March 4.—Tomorrow's Speech in a long article on the Russo-Japanese war in the London Times, especially the relations between Russia and Great Britain.

Russian feeling of resentment that Britain is steadily rising, and being counted on to have been the chief cause of the war, without considering that there is any truth in this view.

It is a fact that it is held in Russia that the public opinion in this state of excitement with Great Britain would be popular.

ing to explain why the military should try to escape the light of a possible defeat by a snail, the Spectator remarks: "European war was the result of the Japanese war. A pop would cover up an unpopular war by a popular one."

According to the Spectator, then in Russia believe that Great Britain would be company with the Russian and would present no risk to the brunt of the fighting on France and Germany.

ies could be taken in the the British being victorious, the Russian fleet has been to Britain could not inflict in Asia."

ector proceeds to warn the not giving Russia occasion for quarrel, especially referring to the Russian anti-Russian tone of the press, and the impression of which it declares is difficult to even understand.

concludes with urging to the right to begin a new era, prepared for all emergencies, and to prepare to take the of the Japanese alliance. One consequence was the active hostility of Russia and the afforded to the German Emperor the heads of the Europe together and secured advantage to his own nation."

Confirmation Of the Landing

For Three Days Large Force of Japanese Landed on Shan Tung.

Russian Boat as Well as One of Attacking Squadron Reported Sunk.

London, March 5.—Despatches to the London Daily Chronicle, purporting to come from Shanghai, state that, from missionary information received there via Tientsin, the northernmost point in the Shan Tung peninsula, the Japanese landed in force for three days beginning on February 25. According to the Chronicle's alleged roundabout information, a Russian warship engaged the Japanese vessels employed in the landing, the engagement taking place between the Miao Tsu Islands and Port Arthur. One of the Japanese warships was sunk, as was the Russian warship. Chinese troops picked up two hundred Japanese from the water, but none of the drowning Russians were recovered.

The Chronicle's Shanghai despatch, if it is, is discredited here. It is pointed out that the last authentic accounts from Port Arthur showed that the Russian warship, or has been, outside the harbor to more than a reconnoitering distance. Moreover, there is no credible reason why the Japanese should land a force in the Shan Tung peninsula in wholly hostile territory and a distance all the way around the Gulf of Pechili from Port Arthur. The Miao Tsu Islands are off Tientsin, across the Strait of Pechili from Port Arthur.

WINNIPEG HOCKEY.

Winnipeg, March 4.—The Brandon hockey team left here this evening for Ottawa, where they play next week for the Stanley cup.

Japanese Show Great Forethought

Allow Contraband to Land at Vladivostok For Their Own
Subsequent Use.

Russian Northern Squadron Still Remains Inactive In Port.

Tokio, March 4.—It is evident that several vessels laden with coal, iron, and other contraband of war, have recently effected the passage of the Tsushima Straits and succeeded in reaching Vladivostok. Their exact number and names are unknown, but it is stated that they included British, Norwegian and German vessels. Two of them are said to have carried cargoes of Australian coal. Japan evidently refrained from making a special effort to prevent their passage, and it is not possible that she calmly permitted the delivery of the contraband goods, calculating that they would prove useful to do.

Today was one of the most important settling days of the year. The banks report returns as being most unsatisfactory on account of the large notes outstanding being met very slowly. Requests for delay were based upon various reasons, but it would appear that payments throughout the country are becoming very slow. Witnesses report that it is very difficult for them to get money from their customers.

The Montreal and St. Lawrence railway today notified its connections that, for the present, the operation of trains would be suspended. The line runs between St. Lambert and Sorel, and has been having some trouble keeping the wages of its employees paid for some time. H. A. Hodge, of Montreal, vice president of the road, was in the city today endeavoring to effect some arrangement.

WORST WINTER IN MANY YEARS

Typing Experiences of the Residents of Eastern Canada and Northwest.

This has been a record winter throughout Eastern Canada and the Northwest Territories, both for the severity of the cold and the amount of snowfall. In Ontario, where the temperature is usually moderate, it has been very low, and the average since the beginning of the year has been considerably below zero. In the Northwest it has been almost unbearable. People living at a distance of only nine or ten miles from towns have been prevented from making that short journey for a month at a time, and it was only taken because of absolute necessity. The snow has been so deep that the Territories state that in one instance where the thermometer was capable of registering 60 degrees below zero, the mercury was out of sight every morning at seven o'clock for three weeks in succession. The severe cold has resulted in many people deciding to come out to British Columbia, where the climate is less rigorous, and where good farming lands are available.

The snow in Ontario has tied up railroads. On February 17th every train entering Montreal was cancelled, and communication was cut off from the city. Near Ottawa a train was blocked; it was covered up until only the smokestack of the engine was visible. A few miles outside of London, Ontario, three engines which went to work on the snow for several days. Branch lines of the Grand Trunk were driven right to their own doors by these frozen brutes. It is a large lumber mill which is being used as a shelter for the poor classes in Toronto.

Washington, March 4.—Interest in the investigation before the senate committee on privileges and elections on the charges against Senator Smoot, Utah, was unabated today, although the time was devoted to the introduction of documents subscribed to as the law of the Mormon church. In the afternoon President Joseph Smith, who again was on the stand, testified that if the principle of plural marriage was applied to the whole world, it would be defended by the church.

Intense feeling was exhibited by President Smith against individuals who, he said, had quailed on the domestic and marital relations of the high officers of the Mormon church, and for that reason he had favored the passage of the Evans bill to prevent prosecution for polygamous cohabitation. He said that he was not a lawbreaker, and that he was not a lawbreaker, and that he was not a lawbreaker.

Should Abandon Port Arthur For Its

London Times Military Expert
In Accord with General
Dragomiroff.

Decision to Hold the Fortress a Parallel with Historical Mistakes.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE LONDON TIMES AND VICTORIA COLONIST.
London, March 5.—The military expert of the Times regards the advice of General Dragomiroff that Russia evacuate Port Arthur as thoroughly sound. Gen. Dragomiroff, he says, is a man of great military experience, and his advice is based on a thorough knowledge of the fortress and its surroundings. He is a man of great military experience, and his advice is based on a thorough knowledge of the fortress and its surroundings.

"But," says the Times expert, "a proud military empire should consent to such a withdrawal only if it is expected for a moment. For Napoleonic strokes and Napoleonic decisions, the first requirement is a Napoleon. Frederick of Prussia could not decide to abandon the fortress, and fall back on the defensive with all his forces. Napoleon, on the other hand, left all his siege works and batteries at Mantua, and he was in the field to meet the relieving army in the field, and he was in the field to meet the relieving army in the field."

"Russia was not prepared to accept the full consequences of her failure, and by clinging to the useless fortress from motives of military vanity, she is preparing for herself an anticipation far worse than that of Lady Smith, with far less excuse and with open eyes."
