GAVE SECURITY

Essex County Treasurer Will Make Good his Deficit by the end of February.

Windsor, Jan. 19.—Henry Morand, treasurer of Essex county, yesterday gave security for the shortage in his accounts. The council accepted a note for the full amount, indorsed by Paul Morand, of Tecumseh, and Clarence Mason, of Sandwich. The note is made payable February 28, Morand asking for this length of time in which to raise the money. The council have also taken it out of the power of the treasurer to err in the future, as yesterday a resolution was passed instructing the Traders' Bank, Windsor, to accept no vouchers unless signed by both the treasurer and warden. The council will hold a special session March 3 to take any further action in the matter deemed necessary.

The whole matter was fought out in the finance committee, and when the report was submitted to the council there was no intimation that any of the members objected to the document. However, when a motion to adopt the report was placed before the council, Councillors Wilkinson and Lamarch moved an amendment that a demand be made at once on the treasurer to refund the money he had taken and that his resignation be asked for. The resolution proposed that the council meet in special session February 4 to appoint a successor to Treasurer Morand. Another clause censured the auditors for not making public the deficit of the treasurer when it was first discovered. Several of the councillors did not wish to discharge the treasurer, while others objected to the clause censuring the auditors, and the result was that Wilkinson and Lamarch were the only members of the council to vote for the amendment.

The report of the auditors showing the treasurer's deficit was as follows:

Cash and receipts from all sources (including balance from 1900) up to December 31, 1901	$84,113.53
Cash up to Jan. 16, 1902	2,509.40
Total	$86,622.93
Disbursements to December 31, 1901	$78,882.95
Disbursements to January 16, 1902	5,209.98
Total	$84,092.93
Balance on hand	$1,535.00
Cash on deposit	1,472.58
Excess of balance over deposit	$74.22
Cheques issued and unpaid	$1,732.54
Total shortage	$1,789.96

CUSTOMS CHANGES

Several Shifts to be Made in Windsor—Wm. McGregor to be Collector.

Windsor, Jan. 19.—The long-delayed changes in the Windsor customs and inland revenue offices bid fair to be consummated within the next few days. Yesterday morning, word was received from Ottawa that the changes were under advisement by the cabinet and that the result of the deliberations of this body will be communicated to the local members, probably Monday or Tuesday.

The changes contemplated have been made public several times through the newspapers so that there is nothing new in the announcement except that the office-seekers will realize their hopes after months of weary waiting. William McGregor, ex-M. P. for North Essex, will receive the appointment of collector of customs. It was understood when he withdrew from public life before the last elections, that he was asked for the position, but the Government has taken its own time to make good the promise given then. The many friends of Mr. McGregor will be well pleased to hear of his appointment, as he is one of the most popular men in Windsor. He is a man of good business ability and is in every way fitted for the place.

H. W. Allen, the present collector of customs, is named for the inspectorate of customs for the western district, made vacant by the death of the late Alfred Boulton. Mr. Allen has filled the position of collector of customs at Windsor for the past five years, and during his incumbency has made many friends among the ship-owners by his uniform courtesy. He was formerly in business in Essex and represented the South riding in the Dominion Parliament. His transfer to the inspectorate will not necessitate his removal from Windsor.

The inland revenue office change under contemplation is to fill the offices of inspector of distilleries and deputy collector. It is understood that J. H. Seaming, the present collector, is slated for the vacant inspectorate, while Michael Marion, of Chevalier, will receive the deputy collectorship. A. J. E. Belleperche, clerk in the Windsor office, may secure the position made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Seaming, although an outsider may land it.

THAMESVILLE

Jan. 20.—Bert Thompson and wife left Saturday for Marine City, after a visit of some weeks with friends here. Charles Buller is quite ill. Mr. White, of Detroit, is in town. A. B. Lawrence was in Chatham on Friday.

About 2 o'clock Saturday morning, the villagers were startled by an alarm of fire which proved to be at the home of Benj. Tiffin, west of the village. The house and contents were totally destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Tiffin left here for Chatham on Friday morning and have not yet returned. The fire is supposed to have caught from the stove.

TILBURY

Jan. 20.—Miss Grace Savage, of Detroit, was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Henry Richardson yesterday.

Next Sunday Rev. Mr. McCosh, of Chatham, will conduct anniversary services in St. Andrew's church here.

Mrs. Tena Richardson returned on Saturday from Chatham General Hospital, where she has been undergoing treatment the past six weeks. She is much improved in health.

Mrs. Kelly, of Chatham, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Coutts.

The Daily Planet is on sale at John's Drug Store.

REMAINS OF D. R. VAN ALLEN REVERENTLY LAID TO REST

Impressive Obsequies Conducted Yesterday—Big Representation of Mourning Citizens—Dresden Council Present.

The funeral of the late D. R. Van Allen took place yesterday afternoon and was attended by the Mayor, aldermen and many prominent citizens of the city and county, showing the respect and honor in which the deceased was held.

The cortege left the residence of the deceased about three o'clock, for the church, which had been long since crowded with the very many friends and mourners. The impressive services of the English Church were then conducted by the pastor, Rev. T. Beverly Smith.

