The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, OF WOMAN

The first shades of the cool, soft twilight are beginning to make a circle of aliver grey in the midst of the halo of light encircling the herizon, the last glory of the departing sun. A couple of nighthawks in search of luckless proy wheel rapidly in widening spirals lill they are almost lost in the dim haze, uttering their pseudiar crics which mingle with the fainter sound of whirring wings and become more audible as they descend, with a swift swoop, upon some bat or small owl that has ventured out under cover of the fast gathering darkness. Under the densely foliaged treeg the twilight deepens into blackness, with occasional gleams of aurora ighted sky through the int lacing branches, while, in the houses opposite, soft, mellow rays begin to stream out through curtained windows, as lamps are, lighted for the evening occupation or pleasure. Gradually the halo disappears as the sun sinks lower and the same uniform tint of bluish grey spreads over the arched done occerting the pears as the sun suks lower and the same uniform tint of blush groy spreads over the arched dome covering the city. Suddenly, through the length and breadth of the streets, stashes the brilliance of the electric light; myriads of scintillating white globes shine like small moons, lighting overy nock and corner, save where a massed group of horse-chestunts interpose their great forms, making a dense patch of black-ness contrasted with the clear white light.

Passing down Jarvis street glimpses are caught now and then through the unshuttered windows of happy family groups, sitting at supper in well-appoint-od dining rooms, delicately shaded lamps shedding soft gleams of light, reseate, saffron or blue, upon snowy damask and gleaming silver and glass, while the rupple of laughter sounds at intervals from out the copy document of the copy do damask and gleaming silver and glass, while the rippio of laughter sounds at intervals from out the open doors. Groups are sitting upon steps and cool overandabs; pretty girls in white duck skirts and dainty blouses; plump matcross in becoming summer silks, paterfamilias in comfortable undress, reading his paper and occasionally glancing benevolently over the top of the page sea a more than usually hilarious burst of youthful glee breaks upon his solemn consideration of the state of the stock market, or the latest phase of affairs in the east. Toronto's young hopefuls, in spic and span bloycle suits that set off square shoulders and shapely calves so distractingly, sit upon the lower steps, awhence they can glance upward into the bright eyes looking down upon them. The sett grey of the sky has given place to an intense indigo blue in which the stars gleam like diamonds set in one great suphire dome; the night breeze occeps in from the lake and sets the trees sighting, as if in content at its cod touch after the intense heat of the midday sun.

Javis street is the happy hunting ground of wheelmen and women, the smooth saphals roadway making an ide stretch along which these spreadway in the same of the rapid glide, and on the pleasure of the rapid glide, and on distracting trolleys to startic one with their wild whir and clarg.

around the windows, attracted by the displays of silks and other gorgeous decoys, they are in no immediate danger of boing entrapped, even supposing them to be possessed of the necessary cash wherewith to propitate the spider. A large crowd is gathered in Richmond street watching the proceedings of a gentleman on a temperaty rostrum whom we at first take to be a cheap Jauk, b.j., or closer inspection, ve discover that he is demonstrating something by means of figures, traced with lightning like rapidity on a sort of blackboard, but what it is we are unable to make out. Possibly the gentleman is a temperance lecturer, positing out the commons sums wasted annually on strong driak by the people of the Dominion, which, it carefully saved, would give every man, woman and child an annual income of ninety five and a half cents, etc., otc., though what possible bonefit could accrue to the possessors of the sand munificent income it is difficult to see. Or perhaps the lecturer is domous-rating the shecking extravagance of the Government, and advocating the Gives of the Government, and advocating the division of enormous sums of money amongst the veters, giving to every man, etc. the sum of $5.60, instead of wasting if ou railroads, canals and local improvements. He may be endeavoring to work the citizens up to a state of freuzy by showing them how the corporation could have given a load of bread to every man, woman, etc. every month for a year if they had not entered into the schome of building the new City Hall and thus waving money which would keep the citizens in fallunce in your substituted.

INTERVIEWED BY THE PATRIOT'S SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

From the Charlotteour Patriot.

The Patriot's special correspondent
"Mac" being in the eastern section of the island on business, heard many complimentary remarks concerning Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills, which appear to be the favorite medicine in all parts of Canada. Among these who are very emphatic in the praise of this medicine is Neil McPhee, J.P., of Glencorredale, and our correspondent determined to call upon, him and ascertain from his own lips his views in the matter. Mr McPhee was found at home, and as he is a very entertaining and intelligent gentieman, our correrepondent was soon "at home" too.
When questioned about the benefits he was reported to have received from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, MM McPhee said:—"About four years neuralgis followed, and I found my self in shattered health generally. I felt very much distressed and discouraged and spent many sleepless nights. I tried several very highly recommended medicines, but received no permanent benefit from any of them. As Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were so highly recommended through the press I thought I would give them a fair trial. After using a few boxes I found they were having the desired effect and I began to find my wonted health and strength gradually returning. I kept on using the pills until I had regained my former vigor and had gained considerable in fieth as well.

Now I consider myself a healthier man and feel as woll as ever I did in my life.
I have to the utmost confidence in the or a server teatment with Dr.
