

SIX ORDAINED IN TRINITY CHURCH

Bishop Kingdon officiates at interesting ceremony, ordaining five candidates to priesthood and one to be Deacon--His Lordship's Sermon.

In Trinity church on Sunday morning six candidates for ordination to holy orders were presented to His Lordship Bishop Kingdon, and by the simple but impressive ceremony of the laying on of hands were ordained--one to the diaconate and five to the priesthood--in the ministry of the Church of England.

The event was one of unusual interest. Except for the ordination of Rev. W. P. Dunham in St. Jude's, Carleton, a year ago, no ceremony of a similar nature had taken place in this city for more than a quarter of a century. The occasion was also notable on account of the twofold nature of the ceremony. The Church of England expressly recognizes the diaconate and the priesthood, but no others, as distinct orders and candidates for both orders were present. Rev. J. W. B. Kingdon, who officiated at the ceremony, said that the candidates were not the only ones who were being ordained, but that they were the only ones who were being ordained in the ministry of the Church of England.

HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP KINGDON.

Stewart entered upon his ministry as a deacon and Rev. H. E. Rigby, Rev. C. W. Foster, Rev. H. G. Alder, Rev. Craig W. Nichol and Rev. W. O. Raymond, Jr., were ordained to the higher order--that of the priesthood. Every seat in the church was occupied and many were standing in the aisles when the surpliced choir entered from the cloister singing the processional hymn 'The Church's One Foundation.' Singers were followed by the clergy, Very Rev. Dean Partridge, Rev. Canon Richardson, Rev. W. O. Raymond, and Rev. W. P. Dunham and the six candidates who took their places in rows reserved for them.

His Lordship took for his text Isaiah, chap. vi vs. 8 and 9: 'I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for me? Then said I, Here am I, send me. And He said, go and tell this people.'

In his opening remarks the bishop referred to the glorious and important vision which Isaiah had seen and recorded in the sixth chapter as equally a crisis in his life and in the ministerial career. There were no sure reasons for being forward, he said, yet it might be gathered that there was some such deepening of the sense of responsibility in the prospect as was unusual experience in one of God's properly appointed ministers. In the text it was evident the human will was appealed to, and that the offer of the prophet--'Here am I, send me'--was a real offer and an answer to the invitation 'Whom shall I send, and who will go for me?' An opportunity of offering a willing obedience without resentment was granted. Speaking of the deep feelings of the responsibility of his office which it could well be imagined Isaiah felt, his Lordship drew attention once more to the fact that the Lord had not sent the man. The tokens of a true prophet, he said, were not easily manifested externally at all times as were the tokens of being a priest, and he pointed out that the priest's office without qualification, and was set apart not as a priest but as a leper, loathsome and smitten of God.

To Amend Railway Act

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12--(Special)--The bill to amend the Railway Act, which Hon. H. R. Emmerson has given notice to introduce in the House of Commons, will provide that railway companies must make more accurate returns in the way of statistics to the government. At present the information obtained as to earnings and other matters of a similar character are of so bad a character as not to be of much value. The same procedure will require to be followed in Canada for many years by the United States railways in supplying information to the interstate commerce commission.

CALAIS OFFICER MADE BIG HAUL

Seized a Team and Load of Woolen Rags Coming from St. Stephen--Two Men Escaped.

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., March 12--(Special)--Customs Officer O'Brien of Calais made quite an important seizure at an early hour this morning. While at the Calais end of the Union bridge, he saw a team approaching from the Canadian side. Before the two men on the team could offer the resistance which they had evidently prepared to make in case of discovery, the officer had possession and they made a hasty departure. The team was loaded with woolen rags and in a subsequent search of a barn in Calais the officer discovered a large quantity of woolen rags and materials which were promptly put under seal and a charge laid against the owner of the team is pretty well known. The seizure is valued at about $300.
