

GREAT GRAND STAND FINISH IN NINTH INNING WON SATURDAY

Peterboro Humbled by 7-6---Ivers Cleaned the Bases in the Ninth With a Wallop to Left---Brundage Again a Hero at the Bat---Collins Withdrawn from the Contest for Coose.

Brantford took the last game from Peterboro on Saturday 7-6 in a whirlwind finish. The Sox pulled the game out of the fire in the last innings by a sensational batting rally that sent the fans screaming with delight. It was one of those most spectacular finishes and a fitting climax to a hard and stubbornly fought game. It was a very cold day but a red hot finish. The Red Sox covered themselves with glory and won their way into the hearts of the fans. The final charge came in the ninth and was irresistible by the Petes. With the score 6-5 against them Kane issued the signal of distress and hissed his order "up guards and at them" while the crowd in the grand stand were on pins and needles. Some of the rooters were satisfied in their own mind that the Brants would be equal to the occasion.

As the Red Sox came to the wire, Kane yelled "Go!" and they were off. Linneburn opened the rally with a clean single and the crowd were on their feet in an instant. Wagner singled and the fans were screaming like mad. Orcutt came along with a perfect bunt and advanced the runners and the bases were full and none out. The attendance was in a tumult of excitement. Men, women and kids had lost all self control. They whooped, they yelled, they screamed, they stamped their feet and the people in the autos around the fence started tooting their horns and the ball park had the appearance of Bedlam let loose. Tracey tried his best to pull himself together, and it was only a matter of two balls and the game was won and lost. As Ivers stepped to the plate he was given a greater reception by long odds than any political leader ever received in the Telephone city. The crowd yelled for a hit and they got it. Tracey wound up and sent a hot one towards the plate. "Ball" yelled. Umpire Daly. Tracey wound up again and let her go. "Biff" resounded through the air, and the ball bounced off Ivers' bat and sped high into left field. It looked as though the Peterboro fielder would catch the fly, and the runners held their bags, and the crowd in the stands did not lose heart for Brundage was next batter up. In his anxiety to catch the ball, Hannigan, the Peterboro fielder, misjudged it, and Linneburn came across the plate with the run that tied the score, while Wagner came tearing around the third bag like a race horse, and started for the plate at a ten second clip, and ere the ball could be returned he had crossed the plate with the winning run and the crowd went fairly into hysterics. It was a hurricane finish. The crowd forgot all about the chilly weather and in their excitement got warmed up. It was a joyous crowd that left the park on Saturday night. It was one of those grand finishes you read about but seldom see, and the Sox are to be congratulated on their magnificent victory. What in the dying stages of the game had every appearance of defeat was in a twinkling of time converted into a glorious victory.

Belding was selected to do the twirling for the visitors. He worked for five innings and gave a pretty good account of himself being relieved by Tracey. Belding had the Red Sox down 5-4 when he retired. There was a bitter cold wind blowing across the park and the 1,200 fans who turned out were chilled to the bone but were amply repaid for their suffering by the sensational finish in the ninth.

Kane sent Ray Collins into the box and for three innings he went along at a great clip but in the fourth he fell by the way side and had to be relieved by Coose, who by the way is the best relief pitcher in the league.

The Red Sox got down to business in their half and scored a run. Linneburn singled. Wagner and Orcutt were easy out. Brundage laced the ball to the right field fence and the runner scored.

The fourth saw Collins' down fall due to his wisdom and Peterboro scored five runs. McNeill was safe on Orcutt's error. White was an easy out at first. Beard received free transportation. Byrne singled and the bases were full. Collins gave Sargent and Totten their bases on balls, forcing in two runs. Cresswell fanned. Brant drove the ball to left field fence for three bases and scored three runs.

Kane called Collins to the bench and sent Coose to the firing line who struck out Hannigan and retired the side.

In the locals half Brundage opened up with a corking drive to the deep left for three bases but he fell while rounding second and was unable to make third. He scrambled back to second until he got his wind. He took a nasty fall, knocking the wind out of him, and it was thought at first he was hurt but fortunately he was not. Lamond sent him home with a single.

The Brants came to life again in the fifth when Linneburn singled. Wagner and Orcutt beat out short hits by great bursts of speed. Ivers singled and the pair came galloping home.

Manager Rowan replaced Cresswell with Tracey in the sixth and he held the Sox safe for one inning.

