JOHNSON'S WORK BEATS THE TIGER'S Chicago Responsible For the First

Stroud Pitches His Best Since Joining Detroit Team But Loses Out.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Washington, D. C., May 27.—Though he pitched the best game of ball in which he has figured since joining the Detroit club, Ralph Stroud was forced to see a defeat chalked up against his name today, because the Tigers could do nothing with Walter Johnson. The score was 2 to 1 against Detroit, whose sole tally was due to a daring bit of base-running by Owen Bush, which coaxed a wild throw by Unglaub. As a result Bush went all the way from first base to the home the way from first base to the home plate on a short grounder that Sam Crawford hit to Conroy.

Bush had secured one of the only two hits that Detroit got off Johnson. The other was made by Moriarty to open the fifth, but was followed by a double play. Delehanty walked in the second and Delehanty walked in the second, and was forced by Moriarty. These were the only Detroiters to get on, and Bush, when he scored, was the only Tiger to pass first base. The score:

EAGER TO RETIRE AS CHAMPION WRESTLER, FRANK GOTCH IS TRAINING HARD FOR HIS MATCH WITH THE GIANT POLE

GOTCH AT WEIGHTS

CHAMPION WORKING FOR THE DEADLY TOE HOLD. [Special Correspondence.]

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28--Champion Frank Gotch will be in great shape for Zbyszko, the Polish giant, when they wrestle for the world's championship, the latter part of this month. The champion is in training here for the match and he is rounding into excellent condition. Gotch came here about a month ago weighing about 222 pounds. He was "hog fat," for Gotch, when in the best possible shape, never tips the beam over 205 pounds. A few days ago the king of grapplers weighed 210 pounds. His wind is right up to standard and his enduring powers as great as ever. The big fellow is there on the speed thing, and when going through his routine of work in the gymnasium is as fast on his feet as the average lightweight boxer. Gotch realizes that Zbyszko is a big, tough fellow, and will leave no stone unturned to be fit for the fight of his life when he steps onto the mat with the roly-poly Galician, I saw Gotch in his matches with Geo. Hack-enschmidt and Yussiff Mahmout. I have known Frank for the past six years and have followed his wrestling career closely. He looks to be in better condition today than ever before in his life. Gotch is bigger, stronger and faster than when he met the "Russion lion" and the Turk. He is right at the height of his career.

The champion announces that his match with Zbyszko will be his last, and he intends to go out of the wrestling business with a fitting finale to his great career. Gotch knows too much wrestling for the Pole, and I think that it is just a question of how long the foreigner can stall the Humboldt farmer. Gotch arises every morning at 7:30 o'clock. He partakes of a light breakfast consisting of poached eggs and milk. Then he hits the road for tweeve miles. He jogs along, occasionally sprinting for a hundred yards or so. The "champ" carries light dumbbells in his hands. Now and then Frank stops running and goes through several minutes of shadow boxing. At other intervals he grabs his running mate and roughs matters with him. Returning from his run dripping with perspiration, Gotch takes a shower bath and a rubdown. Then the champion rests until 12:30, when he begins work in the gymnasium. He starts off the gym stunts with five or six games of hand ball. Following the hand ball Gotch skips rope for about ten minutes, and then does about five minutes of shadow boxing. Next comes fifteen minutes of limbering up on the chest weights. Throwing the medicine ball occupies about ten minutes' time, and after thumping the punching bag for a few minutes Gotch

Henry Ordeman, the Minneapolis heavyweight wrestler, whom Gotch thinks is the best American grappler outside of himself, is the champion's chief wrestling partner. He and Gotch struggle for about twenty minutes, and then Frank tackles Paul Mortenson, a Danish heavyweight grappler from Chicago. After tussling with Mortenson for about twenty minutes Gotch goes to the mat with "Young Miller," the world's welterweight champion. Miller is a powerful little fellow, and is lightning fast. Working with Miller speeds up the Iowan. Following fifteen minutes of tugging and hauling with Miller, Gotch "kids" with a couple of lightweights for about ten minutes.

This ends the day's work, and after another shower bath and rubdown Gotch dresses and strolls around the city for about an hour. At 6 o'clock, to the minute, the champion sits down to his evening meal and packs away a huge steak and vegetables, Eleven o'clock finds the wrestling marvel in the hay for a well-earned

New York, May 27.—William Lewis made the mistake of his fighting career early in the second round of his bout with Stanley Ketchel at the National Sporting Club tonight. Sporting Club tonight.

He kidded himself into the belief that it was safe for him to swap punches with the middleweight champion. Then his seconds had to carry the Lewis boy to his corner and work over him some five minutes before he recovered consciousness.

A snappy right hook on the point of the jaw terminated the fracas. During the first period few blows had started and the fingers of one hand would suffice to count the number that landed. Willie Ketchel needed no assistance from the referee to shake Lewis off, but Willie came right back again for the holding stunt, and the round was tame and un satisfactory.

