EXPECT FIREWORKS AT WINTER MEETING

Major League Magnates Should Have Plenty to Talk About.

New York, Nov. 3.—(United Press).—Ban Johnson's threat that baseball wasn't big enough for him and Commissioner Landis and his promise to get Landis and the owners of the New York Giants surely ought to put some life into the baseball meetings this winter.

The club owners always like to gab during the winter months and they certainly have plenty to talk about since the Dolan-O'Connell scandal revived an old political row and turned a lot of private disagreements into a public brawl.

Ban Johnson never has been satisfied in being the president of the American League. He always has aspired to be the boss of all baseball and he was fairly successful until he was ousted by his enemies and de-throned in favor of Landis.

Johnson worked under cover last year in seeking to undermine the throne of Landis, but he was called for it when the major leagues met in joint session. Landis gave him such a raking that his voice roared through a couple of heavy doors into the hallways of the hotel.

Landis ended his presentation by offering to resign and he found no takers. Johnson was then thought to have been finally subdued.

He remained quietly in the background until the Giant scandal broke out and then he opened fire on Landis. It will be recalled that Johnson insisted that the whole New York team should be disbanded and that the Brooklyn Robins should be named to play against the Washington Senators in the world's series.

Johnson announced that he would not attend the series. And he didn't. Admitting that Johnson had some courage in making many dangerous cracks about happenings in the past that had never been made public and in attacking Landis so viciously, yet there was no courage in his decision to remain miles away from the series and attack his enemies with a long-range gun.

Johnson would have gained much more respect and he might have rolled much more support if he had gone against his doctor's orders and had gone to Washington for a personal campaign against the commissioners, Charles Stenham and John McGraw. It will be recalled that while Johnson wasn't able physically to go to Washington he was in condition good enough to make the trip to a Missouri resort.

Not only was Johnson's absence from the real battleground a suspicion against his courage, but it was a piece of ingratitude toward one of his staunchest supporters—Charles Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators.

Griffith has won all his baseball life for a world's champion team and when he got it he found a talent on it thrown there by the man he had fought for and defended for four years. Johnson was badly in need of defence.

When Col. James Ruppert and Til Huxton tired of the Johnson regime and started out to get him, Johnson was supported by the St. Louis, Washington, Detroit, Philadelphia and Cleveland clubs. Opposing him were the New York, Boston and Chicago clubs. The opposition couldn't break through Johnson's five votes, but if Griffith had not remained firm, one other club might have switched over with him and Johnson would have been out of a job.

If the National League had not become aroused, Johnson would still be the boss of the National Commission and Landis might still be on the Federal bench in Chicago. The eight National League clubs, however, made an alliance with the Yankees, Red Sox and White Sox, and forced a new regime in baseball by threatening to form a new twelve-club league.

If Johnson is forced to fight for his control of the American League this winter, his failure to attend the series in Washington and the expression he cast indirectly against the Washington team may prove very costly.

While Col. Ruppert is not the fiery enemy of Johnson that Cap Huxton was, the Yankee owner is not the type of man to sit by and allow Johnson to do what he has been doing. The White Sox are almost on oath against Johnson forever and if Clarke Griffith should turn against him, the situation would be serious. The Boston club is now a Johnson club, since Bobby Quinn and his syndicate took over Harry Frazee's interest in the Red Sox, however, there will be a lot of sympathy among the American League club owners and if he should want to retaliate several of the old Johnson clique would go over with him.

The National League has been so peaceful during the reign of President John A. Heydler, that it is a novelty to see war clouds coming up over its annual meeting.

DONOVAN'S DEBUT AROUSES INTEREST

Fans Would Like a Decision in Frusetti-McIntyre Bout Friday.

One of the most interesting boxing cards arranged here in many a day has been clinched for the Arena next Friday night when "Jimmy" Frusetti, lightweight champion of New England, and Johnnie McIntyre, one of the best of the maritimes has produced, clash in the principal bout, backed up by an eight-round go between Louis Donovan, crack amateur boxer, and "Mickey" Morris. All four boys are very well known here and all have quite a following that should give promoter Finley one of the bumper houses of the season.

While the main bout holds many possibilities, almost as much interest attaches to the semi-final as the fans are interested to learn how Donovan will make out in his first bout as a pro. Over a period of two years, this North End boy demonstrated he was one of the hardest-hitting boxers ever developed in amateur ranks down here. His record is strewn with knockout victories. In meeting Morris, however, he is tackling a shifty little youngster who has not got much of a punch but who can make some of the best of them for his weight look foolish by his tricks. Morris will be conceding weight to Donovan in this match as he did to Wheeler in his last appearance here, Morris getting the decision.

If Morris tries to mix it with Donovan, he will find the local boy at his best. On the other hand, if he boxes him, his chances are that much improved. In his bouts with Eric Snow, Donovan seemed unable to get going and fathom Snow's defence, which showed that a boxer can give Donovan plenty to think about. Undoubtedly, Donovan will make the most of his opportunity. It is his style and it pleases the fans. He is mighty anxious to make a big impression in his debut into the money circles and for that reason if for nothing else, he will try to add one more key to his string.

