Friends in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 29 .- Derelict and erphaned, his mind darkened by his terrible experiences, a boy of 15 drifted of grinding poverty, strikes and sudden death and the dreaded power of the "boss." With $20 in his pocket he started out in childlike faith to obey his mother's last words: "I want you to get away from here, Johnny; take this money, travel around the world, and then go to a university and be educated." When he presented himself at the university and told what his mother had said, his sad story reached sympathetic ears. W. E. Whaley, assistant dean of the Southside Academy, connected with the university, took charge of him, found him a home, and has undertaken the task of educating him. Mme. It was shown by Chief Engineer Waters that it would take just as long to give temporary relief as it would to advertise for a complete sysstem for the purification of the water coming from the hydrants. In order to prevent the spread of typhoid fever the board of education will close the faucets and fountains. Just how long it will be before pure water can be given the school children is a matter of contractors, the advertising of bids and the awarding of contracts. Chief Engineer Waters is in despair. "It will take weeks even to adopt temporary measures," he said yesterday. "Suppose we boil the water. We must have apparatus. We have the heat, but we have no tanks for boiling drinking water. We are compelled to advertise for bids for everything and the letting of them. The delivery of bottled water to every school in the city daily would be an impossible task. The only thing to do is to shut off the present supply from the city mains and then work out a permanent plan for the purification of the water.'

POULTRY FOR EXPORT

Arrangements for Six Government Chicken-Fattening Stations.

Ottawa, Aug. 28 .- Mr. Frank C. Hare, head of the poultry fattening branch, department of agriculture, returned department shows that the disbursethis morning from a tour of the Mari-time Provinces. He reports that arrangements have been made for the establishment of six chicken fattening stations in Prince Edward Island, and one each in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. They will commence operations about the 10th of September, each station being provided with crates for fattening from 500 to 1,000 chickens. Three lots of chickens will be fattened, four weeks being allowed to elapse between each lot. It is expected that 15,000 chickens will be fattened this year, or more, if suitable birds can be obtained. They will be exported from Charlottetown on the steamship Manchester Commerce and disposed of at Manchester. The six stations to be established on Prince Edward Island will buy every suitable chicken which is produced there, and as a record of the cost of feed and transportation will be kept by the fatteners, it is hoped that this illustration of export trade will eventually lead to large firms handing the Maritime chicken export business. At the present time the bulk of the chickens in the Maritime Provinces are being consumed on the Sydney, Cape Breton.

The bride leans upon such a pillow as would ornament the home of a millionaire. It is of white satin, but so covered with gold embroidery as to nearly hide the ma-terial. Upon the floor are rugs as soft as silk.

As is the custom of the Syrians, the bride and groom sit grave and im-purturbable upon their dais. They do not talk, they do not smile while their guests make merry before them. They rise when a guest enters the room, and they rise when one departs; but that is all. The bride was clad in a beautiful native wedding dress. It did not differ greatly from the American mode. It was of a soft, clinging material, blue in color. Around her shoulders was worn a beautiful lace and embroidered shawl, and upon her head was a wreath of white flowers. The groom wore the conventional American dress.

DAINTIES FROM SYRIA. In and out among the guests went relatives of the bridal couple. They bore trays filled with dainties imported from Syria. There were strange mony. MUSIC AND DANCING. Most of the afternoon and evening was spent in singing and dancing. Music was provided by instruments of a weird pattern. ARNOTT WHITE TRAVELS AT LONG BRANCH RANGES

Part of Ontario.

Little New Light on the Evans & Sons | Leading Scores in City of Toronto and Warehouse Mystery.

Toronto, Aug. 28 .- Further news of Arnott White, the young shipper who gave up his position at Evans & Sons' warehouse about two weeks ago, has been obtained, but it throws little light on his present whereabouts. White, Ridley, and they traveled together as a better day could not be desired. far as Thornton, Ont., via Allandale. There Ridley became uneasy, and made his way back to this city. tinued on his way to Hamilton, presumably in an effort to reach Chicago. He turned up a day or two later, however, at Toronto Juncton. He met in that town George Kendrick, who lives with his father in the rear of 120 Portland street. According to the story which Kendrick has told, he and White decided to go out on a tour of Western Ontario. They traveled on freight trains occasionally, but they covered some parts of the territory on foot. Kendrick had some money, and he paid whatever expenses were incurred, as White's exchequer has been exhausted. The pair traveled as far as Detroit, and then decided to come back to Canada. They made their way to Glencoe, where they arrived at the end of last week, and the expedition had discouraged them. When Kendrick awoke after his night's slumber at Glencoe he found that White had disappeared again. He worked his way back on Monday, and says that he does not know where White is now. Arnott White's family say that they have had no word from him. Kendrick says that White refused to discuss the happenings at the Evans warehouse, but seemed to think that the police were searching for him.

