"Mrs. Pomeroy's Pin Money," and "Upon the Stand, | ur capital. "Codfish and Potatoes," by Eleanor Kirk, is a short serial which opens well. "Growing Aged Together," by the Rev. Robert Collyer, is full of this great man's eloquence—powerful in its very simplicity. There are many other interesting articles. A new feature of the magazine is the introduction o pictures, and the illustration, "Past Present and Future," here given, is exceedingly pretty.

The November Aldine is remarkable for the sumptuousness of its illustrations, a Gents' Furnishing Goods well as the high literary merit of its poetr well as the high literary merit of its poetry and prose. Besides the two full-pag original pictures, this number contain reproductions of three celebrated stee engravings, which alone would cost a the picture shops no less than thirty dol lars. Homer Martin has a full-page picture of "A White Mountain Brook, grand, shadowy, and silent. "Homand its Treasures," is full of delightful remembrances at this Thanksgiving season of the year. "A Chance Meeting," and "The First Visit," after Rudaux, ar two tender and charming pictures of the love-life of an artist—the first a breezy out-of-door scene, the second a warm cosy interior. The other illustrations ar "The Robber of the Air," a spirited con flict between birds, by Deiker; "Englisl