The main bout is set for ten rounds and barring unforeseen accidents, it should go the distance. The fans would like to see a decision in this bout one way or the other. Draws are always unpopular and as this is going to be a closely fought affair, the referees should be prepared to give the fans what they want. If a system of point scoring is used there should not be much trouble in arriving at a decision. Both boys, it is understood, will weigh in under 140 pounds. Frusetti and McIntyre have met before, the former gaining the decision.

Opposing him were the New York, Boston and Chicago clubs. The National League has been so peaceful during the reign of President John A. Heydler, that it is a novelty to see war clouds coming up over its annual meeting.

The charges made by Barney Dreyfus against the Giants when Johnson was cutting loose his baggage in Chicago, certainly will not be allowed to pass by unnoticed by the other National League club owners. The public surely wants to know what the "other things" were that Dreyfus was talking about when he said that the Giants should be disqualified.

CATHEDRAL CONSECRATED. In performing the final consecration of the Liverpool Cathedral, which will in time be the second largest in the world, the Bishop of Liverpool yesterday made the significant remark that "this cathedral shall be open to all men of goodwill without distinction in creed and manner." His Lordship added that while it is not intended to allow ministers of other denominations to conduct services, it is proposed to ask ministers of other denominations to occupy the pulpit from time to time.

THEIR BOXED AS FREIGHT. HE WAS HANDLED ROUGHLY. Berlin, Oct. 15.—(Associated Press, Nov. 3).—A German piano tuner, recently was arrested for stealing goods from a freight car. When arrested he made a complaint against the freight handlers, claiming that he had been handling goods in transit. He was ordered to get into the freight car, constructed a freight box, cushioned inside, in which he secreted himself. The box bore this caution: "Glassware. Handle carefully. Do not throw or turn over."

Despite this, Ahrens declared, the freight handlers put his box on end and left him standing on his head more than an hour before moving the box to the freight car.

ST. PETER'S Y.M.A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Plans to Re-enter the Sporting Arena as Amateurs

The officers and members of the executive board of St. Peter's Y. M. A. were elected at the annual meeting of the association yesterday afternoon. Arthur Codrre, the retiring president, was in the chair. It was announced that steps were taken to have removed the ban of suspension which was placed on the members of the society two years ago when they maintained that the affidavit required of amateurs for admission to the Y. M. A. A. U. of C. was unjust and an imposition on the integrity of all amateurs.

"Challenge, battle and win, manfully and cleanly," was the sports slogan adopted by the association for the coming year. The association plans to enter in all athletic activities and by persistent effort try to win back the popularity that was theirs two years ago. The following officers were elected: President, Dr. Kerr Higgins; vice-president, Dr. Alphonse Coughlin; secretary, Raymond O'Connor; assistant secretary, Thomas Mullaly; treasurer, Edmund Casey; assistant treasurer, Joseph Corkery; sergeant-at-arms, Harold Cleary; chairman sports committee, Bernard Dunn; chairman literary and dramatic committee, John U. Hagerly; chairman ticket committee, Vincent Butler.

Dr. Higgins in a short address urged the members to get back into athletics and particularly stressed the benefit of literary and dramatic end of their work.

He gave his most impressive exhibition in the evening contest, when he started with a run of 15, and in the first nine innings scored 34 points while Harmon was collecting 5. In the thirteenth inning St. Jean led his rival by 59 to 6. Harmon picked up some ground in the next three innings, and in the sixteenth inning the score favored St. Jean by 74 to 26. IS ANXIOUS FOR A RETURN MATCH

Frankie Bull Offers McIntyre a Chance for His Title.

That Frankie Bull of Toronto is willing to meet Johnny McIntyre in a return bout on a winner-take-all basis and will agree to put his championship belt and title at stake if the local boxer will make 135 pounds is the text of a letter received by the sporting editor from Jack Jarvis, his manager. The letter follows:—"Frankie Bull, Canadian lightweight champion, would like to meet Johnny McIntyre again, in St. John. Without making any excuses or taking away any credit from McIntyre, Bull was far from being well on his last visit to your city. On his behalf I would like to state that he is willing to fight McIntyre again on a winner take all basis, with his belt and title at stake, at the lightweight limit of 135 pounds at 3 o'clock. A few days after his fight with McIntyre, Bull fought Ted Cosseter, the aggressive Montreal boy, in Montreal. After the bout, Mr. Rubenstein, the chairman of the commission, said that 'Bull gave Cossette a boxing lesson.' Anyway, now that he is feeling well again, Bull wants a chance to redeem himself, and to prove to all that he is the undisputed champion of Canada.

"Clonnie Tait was very recently offered 35 per cent. of the gross receipts to box Bull for the title in Winnipeg, but, to the surprise of everyone interested, this large inducement was refused. The very lowest that Tait would have got for his end would have been $1,000, so now Bull will fight Joe Welling there, under the auspices of the National Sporting Club, some time in November.

"There is a chance for Mr. Johnny McIntyre to prove himself a real fighter. If he will consent to meet Bull again, and he can defeat him, Frankie is willing to let McIntyre take his place in Winnipeg and get himself a nice bankroll."