During the intermission Dan Ketrick

During the intermission Dan Ketrick whispered in Willie's ear that Ketchel could not hurt him; that the Michigan Lion had lost his punch and here was a chance to make the name of Lewis famous. Willie gave heed, hence the fatal error. After landing a smart left on the face that shook Ketchel to his heels, Lewis discarded his caution. He whiped over a right that grazed the chin. What Lewis forgot was that Ketchel has to take a couple of stingers before he remembers that he is in the fight. As soon as Stanley discovered the lay of the land he woke up. A left swing, with a kick in it, missed Lewis' head by a fraction of an inch, but the right hook that followed he woke up. A left swing, with a kick in it, missed Lewis' head by a fraction of an inch, but the right hook that followed fell full on the jaw. Lewis crumpled uprather than fell to the canvas, turning completely around as he collapsed.

As he lay on his back, with arms outstretched, Referee O'Rourke made a sort stretched, Referee O Rourke made a sort of pretense of counting him out, but hesitated at "five" and bent over the inert form. Then he motioned for the seconds and they bore Willie to his corner and applied restoratives until he rallied for a moment, but collapsed again. Ketchel, always calm and collected, walked slowly street from his own corner and offered. assistance. He was plainly worried; so was Tom O'Rourke. Lewis, however, came to in a few minutes, and was none the worse for the encounter.

JEFFRIES SURPRISES FRISCO IN EXHIBITION

Undefeated Champion Given Great Reception at Public Boxing Bout Last Night.

San Francisco, May 28.—Giving his second public boxing exhibition since he began training, and making what he said before the big fight on July 4, James J. Jeffries surprised more than 2,000 enthusiastic ring followers by his apparently excellent condition and speed when he boxed three rounds with his brother Jack, and three rounds with Joe Choynski at Dreamland Rink last night.

The fighter was fast and snappy in the state of t The fighter was fast and snappy in action, and surprisingly quick on his feet. This, with his appearance, the absence of his big stomach and every indication that his training has put him in fine form, made a very favorable impression upon the crowd, which howled itself hoarse with approval. The only adverse comment heard was that he "looked older." Jeffries received a tremendous ovation when he entered the ring. A few min-utes later James Corbett came in.

"Gentleman Jim" was greeted even more vociferously than Jeffries. The latter was in an unusually pleasant mood, and playfully chased Corbett around the ing.

Go More Than Fifteen Rounds.
Corbett denies a report that he predicted Johnson would not last more than fifteen rounds. He is of the opinion, he says, that the fight will go much longer than that.
Although Corbett, according to his own declaration, has not come to California to take charge of Jeffries' training, it is generally believed that plans of the former champion for a revision of the work will be adopted, and that Corbett will yield great influence for the regulation of the Ben Lomond programme. He has some decided views as to the style of training Jeffries should follow in his preparation for his fight with Johnson. He says he has thoroughly analyzed Johnson's methods, and that it is highly essential for Jeffries to school himself to a form of fighting best adapted to meet the negro's tactics. "And," he said last night, "it's fighting and boxing that Jeffries requires from now on."

RACE TRACK GAMBLING DOOMED IN N. Y. STATE

Two Bills Put Through at Albany Yesterday Lack Only Governor's Signature.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Albany, N.Y., May 27.—The final blow to racing in this state was struck today when the Legislature passed two more of the so-called anti-oral betting bills which have been urged by Governor Hughes to make effective the Agnew-Hart bills forced through an extra session by him two years ago. The bills now lack only the governor's signature.
One of the bills passed today was introduced by Assemblyman Perkins, of Broome County. It makes directors of racing associations criminally liable for violation of the anti-gambling laws on their race tracks. This bill, horsemen declare, will fairly seal the doom of racing, and will prevent the opening of the tracks in this state. It passed the senate governor's signature.

tracks in this state. It passed the senate by a vote of 28 to 15.

The second bill, introduced by Senator Agnew, and already passed by the Upper House, is the "oral betting" bill proper. It prohibits the laying of odds either with or without writing. This bill was put through the Assembly today by a vote of 92 to 45.

Every Yale Motorcycle

Carries a satisfied rider. The Yale is the Motorcycle that gets you there and back.

There are a number of satisfied riders in Toronto who will verify this fact. C. F. Orr, 208 Sherbourne street, says: "After riding over 700 miles in two weeks, I have found my Yale will do all and more than you claimed. The engine has never stalled on the steepest hills. I rode a mile in 1 minute 20 seconds on the Exhibition track, but owing to the corners of the track not being banked, could not attain full speed. The average cost for repairs for 1909 was 291/2 cents."

The 1910 model bids fair to break this record. Write HORACE WALLER, 700 Spadina Ave., Toronto. Ask me about my special offer. Some agents wanted for a live proposition. Catalogue on request.