Sox Evened Up

The Sox evened up the score in their half of the seventh. Wagner beat out a bunt and took second on a passed ball, going to third on Orcutt's out Ivers sent the ball sailing for a single and Wagner came in, making the score 5 all.

The Petes became dangerous in the eighth, for after two men were out Tatton and Tracey singled and the pair were perched on second and third with the dangerous Brant up. Things looked rosy for a brace of runs for the visitors, but Brant, contrary to expectations hit a foul fly which Ivers gathered in. The Brants went out 1, 2, 3 in their half.

The Ninth

The visitors forged ahead in their half of the ninth and scored one run which to many looked good enough to win, as Tracey was pitching grand ball, but a great batting rally by the Sox upset the dope.

Hannigan opened with a single. McNeill was safe, as Orcutt fumbled his hit. White singled and Hannigan crossed the plate and the Petes were one to the good. The next three batters were retired in order.

The Finale

With the score 6-5 against, the crowd asked themselves, can the Sox win; can they even up? Is Tracey too much for them? Is it a victory for Peterboro? Are we down and out? Can they get to Tracey? All these questions were flashing through the minds of the rooters while the players were coming in and going out.

"Batter up," said Daly. As Linneburn advanced to the plate he was loudly applauded, and many were there who regretted that he had to go back to London. Lindy singled. Wagner singled, Orcutt bunted safe. Three on and no one out. Ivers picked up his favorite bat, let the first ball go by and then laced the second out to left field and it was all over. Linneburn came across the plate with the run that tied the score and Wagner followed immediately with the winning run and the Red Sox came off the field victorious 7-6.

Music and Drama

Annie Russell Coming

Miss Annie Russell has successfully come forward this season in the role and capacity of actress-directress. Her own company, of which she is a member, called Annie Russell's Old English Comedy Company has just completed a brilliant season of nine weeks in New York, where at the 30th Street Theatre, a repertoire of the classical English comedies has been played with artistic achievement and financial reward. A brief road tour has been arranged and the Brantford offering is to be "She Stoops to Conquer," Oliver Goldsmith's famous comedy.

Miss Russell was last seen with the New Theatre Company, of which she was the leading woman member. The realization of Miss Russell's long cherished ideal represents her own capital and experience gained through years of faithful service in our theatre—a service that has touched practically and ideally the theatre's best traditions. The undertaking of the present organization was greatly encouraged by a number of New York men and women variously distinguished in artistic, social and public life, who endorsed her plans and generously subscribed to the series of performances. The success of the New York engagement has made it possible for Miss Russell to make the organization permanent, enlarging the repertoire, which next season will include other classical plays, and perhaps some modern ones in harmony with the others now in the repertoire.

Miss Russell begins modestly but earnestly, in the matter of productions. She has aimed not for any stupendous effects but rather an artistic expression of the period, colorful, quaint and in good taste. Studios' consideration has been given to historical accuracy. The company was also selected with a knowledge of the requirements and demands of the old comedies. The

Senator Works

By WALT MASON

Senator Works, he ups and jerks a brand-new kind of caper, tales of crime, in prose or rhyme, he'd have in any paper. The daily sheet won't dare repeat a yarn of scrap or riot, but it may print a timely hint of moral things and quiet. It dare not spring a grisly thing, though greatly it may need it; that sheet might prove a helpful move—but who, O Works, would read it? Of Epworth rules and Sunday schools it might print all the tidings; of picnic jaunts in woodland haunts afar from railway sidings. And if some duck should run amuck and kill a gross of people, the sheet must tell about the bell bought for the village steeple. The sheet must skip the sporting tip, all news of Luth McCarty, and print a ream about the cream served up at Jimson's party.

This scheme of Works sure beats the Turks—but guardian angels speed it! Oh, such a sheet would be too sweet, but who in Troy would read it? Senator Works should hire some clerks, engage a legislature, to toil for years, like blind led by the hand, reforming human nature. Then tales of crime, perhaps, in time, more will be demanded; and sheets that print in crimson tint crime stories will be stranded.

The Telephone Brings Companionship

WHEN her morning's work is done and lunch disposed of, the housewife turns to the social side of housekeeping—she calls up her friends and brightens the day by a personal chat. Books, piano, needlework—these are sometimes diverting, but a woman craves real companionship. She longs to hear a living, laughing, human voice—longs for someone to talk to about the little, intimate, personal things. She talks and listens to the voice that talks to her about the things she likes best. The telephone has banished her loneliness.
