Women's Departments and Exhibits for Women

BY MARGARET L. HART

Glassblowers are a fascinating people, or perhaps it would be more correct to say their productions and the process by which they arrive at them are the things that have the power to hold.

One of the best of Marion Crawford's stories deals with the art, and the best thing on the Midway of our National Exhibition is the enclosure where the glassblowers ply their trade. Men and women are engaged in evolving the many beautiful and dainty vases, urns, balls, miniature ships, utensils and marvelous birds of Paradise by means of the heat from the blowpipe and the long tubes of glass lying piled on the table beside the workers. Women stood by in as great numbers as men watching the process yesterday.

For about ten minutes we followed the movements of one of the workers while he held the glass tube, heated it, turned it rapidly in the blaze with deft, certain fingers, then burnt spots here and there upon it by means of other long colored tubes, and finally blew it into the bowl part of a vase. The last step was to attach a prettily turned handle. This was done while the heated material had the appearance of a white adhesive liquid, which hardened into permanent shape almost before the worker had lifted the implement with which he worked it.

Patience Needed. "Does it take long to acquire skill in this work?" The World enquired of a woman who was engaged on the model of a ship. When first observed she had just two cross pieces of glass and something that resembled a little bead trimming about the centre, but in a few minutes she had evolved a ship, perfect in sails, mast, and other paraphernalia.

"It depends," she said in answer to our query. "Many could never learn. They begin and work at it a week and then give it up. There are others whom we never could have the patience to teach, at least at first, and her face gave evidence that she had met some who had been impatient bachelors at the delicate craft.

"It took me two years to learn that turn," she continued, pointing to a knot in the glass, "two years and it seemed to me it was a lifetime." Then we moved to where they were spinning. All have heard the expression "as fine as spun glass." It is necessary to see the spinners at work and the fine hair-like, silvery substance they produce to appreciate the phrase.

A girl burnt the glass tube at the blow pipe, and when it was sufficiently heated to liquify, she drew it from the flame, bringing with her a thread of the glass like white taffy. This broke two or three times before connection was made with the wheel. After several trials success came and the wheel, buzzed round, worked by the man at the other end. The glass thread wound itself about the wheel and her face gave evidence that she was in sections, like skeins of silk, to the spectators.

The birds of Paradise shown here are made by the proprietor. He acquired the art in Germany, and those who work with him are best able to appreciate the dexterity of his handiwork are loud in admiration. "What is his name?" we asked the man who did the spinning. "His name is Mr. Johns—Mr. O. H. Johns—and he can do anything." And anything that he can do is a game. It was further down the Midway that the crowds gathered in greatest numbers. The battle sign boards in some cases were, monstrosities in their hideousness and one wondered what force prompted the thousands who passed thru the many gates into the tents and booths on the other side.

Hard to Understand. It is possible to understand the spirit of adventure which instigates so many to try their hand at a game which they can do anything. And anything that he can do is a game. It was further down the Midway that the crowds gathered in greatest numbers. The battle sign boards in some cases were, monstrosities in their hideousness and one wondered what force prompted the thousands who passed thru the many gates into the tents and booths on the other side.

LIQUOR SPOTTERS GIVEN SENTENCE

Miller and Rouleau Will Spend Six Months in Central Prison.

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Sept. 5.—(Special).—Frank Miller and Frank Rouleau, the two liquor spotters in the employ of the provincial license department at South Porcupine, were sentenced to six months each at hard labor in the Central Prison, Toronto, after having been found guilty of accepting a $25 bribe from Mrs. Margaret Brennan, a South Porcupine saloon keeper, in order to stave off prosecution. The payment of the money took place in South Porcupine on July 29, and the men were given a preliminary hearing before the magistrate on Aug. 4 and remanded for trial to North Bay jail, where they have remained until the speedy trial they elected to have held before Judge Hartman.

A. G. Slight, counsel for the prisoners, asked Judge Hartman for a lenient sentence for Rouleau, who is a 17-year-old boy, but his honor could see no reason why one sentence should be lighter than the other.

BURGLARY AT CORNWALL

CORNWALL, Sept. 5.—(Special).—John Eastman's house at Cornwall Centre was broken into this afternoon and $100 in cheques, his gold watch and the contents of the children's banks were stolen. The banks have been notified of the theft of the cheques. No clue to the perpetrator can be obtained just yet.

MADE CROOKS LEAVE CORNWALL

CORNWALL, Sept. 5.—(Special).—Provincial Inspector Broddy was in town today and arrested four men who were conducting questionable games at the Cornwall fair. After landing them in the lockup, they were allowed to go on condition that they would leave town.

KELVIN PARK

An Investment or Home Opportunity

Kelvin Park is right in the city, with thousands of homes almost surrounding it. (Kelvin Park, until last year, was the grounds of the Toronto Golf Club). Improvements are now under way by the city, and Kelvin Park is today one of the best opportunities in Toronto for the builder or investor.

SEE KELVIN PARK TODAY

You can get there by taking any street car to the end of the Parliament line, transferring to Gerrard street Civic Car Line, which runs directly through Kelvin Park, or, still better, telephone or call upon us, and we will take you by motor—this will occupy only a few minutes of your time.
