Another Daring Robbery.

Schooner Riffed at Smith Co's. Wharf and Cash and Valuables Taken from Trunks.

Another daring robbery was committed at the Smith Co's. premises this morning at an early hour, when one or more thieves visited the place and boarding the schr. Ethel E. ransacked her cabin and forecabin and stole money and a silver watch from the trunks of the captain and crew. The desperadoes went first into the cabin, where the captain and three of his crew slept, and taking three trunks and a valise up the companion way they deliberately broke them open, ransacked them, took all the cash which they contained and a watch owned by one of the crew. The men in the cabin heard no noise, nor, as far as we can learn, did the watchman on the premises. After this they went into the forecabin and found the clothes of three other men, who were sleeping there, hanging about. From the pockets of the pants and coats they took all the cash they contained and then decamped. The members of the crew found the trunks on the dock after waking from their sleep this morning. This is the most daring robbery to occur along the waterfront for many years.

The schooner was from Twillingate and the skipper is John Phillips. The sums taken from the three men's clothing in the cabin were $5, $2.70 and $3.00. The crew believe that the robbers crossed over from the next wharf.

The Medical Press

AND THE REMARKABLE EXPERIMENTS WITH BOVIRL ON HUMAN BEINGS.

The report on the nutritive value of Bovril read before the annual meeting of the British Medical Association is attracting wide attention in the medical profession.

The "British Medical Journal" of September 16 devoted some six pages to giving a detailed account of the recent experiments, in which it was shown that in the case of human beings the body-building power of Bovril was "even more marked" than had been previously shown in the experiments with animals.

A further article has just appeared in the "Medical Times," and the following extracts are of universal interest.

The "Medical Times" first points out that the experiments were originally conducted "with the object of ascertaining whether a certain beef extract (Bovril) supplied to the Government had any nutritive value or not. The results were simply startling."

"It was found that in all cases the administration of the extract (Bovril) caused an immediate increase in weight."

"In subject C (human) it was found after the use of 10 grams of Bovril the mean increase of weight was 123 grams, while in Subject S (human) the mean increase after the use of 10 grams of the same extract was no less than 216 grams."

"In each series of experiments on the dogs it was found that the actual increase in weight varied from ten to twenty times the weight of the dry solids added in the shape of the extract to the food, whilst in the human experiments the increase was even more marked."

One important point brought out by these experiments is the fact that this increase in weight is in tissue and muscle, and not merely fat, showing that Bovril must therefore be regarded as a true nutrient, and an essential part of the diet of every man, woman and child.

Empire's Hard Trip.

Mr. Smith, of Geo. M. Barr's office, received a letter from Capt. Benson of the schr. Empire by yesterday's mail giving an account of the terrible time they had after leaving Oporto. The letter was written at Fayal on the 7th inst. After leaving Oporto storm followed storm, each more terrific than the other till November 24th when the severest of all came on. The vessel was lifted under jumbo and reefed foresail when a big sea swept aboard smashing the stanchions, galley and bulwarks and threw her on her beam ends till the cabin house was under water. Capt. Benson put a man at the pumps and another at the wheel, and himself, the cook and one seaman went into the hold to shift the sand ballast which had been thrown from the starboard side right up under the deck on the port side. Some pipes of wine weighing half a ton were thrown about by the effect of the big sea as if they were empty, and those had to be shifted also. Having succeeded in righting the ship Capt. Benson managed to get her into Fayal where the work of repairing her will occupy 20 days.

Advantages of Gas. But the advantages of gas over the old-fashioned way of conducting domestic affairs is by no means confined to cooking. If, instead of gently pulling that magic chain, which turns on the bright incandescent light, one had first to have ordered and taken in oil, polished the pedestal of the oil lamp, cleaned the glass chimney, trimmed the wicks, filled the bowl with oil, one might try out about the troubles of doing the day's work, and the dreadful death of really reliable domestic servants. Geysers in a bathroom avoid all the disappointment of finding that the water is only tepid instead of being boiling hot, because the kitchen fire has been allowed to burn low after the cooking for the day is over. With a geyser all the trouble of stoking and building up the fire, and keeping it at a certain height are unnecessary, one strike of the match applied to the burner is absolutely all that is needed for the attainment of a hot bath, and the water heats with great rapidity. Where there are young children, it is often of untold importance to have ready to hand the means of giving a hot bath in cases of sudden illness; so this is another point in favour of substituting gas for the old method of heating, cooking &c. During the winter months gas fires also play a prominent part in lessening the labours of the housewife. It is satisfactory, after having been out for some hours, to be able, on returning home, to get all the benefit of a cheerful fire in an incredibly short space of time, without waiting whilst the wood splutters, and the coal frequently refuses to kindle. When unexpected visitors arrive, it is so easy, whilst discussing the cheering cup, to set a match to the gas fire in the drawing room, and the temperature of that apartment having risen to a desirable height, the evening can be pleasantly passed in the enjoyment of music, for it is here that the piano usually finds a home.

Orderly Streets.

Considering the number of people about yesterday evening, last night, and especially the large number in from nearby outports purchasing for Christmas, the streets were very orderly. There was very little drunkenness evident and only two inebriates were jailed.

By using the gas ring at the top of the cooker, a plentiful supply of hot water can be obtained for washing dishes, dusting and cloths; further, by obtaining flexible piping, the ever-useful gas-heated iron is at your service. But it may be urged, is not all this gas rather an expensive item? Properly used, most decidedly not! For, without its aid, assistance in the housework would in many cases, be absolutely indispensable. In conclusion, it must be said that to abstain from the use of what is such an important factor in the lightening of domestic drudgery, is to say the least of it, being a penny wise and a pound foolish.

Invermore's Passengers. The saloon list of the Invermore arriving at Port aux Basques this morning is J. Barkshire, T. Mugford, R. Mugford, L. G. Mackay, H. Dunn, A. Mundy, Miss B. L. Coppessing, L. C. Outerbridge, J. and Mrs. Lawrence, P. J. and Mrs. Holden, Capt. G. H. Ferguson, V. Williams, P. Faulkner, C. Brumby, R. Jones, R. Powell, W. Donnelly, E. Gosse, Miss J. Hann, Miss Strong, Miss Hopkins, Mrs. J. C. Ash, Miss S. Winsor.

In a Dangerous Position.

Last night people passing that way noticed a man lying on the side of the road in Howley Avenue. He was drunk and evidently had been there for some time before being discovered. He was chilled with cold and exposure and had not been noticed must certainly have perished as it froze very keenly. The police were telephoned for and repaired to the place but before they arrived, people who knew the unfortunate had taken him to his home.

A Street Brawl.

Some country men and others who had taken more liquor than was good for them started to fight on Water Street West, below the Cross Roads. Some bad language was used and a few blows were exchanged but nobody was seriously hurt, and peacefully disposed citizens parted the combatants. The police were apprised of the occurrence and quickly went to the scene.

Hurt by Fall.

While working at Harvey & Co's yesterday Mr. D. Meaney, cooper, slipped while standing on a pile of sacks, and falling his head came into contact with a hoister near and he received an ugly cut. Mr. Clarence Godden, who is a First Aid graduate, brought the man into his office and deftly bandaged the wound.
