MINISTER DISCUSSES HIS WIFE'S TROUBLES

Rev. A. H. Spence, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Montreal, says: "After seeing what trouble is accomplished in my wife's case, I am convinced that it is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have seen anything give such prompt results. Mrs. Spence has been in delicate health for ten years, suffering from stomach trouble and nervous breakdowns.
"I frequently sought medical advice but found it the only thing that gave her any relief. After taking the medicine only a short time, she was able to sit up and help with the household duties. I think it only a short time until her health will be fully restored." Tablets are sold in Campbellton by THOMAS WILSON, Druggist, and leading druggists everywhere.

THE KIDNAPPERS DROWNED VICTIM

New York, Aug. 20.—Robert Raffale, of Union Hill, N. J., was convicted by a jury last night of the murder of five-year-old Giuseppe Varotto, who was kidnapped May 24 and was drowned by his captors in the Hudson River. The disappearance was followed by letters demanding a ransom of $2,500 and containing threats to kill the boy unless the money was paid promptly.
Four men with Raffale were arrested in the neighborhood of the Varotto home and with two others, still unapprehended, were indicted on charges of murder when the boy's body was found floating in the Hudson River, near Piermont, ten days after the kidnapping.

FIRST ACADIAN GRAND VICAR

Interesting History of Acadian Family By Campbellton Writer.
(Moncton Transcript).
Abbe Melanson, curé of Campbellton, N. B., well known in the literary world, has written an admirable biography of Mathurin Bourg, the first Canadian priest and Grand Vicar of Acadia for some years. This interesting contribution to Acadian, and Canadian history has recently been published by L'Imprimerie Populaire of Rimouski, Que.; the present edition is printed in French, but it is to be hoped that an English translation will be available before long, because it would be read with interest by the English speaking people of the Maritime provinces in particular and by Canadians generally. Mr. Chasson, Bishop of Chatham, N. B., has contributed an interesting preface to the book.
Mathurin Bourg, the first Acadian to attain the dignity of the priesthood, was born at Grand Pré in the land of Evangeline in 1744. When the Acadians were expelled young Bourg with his family were placed on a vessel, which set sail for Virginia. But for some reason her destination was changed and she proceeded to Bristol, England, where her passengers were held as prisoners of war. For eight years the Bourg family lived in prison camps, and during this time young Mathurin learned English, an accomplishment which enabled him to render many good services to his compatriots in later years. When peace was finally declared between England and France the Bourg family, along with other Acadians, held in England, went to Brittany and Normandy. But they were no longer content with old France and being homesick for the hills and dunes of Acadia, made their way back to the provinces as opportunity offered. Young Bourg, however, had resolved to become a priest, and he stayed on in Old France for some years, studying at the College of Brittany and later at the Seminary of Paris. In 1772 he returned to Canada and on September 17 of that year he was ordained priest at the Hotel Dieu in Montreal. Mr. Bourg, the aged Bishop of Quebec, who then had general oversight of French Catholics throughout the Canadian provinces, was much pleased to welcome the young Acadian to the priesthood, and assigned him to service among the Acadians. Father Bourg established himself at Tracadie, now known as Carleton, on the North Shore of the Bay Chaleur, and from there he made visits to the Acadian settlements scattered throughout the Maritime provinces—on the St. John River, on St. Mary's Bay, and other points on the Nova Scotia coast. In these journeys he endured many hardships, often knowing hunger, and often being compelled to make camp in the snow. In these labors he spent twenty-three years.
In 1793 the Bishop offered him the charge of the Parish of St. Laurent near Montreal, and this he accepted. But the years of hard labor had told upon him, and after two years of comparative repose in St. Laurent he passed away in his 52nd year.
While the Acadian congress was in session at Church Point, N. S., the French papers of Montreal published lengthy reviews of the biography of Father Bourg.
Recently Abbe Chouinard, present curé of Carleton, initiated a movement to erect a monument in memory of the one time Grand Vicar of Acadia there, and doubtless the worthy project will make a strong appeal to all Acadians. Meantime those who read the excellent biography written by Abbe Melanson will be helping the hospital at Campbellton, N. B., for the proceeds of the sale of the book will go to that institution.
This is the fourth book published by Father A. Melanson. The Rev. gentleman belongs to the Historical Society of Montreal. The proceeds of this last book have been disposed in favor of the Hotel Dieu Hospital.

SEIZE STILLS IN NORTHERN ONTARIO

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Secret seizures of freewater, which has polluted Canadian lands and timber and has trapped and construction gangs in the Forest, not far from a similar thing, have been laid bare by an inspection of several hundred acres of land, and office of the Canadian National Railways in this city. The seizures have been in the district for some weeks, and have not been made public until now. It is a step to the making and sealing of liquor, which was a long time in the making, and the seizures have been the net result of the seizures. The seizures were made by the G. Graham and his department of the G. N. R. secret service.

GREAT RISE IN THE MIRAMICHI RIVER

A great rise in water has been experienced on the Miramichi river, and logs which have been held up at Placerville on account of the lowness of the water have been driven "sauce-fully" into the boom limit at Millerton. The water was of great benefit to the lumbermen.

NEW IMPORTANCE OF DOMINIONS

Commenting on the recent gathering of Empire premiers, the London Times says:
"The war altered the balance of the civilized world, and the Dominions are the main witnesses to that change, with all its hidden consequences. Before the war the British Government could act for the Dominions in foreign affairs without any great risk of misrepresenting them in any serious way. Now, that risk is inherent in almost any action which the British Government may take without recent knowledge of the views on international affairs of the Dominion Governments. It is not that the Dominions under-rate the capacity or the discretion of the Foreign Office. On the contrary, the Dominion Prime Ministers make no secret of their admiration for much of the work that the Foreign Office does as part of its daily routine—administration too little critical, some in this country may think. But peace problems since the war have revealed a difference in grain between the Downing Street view of many international questions and the view, which is natural in Ottawa or in Melbourne, or in Pretoria. Downing-street has a tradition of centuries which thinks of Europe as the pivot of world-events. It is still, no doubt, and to credit Dominion public men with the belief that Great Britain should turn a contemptuous back on European affairs would be to do less than justice to their acumen. But it is true that the war has brought the other continents more to a level of international importance, as compared with the position of absorbed preoccupation with European affairs does need the constant corrective of Dominion conviction of the importance of the world beyond the confines of Europe and its favored Eastern frontiers. If for this reason only, the Dominion Prime Minister should be often here."

BUG JUICE SURE ENOUGH

A Jacksonville, Fla., despatch of July 22, quotes sheriff's deputies of that city as saying that if mosquitoes and their kind were familiar with unsanitary conditions about illicit stills where their favorite brands are produced, they would never take another drink of "white lightning."
The despatch continues:
Deputy Frank Jones discovered a still in the swamp near Jacksonville and he says conditions surrounding this still are typical of other stills found in the vicinity. At the bottom of a well from which was obtained the water used in manufacture of the liquor, reposed a huge water moccasin. The moccasin was a mass of mud and was covered with a layer of water.
