

PURIFYING THE STAGE

For the very reason that in these days of fierce competition men are worn out by the struggle for existence, they need recreation of one kind or another as never before. Anyone who has done an honest day's labor is entitled to, and needs, a certain amount of relaxation.

When we call for the purification of the stage, we do not mean to ask that the theatre, become a faint shadow of the Church—a "preachy" play is as intolerable and boreome as a "stagey" sermon—but what we do expect, if minds are not to be debauched and hearts poisoned, is a stage where the healthy, normal life about us is portrayed truthfully and artistically by men and women whose private lives testify to their belief that good living and clean thinking are as necessary to the artists as to the fathers and mothers to whom are intrusted the moulding of the characters of the coming generation of Americans.

There are those, of course, who contend that the public clamors for filthy plays. No doubt a certain proportion of our people do prefer the gutter to the sidewalk. So, during the War, there were sympathizers with the enemy to whom nothing was sweeter than the glorification of the Kaiser and the belittling of our own efforts. But because this handful of men existed, it did not mean that they were given a free hand to carry out their traitorous wishes and designs. So, too, the small contingent of Americans who love indecent plays has no right to impose its wishes upon the vast majority of decent Americans who still believe in moral cleanliness, even on the stage.

The purification of the stage will be effected as soon as the American theatre-going public repudiates at the box-office the plays that outrage common decency and the public conscience. No amount of denunciation, however fiery, will cleanse the stage. It simply advertises it.—Rosary Magazine.

Summer on the Lower St. Lawrence

Canada has been blessed with many noble rivers, but queen of all the rivers of the Dominion, and the most historic, is the broad, steel-blue St. Lawrence.

Both shores of the lower St. Lawrence from the quaint old grey-walled city of Quebec to where the river enters the Gulf, are lined with delightful French villages, many of which have developed into decidedly popular and fashionable summer resorts.

Along the rugged north shore, with its purple headlands behind which rise the darker purple Laurentian hills, are to be found Murray Bay, Cap à l'Aigle, St. Irene and Baie St. Paul. Here the French customs and language together with the charm and hospitality of the habitants, have a peculiar fascination for the Anglo-Saxon.

The scenery is magnificent, the river is so wide that the opposite shore appears like a hazy blue line on the horizon; there is the tang of the sea in the air, the hills are studded with lakes abounding in trout; hotel accommodation is good and whether the tourist chooses Murray Bay, the rendezvous of wealth or fashion, or one of the quieter little French villages, he is bound to have a worth-while holiday.

The south shore, while less rugged, is equally enticing with its long white sandy beaches. Rivière du Loup, Cacouna, Bic and Metis Beach are among the most popular, all offering the best of boating, bathing and fishing amid rare natural scenery. There are excellent golf courses on both the north and south shores.

Those, however, who would escape from all traces of civilization, will find sanctuary in the great forest-clad back country of the Province of Quebec, which abounds in lakes and rivers. Lake St. Joseph, Lake Edward and Lake St. John regions and Laurentides National Park abound in fish and game.

All this territory is served by the Canadian National Railways.
