REIGN OF LAWLESSNESS.

Murders, Burglaries and Hold-ups Common Occurrences in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28—(Special Correspondence.)—Every daily paper in Los Angeles, with the exception of the notorious Times, is demanding the removal of the chief of police. During the present year several cold-blooded murders have been committed, and in no instance has the perpetrator been apprehended. Passengers on street cars have been shot by robbers, and pedestrians held up on the streets. Business houses have been burglarized and wagon-loads of merchandise stolen. During the month of September twenty-five houses have been burglarized. Not one arrest has been made. While the decent papers of the city are denouncing the police department, the Times is actually filled with praise, stating that the fight against the police is confined to the labor unions. Unconsciously the Times has admitted that the police department is so busily engaged in trying to disrupt the unions that it has no time to arrest murderers, forgers and burglars. Union men have been arrested for speaking to non-union men at work, but evidently no attempt is made to arrest murderers. The Employers' Association, which is lacking in the Times and the police in fighting organized labor, finds itself in an awkward position, as the reign of lawlessness is injuring the city. To stand by the police means a black eye to the city, and to criticize the police is practically a criticism of the Times, which directs every move of the chief of police. Meaningless murders, hold-ups and burglaries occur in quick succession. This is the record of the town that is controlled by men who pride themselves on being union-busters.

Union men and women everywhere can help their fellow-unionists in Southern California by writing one letter to each of the following advertisers in the notorious Los Angeles Times: Carrara Paint, 311 Carrara Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"Santal Midy"—E. Faugner, 26 North Williams St., New York, N.Y.

Royal Baking Powder Co., 100 Wilhams St., New York, N.Y.

Philo-Hay Specialties Co., Newark, N.J.

"Castoria"—The Centaur Co., 77 Murfey St., New York, N.Y.

"Oxycamp"—Potter Drug & Chemical Co., Boston, Mass.

"Pictum"—Postum Cereal Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Lytin E. Finckham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Scott's Emulsion—Scott & Borne, 409 Pearl St., New York, N.Y.

"Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate"—D. Ghirardelli, San Francisco, Cal.

Tell these advertisers that organized labor does not look with favor upon any person or firm that is aiding labor's meager enemy, the Los Angeles Times.

Deposits will be received either over the counter or by mail.

Advertising Canada

The Kind of Advertising That the Policy of the Employers Would Make Continuous.

Syndicate-railway barterers and advocates of "private enterprise" are never tired of pointing to Canada as a shining example of the wonderful gains to be derived from an application of the "great principles" they advocate.

The following extracts from a letter received from a New South Wales man who went to settle in Canada have been handed to the press by Premier See, of New South Wales, who thinks "they are instructive."

They also show who are the real gainers under a system of syndicate railways and private enterprise. Here is what the disgusted New South Wales man writes:

"Sutton Goldfield, Northwest Canada, 9th July, 1903. I suppose you have been wondering how we have been getting along. Well, rough enough. I can tell you. It has been a proper sell. It is the biggest swindle I ever had anything to do with. It is a case of misrepresentation altogether, both as regards the land and everything else. It is the Canadian Pacific Railway Company that has kept doing all this advertising and boasting the place and boom it. The Northwest is no good, except for cattle, and it takes a lot of money to start in that way. You will perhaps think I am getting home-sick, but Australia has a big mistake, and will pretty well clear us out of our bit of money by the time we get back to Australia, but I won't mind that."—The Worker, Brisbane, Australia.

erty and our republican institutions, lies in organized labor. Therefore, with the consciousness of the justice and soundness of our position, we appeal to the judgment of all men, and particularly the toilers of America, that they organize, unite and federate without regard to trade, calling, nationality, locality, sex, politics, color or religion.

WHITE LABOR PAYS

But Financiers Object to It For Fear of It Becoming a Political Factor.

Johannesburg, Oct. 3.—Mr. Creswell, manager of the Village Main Reef, giving evidence before the Labor Commission, said that the saving due to the use of white labor during last July and August was $5,700. Financiers at home viewed the employment of white laborers with disfavor, owing to the possibility of the labor element becoming too strong a factor in economic and political questions. Local experts were guided by these views. Gen. Ben Viljoen urged the breaking up of the native reserves, the land to be given to the whites. This would compel the natives to work. He emphasized the statement that Kaffirs were employed against the Boers during the war, and were promised the burgheers farms.

The men in the organized labor movement are law-abiding, faithful, and loyal citizens. They have no desire for immunity from the laws governing other citizens, but they most emphatically resent and protest against the actions of courts convicting men for acts which they have the legal right to perform, and then, too, without the right of a trial by a jury of their peers.

The American principle of equal justice before the law is being violated day after day. The relics of antiquated judicial tyranny are being revived by some judges, while others so misinterpret existing law as to thereby aim to financially ruin and murder our men out of their hard-earned savings which they have endeavored to lay aside for their protection in middle or old age when the employment of their society have no further use for their services.

All really educated and honest men realize and admit that a thorough organization of the working people to render employment and existence less precarious, by securing them an equitable share of the fruits of their labor, is the most vital necessity of our time.

The present organization of labor in our present industrial era of real estate speculation, even a fair degree of industrial peace could not be maintained; the wage-workers' condition would be forced down to the level of the slave, their liberty would be crushed; their manhood and intelligence stunted, and the intellectual, industrial, commercial and political standing of our country almost annihilated.

In spite of strikes here and there, organized labor has established, and is establishing, a greater degree of uninterrupted industrial peace by agreement with employers. Such agreements are the organization of the working people in factory, shop, mill, or mine, for an organized body of workmen can only enter into an agreement with employers and faithfully abide by its terms, and execution the terms of such agreement when all the workmen of an employer, at least in any given plant, are all members of the union.

The so-called "open shop" makes agreement with the employers impractical if not impossible, for the union cannot be responsible for the non-unionists, and the agreement in fact renders the terms of the agreement ineffective and nugatory. The agreement, or joint bargain, of organized labor with employers depends for its success not only upon the good will of the union and the employer toward each other, but that neither shall be subject to the irresponsibility or lack of intelligence of the non-unionist, or the failure to be in concert with and bear the equal responsibility of the unionists.

The right of the non-unionist to work when, where and for what he pleases carries with it the logical right of the unionist to work or refuse to work when, where and for what he pleases, and with whom he pleases.

To a non-unionist, despite that which his advocates say for him, can not be attributed the crime of helping his fellow workmen or contributing toward the establishment of more rightful relations between workmen and their employers. No force but that of persuasion and moral and intelligent influence should be exercised to convert the non-unionist to membership in our organizations, but it is hurtful from every viewpoint, and to every enlightened interest, to advocate the "open shop." As the immortal Lincoln said: "This country cannot long remain half free and half slave," so we say, that any establishment cannot long remain or be successfully operated part union and part non-union.

In connection with the meeting of the Executive Council, and by appointment, a conference was held with the President of the United States for the purpose of discussing important labor legislation. The eight-hour bill was considered at length, the President stating that his mind had not changed on that form of
