Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.
BERLIN, Feb. 2.
 A double execution of women with axe and block occurred this afternoon in the Ratibon prison in Prussia. The first was a young woman convicted of murdering her step-father, and the second a woman who murdered her husband. Both died stoically.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2.
 A band of brigands, who looted and burned Li Yuan Chow, murdered a French Jesuit missionary named Riche, and captured two others Fathers Alisin and de la Taille, whom they are holding for ransom. A fourth missionary, Father Gilbert, escaped. A French gunboat has been ordered to sail from here for the scene.

LONDON, Feb. 1.
 The bye-election in North West Durham, has resulted in the return of A. Williams, Liberal, who received 7,241 votes; Joseph Hardiker, Unionist, scored 5,684; and James Stewart, Labour, 5,025, a Liberal majority of 1,557. At the last election, when the fight was a straight one, the Liberal majority was 4,171. This was the first three-cornered contest in the constituency. The Home Rule question was much in evidence, as there is a strong Irish vote in the riding, and between 500 and 600 Orangemen on the register.

LONDON, Feb. 1.
 Repeated postponement of Chancellor Lloyd George's big political meeting at Glasgow, is attributed partly to the unsettled condition of the Cabinet over the question of the Naval increases and partly to the belief that he is not yet ready to place his Land policy before an audience of Scotsmen. At the last session of Parliament, the Government passed a new Land measure for Scotland, which was apparently aimed at the breaking up of large estates. A judicial court for fixing rents came into existence at the same time. One of the first performances of this court was in connection with some property in Stirlingshire.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.

The revised list of the Monroe disaster shows 19 passengers and 22 of the crew lost; 38 passengers and 60 of the crew saved. When the crash came those aboard the Monroe were asleep. Only Capt. Johnson and the watch were on deck. From the time the Monroe was struck till she settled beneath the waves not more than ten minutes elapsed. Baggage, clothing, valuables, all were forgotten in the flight from the stateroom. Pyjamas, night-gowns, and bath robes were the common apparel of those who made the slippery upper deck before the water trapped them below. By the time three lifeboats were lowered and got away, the Monroe rolled over on her side and it became impossible to launch the other boats. With a chorus of shrieks the unfortunates left the sinking vessel and made their way over the superstructure, through port-hole windows and companion ways until they rested just out of reach of the waves on the upper side half of the capsized vessel, but the vessel shivered and shook, then plunged beneath the waves, leaving the human freight afloat on the icy bosom of the ocean, a number of them being picked up by the boats of the Nantucket.

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 1.
 Heated altercations marked the opening of Parliament, in the course of which General Botha and his Cabinet were called upon to justify the iron-handed methods adopted by them in connection with the recent strike, whose leaders were secretly deported. Viscount Gladstone, the Governor General, in his opening speech, said that the declaration of martial law had been an "imperative necessity," but made no reference to the deportation. General Smuts, Minister of Defence, sprang to his feet at the earliest opportunity, and gave notice that on Monday he would move a bill to indemnify the Government for its acts under martial law, thus raising an effectual bar to the efforts of the labour men to move the adjournment of the House in order to discuss the "surreptitious deportation of citizens without trial." Time after time labour men in vehement language, amid great uproar, tried to debate the "crime of kidnapping citizens," but the Speaker refused to allow them to continue. Finally, while the din was still in progress, the labour members shouting taunts and uttering cries of "Shame" the House rose.
