The Strange Metamorphosis.

"Talking of smoking," he went on, with a soft chuckle, as at recollections of unspeakable devilry, "did I ever tell you chaps of a tremendous scrape I very nearly got into up at the 'Var-Well, you must know, there's a foolish rule there against smoking in the streets. Not that that made any difference to some of us! Well, one night about nine, I was strolling down Petty Cury with two other men, smok-ing (Bosher of 'Pothouse,' and Peebles of 'Cats,' both pretty well known up there for general rowdineses, you know-dear old friends of mine!) and, just as we turned the corner, who should we see coming straight down on us but a proctor with his bull-dogs (not dogs, you know, but the strongest 'gyps' in the college). Bosher said, 'Liat's cut it!' and he and Peebles bolted. (They were neither of them funks, of course, but they lost their heads.) I went calmly on, smoking my cigar as if nothing was the matter. That put the proctor in a bait, I can tell you! He came furning up to me. 'What do you mean, sir,' says he, quite pale with anger (he was a great bull-headed fellow, one of the strongest dons of his year, that's why they made him proctor)—'what do you mean by breaking the university statutes in this way?' 'It is a fine evening,' said I (I was determined to keep cool). 'Do you mean to insult me?' said he. 'No, old boy,' said I, 'I don't; have a cigar?" couldn't stand that, so he called up his bull-dogs, 'I give him in charge!' he screamed out. 'I'll have him sent down!' 'I'll send you down said I, and I just gave him a push-I never meant to hurt the fel-low-and over he went. I rolled over a bull-dog to keep him company, and, as the other fellow didn't want any more and stood aside to let me pass, I finished my stroll and my cigar."
"Was the proctor hurt, sir?" inquired a small boy with great respect.

"More frightened than hurt, I al-ways said," said Mr. Tinkler lightly, "but somehow he never would proctorize any more—it spoilt his nerve. He was a good deal chaffed about it, but, of course, no one ever knew I had any-thing to do with it."

With such tales of Homeric exploit did Mr. Tinkler inculcate a spirit of discipline and respect for authority. But although he had indeed once en-countered a proctor, and at night, he did himself great injustice by his version of the proceedings, which were, as a matter of fact, of a most peaceable and law-abiding character, and, though followed by a pecuniary trans-action the next day in which six-andeightpence changed pockets, the procrs continued their duties much as before, while Mr. Tinkler's feelings toward them, which had ever been reverential in the extreme, were, if anything, intensified by the experience.

Upon this incident, however, he had gradually embroidered the above exciting episode, until he grew to bethree at intervals that he really had jority been a devil of a fellow in his time, which, to do him justice, was far from the case.

He might have gone on still further to calumniate himself, and excite general envy and admiration thereby, if at that moment Dr. Grimstone had not happened to appear at the head of the cast-iron staircase that led down into the playground; whereupon Mr. Tinkler affected to be intensely interested in the game, which, as a kind of involuntary compliment to the prin-cipal, about this time was galvanized

But the doctor, after frowning gloomily down upon them for a minute or two, suddenly called "All in." He had several ways of saying this. Sometimes he would do so in a halfregretful tone, as one himself obeying the call of duty; sometimes he would appear for some minutes, a benignant spectator, upon the balcony, and summon them to work at length with a lenient pity-for he was by no means a hard-hearted man; but at other times he would step sharply and suddenly out and shout the word of command with a grim and ominous ex-pression. On these last occasions the school generally prepared itself for a rather formidable quarter of an hour. This was the case now, and, as a further protest, Mr. Blinkhorn was served to come down and, after a few words with Mr. Tinkler, withdraw with him through the school gate.

"He's sent them out for a walk," said Siggers, who was skilled in omens. credit.

'It's a row!" Rows at Crichton House, aithough periodical, and therefore things to be forearmed against in some degree, were serious matters. Dr. Gr.mstone was a quick-tempered man, with a copious flow of words and a taste for indulging it. He was also strongly prejudiced against many breaches of discipline which others might have considered trilling, and whenever he had discovered any such breach he could not rest until by all the means in his power he had ascertained axactly how many were implicated in the offense, and to what extent.

