A new industry is being rapidly developed in France, and if you mean to be in the fashion you had better take note in the fashion you had better take note of it at once. Some years ago it was the gentle crocodile which was selected as the fittest animal for providing you with new purses, bags, eigarette cases, boots, shoes and all the rest of leathery knick-knacks. Now it is the elephant that has to give his hide for the same purpose. At Paris even now you can buy a card or eigar case of crocodile hide which has been glorified by a six months' sojourn in a bath of oak bark in the tanner's yard. The price of the little toy is from 15 to 20 guineas, and if you are ambi-15 to 20 guineas, and if you are ambitious enough to wish to purchase a small crocodile valise "and no one there to hinder" you may do so for the sum of from £16 to £100. The tanned elephant skin is also reported to make carpets of unrivaled strength and "of a grand orignality,"—Paris Letter.

Henry A. King & Co.'s special wire from Hubbard, Price & Co., New York: In London to-day the market for American securities opened strong and active with a generally better feeling prevailing under advices from this side of the probably early settlement of the tariff discussion and the better outlook in general business affairs. Later in the day the market was irregular and slightly under the best prices, but still affording a margin for arbitrage transactions. By noon the New York market had become slightly irregular, the weakness of Union Pacific becoming greatly pronounced and the other bankrupt properties sharing in the decline. The effect of the liquidation in Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Atchison was to check the bullish tendency. In the closing hour the market was exceedingly dull and weaker in tone. The continued liquidation of the stock of the roads which are in receivers' hands sapped all the vitality from the remainder of the list.
