CURCULIO DESTROYS PEACHES.

The Delaware Crop a Failure Owning to the Attack of These Insects.

Baltimore, July 20.-Special Agent I. N. Mills, the expert appointed by the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltiore Railroad Company, has made his estimate of the Maryland and Delaware peach crop, and his prediction is that that of 1897 will almost be a total The peaches have nearly all vanished from the trees. The June drop uncil, in regular session, has just tory of peach culture on the peninsula, was done by the curculio, and wherever nsects that Mr. Mills noticed in an orchard near Seaford a peach that had thirteen stings on it. This orchard is no exception to the other orchards of the peninsula. The cause of the rapid increase of the curculio is a mystery to a majority of the fruit growers, but Mr. Mills says it is the fault of the farmers themlarge crops of peaches, and the ground under the trees was covered with peaches that had either rotted and fallen off, or were thrown there as culls and left to rot. Instead of the growers picking the decayed fruit up, as is done by the California fruit growers, and getting rid of it in some other way t was left there for these insects to oreed in, with the consequence that in 1897 there is an enormous crop of these
