

Export of United States Origin Goods Controlled Elsewhere in the ECL

3. The Government of the United States has traditionally controlled the export of goods that had their origins in the United States and as such, imposes re-export controls. Exporters are cautioned that some U.S. origin goods, including U.S. origin parts and components incorporated into a finished product, may be subject to U.S. re-export controls. If exporters are uncertain as what re-export controls, if any, might apply to their goods, they should contact the Export Controls Division or the original U.S. supplier for guidance.
4. With respect to paragraphs 2 and 3 above, if GEP No. Ex. 12 is not applicable, or goods of U.S. origin are included elsewhere on the ECL, and in either case an individual export permit is required, exporters may be required to provide a copy of a validated U.S. export licence or verification that the specified goods may be exported to the specified country without the U.S. licence, prior to issuance of an individual export permit. In some cases, the U.S. supplier may impose, as a condition of supplying certain goods, a requirement that the Canadian purchaser seek U.S. re-export approval before exporting the goods from Canada, and regardless of whether the goods have been incorporated into a finished product in Canada.

Export of U.S. Origin Goods: Iran, Cuba, Libya, North Korea, ACL Countries

5. As noted above, all U.S. origin goods defined under Item 5400. of the ECL require an export permit. If these goods are going to Iran, Cuba, Libya or North Korea, or to any country on Canada's Area Control List (ACL), the exporter must apply to EPE/DFAIT for an individual export permit. General Export Permit No. Ex. 12 is not applicable in these circumstances. For more information, contact the Export Controls Division.
