Then Comes Dickens With Sir John French-An Intimate View

They call him "Silent French"— the little round man with the goodnatured face and the blue-gray eyes, who, as Field Marshal of the British Army on the continent, commands
the British troops.

"Old French don't bark much, but,
don't he bloomin' well bite!" the English Tommies say of him.

He is 62 years old, an Irishman though born at Ripple, in Kent, England. Twice decorated by his own government he enjoys the unique distinction of holding orders of merit on the Kaiser's legions, declares that General French takes everything quietly. In South Africa, while din-ing with General Ian Hamilton, a man rushed in to say that shells were falling thick and fast.

"In that case," observed the commander of the British, "1 think I'll have another chop!" In time of war he sleeps hardly at all. He says himself that he takes a nap only for fear of being considered eccentric and he thinks a daily allowance of four hours of sleep a luxurious self-indulgence.

Strassburg is an important spot in the following, contained in a despatch from London to-day: "Lady Gibbons, ture the city was formally ceded to Germany by France in the war of 1870. weeks, passed away this morning at It is of strategic value, being 250 miles east of Paris and 370 miles southwest of Berlin. By far the most important building is the cathedral, which in its present form represents the activity of four centuries, although part of the crypt dates back as far as 1015. It is considered one of the grandest churches on the European continent. The tall spire rising from the western front reaches a height of 466 feet. It is richly embellished by statues and bas-reliefs. The screen of double tracery, of thirteenth century origin. is the work of Steinbach. The interior is majestic, with its vast dimen- and Winter suits and overcoats-a sions and rich decorations. "First: On our left wing, there has been a general action of great violence between those detachments of our forces that are operating between the river Somme and the river Oise, and the army corps which the enemy has grouped in the region around Tergnier and St. Quentin."

"Those army corps have come, some from the center of the enemy's line, and others from Lorraine and the Vosges. These last named corps were transported by rail to Cambrai, by way of Liege and Valciennes. To the north of the river Aisne, as far as Berry-Au-Bac, there has been no change of importance.

"Second: On the center we have made progress to the east of Rheims in the direction of Berry-Au-Bac and Mororvilliers.

"Third: On our right wing, Lorraine and the Vogos, we have repulsed attacks of minor importance on Nomery. To the east of Luneville the enemy has made some demonstrations along the lines of the river Vegous and the river Blette."

GET ANOTHER COLONY LONDON, Sept. 25 .- The official press bureau this afternoon issued the following statement:

"The admiralty announces that a telegram has been received from Vice Admiral Sir George Patcy, stating that the town and the barbor of Frederic-Wilhelm's the seat of government of Kaiser Wilhelm's Land (the name ap-plied to the German portion of New Guinea) have been occupied by an Australian force without opposition."

The armed forces of the enemy appear to have been concentrated at Herbertshohe, where they were abhilbilated. The Boer flag has been hoisted at Friedriche Wilhelm and a garrison has been established there."
