known either that there was an irrigation congress in Calgary once before. That congress was held in 1891 and it is believed that the time has arrived for another congress.
