

be observed by y^e troops in all camps, and no person whatever to fire their arms within a mile of y^e camp, but in case of an alarm or their being attacked.

These orders to be read to the men by the commanding officer of each company, and the orders relative to the men of the picquet to be read to them before they are detach'd on y^e out guards by the officers of y^e picquet.

The captains of y^e several Picquetts to be at y^e Field officer of y^e Picquet's tent an hour before retreat beating in order to receive the countersign from him.

All the troops to be compleated this afternoon with the provisions to the 16th inclusive and the waggon and horse drivers to the 26th.

AFTER ORDERS.

Sir Peter Halkett's Grenadiers and the battalion companys of that regiment to march immediately to the crossing of the new and old road, a little beyond where the detachment of seamen are now encamped. They are to encamp there; the Grenadiers camp across the road and the battalion companys according to the present line of encampment covering the advanced wagons. The commanding officers to take care to advance picquets in the same manner and proportion of numbers as ordered in the disposition of march and to take care that his advanced picquets comply with the orders of this day.

The detachment of seamen commanded by Mr Spendelow to be disposed of in such parts of the line as he shall think proper, and their arms and accoutrements are to be carried in whatever waggons he shall appoint.

Three hatchet men of y^e line with their tools to remain constantly with the detachment of seamen, and to receive their orders from Mr Spendelowe.

One Tumbrel with tools to march in the front immediately after Captain Polsons company of