COLOSSAL MEAT COMBINE

To Control the World's Trade-Argen-'ne Capitalists In It.

London, Aug. 29.-The London Times says Edward and William V. Casey, of Buenos Ayres, with the assistance of British capital are organizing a combine of refrigerating, packing and cattle-growing interests of the Argentine Republic, with a view to joining hands with the Chicago packing trust, to control the meat trade of the world. They believe when such an amalgamation has been effected United States and Argentina will be able to dictate the price of food wherever a human family depends on pork and beef for sustenance.

Edward Casey yesterday said: "The United States is at present the world's butcher, but the increasing demands of its own population and the decreasing supply of cattle will eventually force the American packers to devote themselves exclusively to the home market. Then will be the time that Argentina will demonstrate the inexhaustible productiveness of its virgin soil. Whether we ally ourselves with the Americans trust or not, we shall certainly give it a fight for a profitable British market. for a profitable British market which is dependent on North and South American meat for nine months of the year. The chilled meats of Argentina and the United States can be sold in Great Britain at a profit of 60 per cent, while the demand constantly ex-

AN IRISH TERRIER'S VIGILANCE

Probably the Means of Saving Life-Brave Rescues Made-Incendiary Blaze.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 29.-If it had not been for the Irish terrier Jack the four-story brick flat at 738 Quincy street, corner of Quincy street and Reid avenue, would probably be now a heap of calcined brick and mortar, and there might have been two or three tragedies to record. The dog is the property of Wilbur Smith, who, with his wife and three children, occupy the second flat, over Armstrong's grocery store.

Mr. Smith was in Manhattan on business the previous night. His wife and children were alone in their flat. At 12:15 Mrs. Smith was aroused from a deep sleep by the terrific howling of her dog Jack, who was chained in her coal bin in the cellar.

Mrs. Smith went to the dumbwaiter shaft, intending to shout down and quiet the animal, and opened it. A cloud of thick smoke, smelling strongly of kerosene, puffed out in her face. Half suffocated, she staggered back and screamed at the top of her voice,

"FIRE! FIRE!"

William Van Dorn, a colored employe of Trainor's Hotel, heard Mrs. Smith's screams, and ran to the house. From the window of her apartments Mrs. Smith explained hysterically the cause of her agitation, and Van Dorn ran back to the corner of Gates and Reid avenues, and turned in an alarm. Van Dorn ran back again to the house and into the cellar, where he first unfastened the dog, and then paid his attention to a large heap of burning wood and paper, which had been saturated with kerosene and piled up in the middle of the cellar against a wooden post, which had also caught fire and had communicated the flames to the beams overhead. Van Dorn kicked the burning pieces of wood in a dozen different directions, about the cement floor, where they burned separately and were harmless, but the flames along the post and the wooden ceiling continued to spread in alarming fashion. The smoke was so dense that Van Dorn was driven to the open

TENANTS IN PANIC.

Meanwhile the tenants of the flats were paniestricken. They could not make their escape through the smokefilled halls, and they gathered at the windows and shrieked. When the firemen from the Quincy street engine house, only a block and a half away, arrived, every window was filled with terrified women and children, and from the lower windows poured volumes of smoke which obscured the fire escapes and precluded escape in that direction.

The firemen rigged up ladders in a very short time, and ascending came down in a short while with women and children in their arms. A COLORED HERO.

The colored man, Van Dorn, worked like a real hero. Regardless of the apparent danger, he dashed up through the smoke of the stairways to the third floor, where there was an old lady named Harman. When he got there he found the woman had fainted. and picking her up in his arms he carried her back again through the smoke to the street.

Van Dorn next rushed up to the apartments occupied by a Mrs. Wilcox, whom he found in a state of nervous distraction, and picking her up bodily carried her down. The firemen had meanwhile extinguished the fire in the cellar, without much trouble. The damage was insignificant. "The wood was no doubt piled in the cellar by firebugs," said Mr. Smith in the morning. "It was saturated with kerosene, and had not my dog given the warning there might have been a holocaust. The tenants are talking of presenting Jack with a new collar.

got, and he diagnosed my case as uterine trouble tending to dropsy. Medicine seemed to do me no good. I lingured between life and death for quite a while, every day growing weaker until I could not walk cross the room. My friends were looking for my death every minute. A friend wrote and told me about Dr. R. V. Pierce, and I at once wrote to him for medical advice. He replied immediately, giving me full instructions as to what to do. I at once followed his advice, and when I had taken his medicine about a week feit a good deal stronger. When I had taken it about one month I felt as strong as I do to-day. I took four bottles of each kind and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.' Many thanks for the medicine, It has permanently cured me."