His usual method of doing this was to summon the school formally together and deliver an elaborate harangue, during which hew orked him-self by degrees into such a state of in-dignation that his hearers were most of the time terrified out of their senses, and very often conscience-stricken of-fenders would give themselves up as hopelessly detected and reveal thansgressions aitogether unsuspected by him-much as a net brings up fish of all degrees of merit, or as heavy firing will raise drowned corpses to the

Paul naturally knew nothing of this peculiarity; he had kept himself as usual apart from the others, and was now trying to compel himself to brave the terrors of an avowal at the first opportunity. He followed the others up the steps with an uneasy wonder whether, after all, he would not find himself ignominiously set down to learn

The boys filed into the schoolroom in solemn silence, and took their seats at the desks and along the brown tables. The doctor was there before them, standing up with one elbow resting upon a reading stand, and with a suggestion of coming thunder in his look and attitude that, combined with the oppressive silence, made some of boys positively ill.

Presently he began. He said that, since they had come together again, he had made a discovery concerning one among them which, astounding as it was to him, and painful as he felt it to be compelled to make it known, concerned them all to beware

Mr. Bultitude could scarcely believe his ears. His secret was discovered, then; the injury done him by Dick about to be repaired, and open restitution and apology offered him! was not, perhaps, precisely delicate on the doctor's part to make so public an affair of it, but, so long as it ended well, he could afford to overlook that. So he settled himself comfortably on a form with his back against a desk, and his legs crossed, his expression indicating plainly that he knew what was coming, and, on the whole, ap-"Ever since I have devoted myself to the cause of tuition." continued the doctor, "I have made it my object to provide boys under my roof with fare so abundant and so palatable that they extraneous luxuries. I have presided myself at their meals, I have superintended their very sports with a ...therly eye-" Here he paused and fixed one or two of those nearest him with the fatherly eye in such a manner that they writhed in confusion.

"He's wandering from the point," thought Paul, a little puzzled. "I have done all this on one understanding—that the robustness of your constitutions, acquired by the plain, simple, but abundant regimen of my table, shall not be tampered with by the indulgence in any of the pampering products of confectionery. They are absolutely and unconditionally prohibited—as every boy who hears me knows perfectly well!"

"And yet" (here he began gradually to relax his self-restraint and lash himself into a frenzy of indignation), what do I find? There are some natures so essentially base, so incapable of being affected by kindness, so dead to honor and generosity, that tney will not scruple to conspire or set them-selves individually to escape and baffle the wise precautions uncertaken for their benefit. I will not name the dastards at present-they themselves can look into their hearts and see their guilt reflected there-"

At this every boy, beginning to se the tendency of his denunciations, tried hard to ssume an air of conscious innocence and grieved interest, the maority leving conspicuous failure.
"I do not like to think," said Dr. Grimstone; "Cornelius Coggs-stand existence than I yet know of. It may so; nothing will surprise me now There may be some before me trembling with the consciousness of secret of so, let those boys make the mselves up in an honorable

"Then let the being—for I will not

Pandora, so runs the myth, let all the ills of life out of her box to prey upon mankind, but shut the cover soon enough to prevent the escape of hope. Hope remains to every sufferer but it is only an ignis-fatuus unless it takes on some tangible form. The hope of recovery is treasured by every one who suffers from weak or bleeding lungs, obstinate and lingering cough, bronchitis or similar ailments, which, if neglected, or unskilfully treated lead on to consumption. That hope becomes a practical and tan-gible thing when it is based on the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Such a hope is reasonable because thousands of men and women emaciated and weakened by disease have been made sound and well by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery.' Sick people are invited to consult Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.. by letter. All letters are carefully and considerately read and answered. Each letter is held as a sacred confidence and every answer is mailed in a plain envelope without any printing upon it. Write without fear and without fee.

