

But there, while darkness wrapped the hill,
 The Brownies celebrated still;
 For, pleasures such as this they found
 But seldom in their roaming 'round;
 And with reluctant feet they fled
 When morning tinged the sky with red.

