Dear Mr. Meighen:

I have often thought of you but I was impelled to write after reading the current issue of Newsweek and the article by Raymond Moley in which you are mentioned.

Some time ago I also received offprints from the Canadian Historical Review and Queen's Quarterly which were very interesting indeed. I presume the author, who, I recall, is doing a biography of you must have sent them along. I was very happy to have the chance to read both and enjoyed both.

Frost's amazing victory and the partial success obtained in the House of Commons to curtail the powers given to CD Howe make me believe that in the long run the Tories may yet come back.

I had an interesting and fruitful experience when I was in Washington as a consultant to the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations which made the first official study of National-State-local relationships since the Constitutional Convention. I also learned a great deal and those for whom I worked were kind enough to tell me that I did a useful job. It is odd to find a Canadian at home in that field. Work, plenty of homework I have found is the answer.

Mother was here for a month but she refused to even come to visit until after she had cast her ballot for Frost's candidate. Of such is made the political strength of a party and of such is a sound political system continued. I am proud of her.

My very best to you and please say hello to Max and Miss Edmonston. By the way, how is Webster of the Globe and Mail coming along? I read the paper but this is too far away to tell if or when he will make changes. Naturally, I am interested,

As ever,

Call