During the services the pastor spoke in very high terms of the deceased gentleman, reading that beautiful part of the Scripture, the 15th chapter of the first epistle of Paul to the Corinthians.

In speaking of the deceased he said: "God has called us together to-day to show the outward respect which all inwardly feel for our late lamented fellow-citizen, fellow-churchman, brother, friend. The late D. R. Van Allen was longer known to most of you than to me, yet my short acquaintance has been enough to enable me to echo what is in your hearts who have known him long. When a man has lived 68 years in a place—I cannot say a community—for he has outlived several communities—when a man has lived a long life-time in one place his passing must be felt; but when a man has lived a long life of active usefulness, and has marked his city with the fruit of toil, perseverance and strong character, his passing is the closing of a chapter that can never be forgotten."

I cannot recall the writer, nor yet his exact words, but he was a man whom the English speaking world held dear, who wrote something like this: "I had rather when the day comes when I shall be borne to the grave, be followed down my garden walk to my church and to my last resting place, followed by men and women who loved me, who walk with bowed head. They have lost a friend who placed a flower on my grave out of genuine love. Whose lives have been cheered and homes brightened. I lived amongst them, than be followed by all the pomp the wealth of Europe contrived."

If the one who has been borne forth to-day had ever expressed such a desire. We have seen it fulfilled to-day. For to-day a city laments the man who preceded him to make it a city; he is followed by the men who can thank him for the skilled employment which occupies their time and provides for many of them comfortable homes of their own; and by the poor man, who, but for him would be poorer. There is one verdict those who know him bring in as if by agreement: "Mr. Van Allen was the poor man's friend." Every such life not only makes his own community better, but makes the world better. Of all agencies which God uses there is none He loves more nor produces so great results as a life. Books, and education, and wise laws, and philanthropic institutions, are great blessings, but there is no witness like life. It is with genuine sorrow of heart that you who have long known him follow him to-day. It is with welling hearts of gratitude you look back upon what he has done for you and yours. It is with gratitude to God that we his fellow members of this church remember that his last attendance at this church was to be present at the Lord's table. It will be as a true, loving husband and friend he will be remembered by those who deeply mourn him to-day.

"For him no more the blazing hearth and busy housewife ply her evening care; No children run to lisp their sire's returns, Or climb his knees the envied kiss to share."

Let the men who follow him to-day to the tomb learn two lessons from this hour. First, especially you younger men, learn that painstaking industry, and determination alone can win success in life. There are no prizes for the sluggard, nor the drift-er, nor the idler; not even temporal success, not even worldly prosperity can be the lot of the self-satisfied, the conceited, or the slothful. And secondly, it is only noble to be good. You remember the last words of Sir Walter Scott, the man whom the world has learned to love for his many virtues, and for his learning, and the joy he has given to millions. His words to his friend who bent over his pillow, "Be good, John, be good." If our departed friend could give us a message it would be the same, "Be good, my friend, be good." "Be a follower, not of me, but of that one whom all must follow, if they would see God, be a follower of the Christ."

May you, my friend, may I, be followers of Christ, may we be better men; more Christlike men, because our brother has lived.

About 4.15 the funeral procession left the church, the employees of the factory leading the cortege. The pallbearers were M. Houston, E. W. Scane, Hugh Macdonald, Peter McKellar, Manson Campbell and W. S. Ireland. Dresden was represented at the obsequies by Mayor Ribble, J. C. Tassie, Jas. Blackburn and J. E. Hazlett.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes which graced the casket were the following:—

"Gates Ajar" from the employees of the Chatham Mfg. Co.
Lilies from Mrs. F. D. Laurie and Stanley Ball.

Cross from Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ball, Milton from Mr. and Mrs. Agur, Winnipeg.

The hymns rendered at the funeral service were "Days and moments quickly flying" and "Abide with me."

ANCIENT ORDER UNITED WORKMEN.

True charity is an active principle, and means general good-will to all. It is in love with humanity for humanity's sake. It loves mankind because the Only One who came into the world to teach us charity, loves mankind. This is a day of promotion by means of individual solicitation. CORTICELLI HOME NEEDLEWORK.

The first quarterly issue of this splendid magazine for 1902 is now being delivered to subscribers, and is considered to be one of the best numbers yet published. As its name indicates the book is devoted to instruction in art needlework, embroidery, crochet, etc., and contains articles on these subjects by several of the best authorities in Canada and the United States. In the current issue an article on "The Theory and Method of Embroidery," by Mrs. L. Barton Wilson, is well worthy of consideration by all lovers of art needlework. The magazine also contains numerous half-tone engravings and beautiful color plates which have been obtained at great expense, and the tout ensemble of the book is one that would grace the table of a queen. The popularity of this work has been remarkable, and to-day it is a welcome visitor in thousands of homes. It deserves the encouragement accorded to it, and it is safe to say that every lady who sees it will not hesitate to become a subscriber. The magazine (4 issues) is issued at 35c. per year. Send 10c. to the Corticelli Silk Co., St. Johns, P. Q., for sample copy.