"I was taken sick in July last year, and was not able to do any kind of work until November." writes Mr. Noel W. Orvin. of Langley, Aiken Co., S. C. "Had been coughing up small, hard lumps of phlegm for about a year before I was taken down. I then called on a doctor, who attended me for two months, and said that one half of my left lung was gone, and advised me to leave my home (Charleston, S. C.), and go to the country, go to the country, but did not say what sort of disease I had. I thought it was consumption, and wrete to you for advice. I took four bottles of Ductor Pierre's Doctor Pierce's

The quiet little village began to assume a business appearance shortly after noon, when the farmers, accompanied by their families, commenced to arrive, and everyone seemed to enjoy the social side of the gathering, which, after all, is the strongest and most attractive feature of the fall fairs to those outside the exhibiting class. A reference to the prize list below will show the classes to have been rather scantily filled, there being, in many cases, no competitors whatever By four o'clock the goods were near-ly all removed from the main building as well as the grounds, and people commenced going home. The speeding caused but little excitement, as there is no track on Small's pasture, where the fair is held, and no records stand a chance of being demolished. Oaks had his sulky broken by J. H. Fisher, who ran into him, preparatory to the race, and was forced to use an oldtime vehicle

Mrs. B. Getty came from St. Marys to win in the lady drivers' contest, and handled the ribbons well. Miss Burwell also demonstrated she knew how to handle a horse.

W. E. Sawyer has been secretary of the society for 36 years, a record not approached by another official in the country. He says this year is his last. Mr. Sawyer has been a good officer, and his friends, who know his value, will hardly allow him to retire. The races resulted as follows:

Farmers' speeding race or trot, for horses never having won public money: Oaks first, Tull second, Phillips third, Chalecroft fourth. Trotting race for green horses, never having competed for public money: Oaks first, Paisley second, Pierce

A Pain Remedy. For over fifty years this wonderful remedy has proved itself the best, safest and surest antidote for pain in the world.

The True Relief. Radway's Ready Relief

For Internal and External Use.

In using medicines to stop pain, we should avoid such as inflict injury on the system. Opium, Morphine, Chloroform, Ether, Cocaine and Chloral stop pain by destroying the sense of perception, the patient lesing the power of feeling. This is a most destructive practice; it masks the symptoms, shuts up, and, instead of removing trouble, breaks down the stomach, liver and bowels, and if continued for a length of time, kills the nerves and produces local or general paralysis.

There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like RAD-WAY'S READY RELIEF will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the least danger in either infant or adult.

It instantly stops the most excruciating pains, allows informations.

It instantly stops the most exeruciating pains, allays inflammation and cures congestions, whether of the Lunge, Stomach, Bowels or other glands or mucous membranes.

PAIN CURED IN AN INSTANT

No matter how violent or excruciating the pains the Rhounatic, Bed-ridden, Infirm, Crippled, Nervous, Neuralgio or prostrated with disease may suffer.

Radway's Ready Relief Will Afford Instant Ease. A CURE FOR

Summer Complaints, Dysentery, Diarrhoea,

Cholera Morbus. A half to a teaspoonful of Ready Relief in a half tumbler of water, repeated as often as the discharges continue, and a fiannel saturated with Ready Relief placed over the stomach and bowels will afford immediate relief and soon

No bad after effects (which are invariably the sequel of dosing with opium, etc.), will follow the use of Radway's Ready Relief, but the bowels will be left in a healthy, normal condi-

A ha.f to a teaspoonful in half a tumbler of water will, in a few minutes, cure Cramps, Spasns, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Nervous-ness, Sleeplessness, Sick Headache, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Flatulency and all internal pages.

MALARIA,

Chills and Fever, Fever and Ague Conquered.

Radway's Ready Relief Not only cures the patient seized with this terrible foe to settlers in newly-settled districts, where the Malaria or Ague exists, but if people exposed to it will, every morning on getting out of bed, take twenty or thirty drops of the Ready Relief in a glass of water, and eat, say, a cracker, they will escape attacks. This must be done before going cut.

There is not a remedial agent in the world that will cure Fever and Ague and all other malarial, billous and other fevers, aided by RADWAY'S PILLS, so quickly as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

FREE TO MEN.

THE writer will send, absolutely free the formula which restored him to vigorous health after suffering for years from the effects of the follies of youth, which caused a failure of the vital forces, and nervous exhaustion. If you are really in need of treatment. I will gladly send the formula free to weak, suffering men. Geo. McIntyre, Box O-12, Fort Erie, Ont.
