IMPERIAL EASTER EGGS

Unique Presents Given by the Czar to His Wife and Mother.

St. Petersburg, March 28.-The Czar has had to grant numerous audiences recently to the court jeweler who has At Havre-La Bretagne, from New in charge the Czar's Easter gifts to the members of his family. cut from some precious material and surmounted with the imperial crest set in jewels. The one he gives each year to the Czarina and the one he gives to his mother are filled with mechanical devices. One court jeweler devotes almost all of his time to inventing and constructing new devices for these imperial eggs, but the precise nature of the toy is kept a profound secret from all except the Czar until after the gift has been presented The Czarina has now a large lection of these wonderful eggs, which are so fashioned that they open at the touch of a spring hidden cluster of jewels at the top. One contains a beautiful miniature of the Czar set in ivory and studded with magenormous total of 10,085,634 tons being nificent diamonds, the egg itself being of gold. Another, of crystal, contains miniatures of her daughters, each on pivot which turns at a touch, and the whole egg is on a golden pedestal set with one great emerald worth ":

One year the Czarina's Easter egg from her husband contained a model train of cars for the Siberlan Railroad so constructed that they could be taken out and set going across the table. DANTE WAS TOO HEAVY

Irving Says the Great Play Was Too Sombre for America. New York, March 28. - Sir Henry Irving and his company of players, 82 in number, sailed Saturday on the Atlantic Transport Liner Mesaba. They occupied the entire passenger accom modations of the vessel. To accomroom for the knight.

Discussing his plans, Sir Henry said I will arrive in London on April 6, and about the middle of the month will go on a tour of the provinces and reland in 'Beckett.' It will be practically a new 'Beckett,' for all of the costumes and scenery were destroyed in a storehouse fire some time ago. It has been my great desire to go to Australia, and I am now conducting negotiations with that end in view and may go there next year in place of coming over here. Be that as it may, I am coming back to this country again. 'Dante,' which we presented during the first part of the tour, was withdrawn because it did not go with and is no longer seeking a place can see that it is not calculated to man shall be put to death during his tour has been a very good one, and I find there has been much artistic de-

He said Miss Terry probably would be with Sir Henry Irving again, and that they were looking out for a suitable part for her to play. In all probability we shall have a young girl season, for the smart and more elderly married women have had a good time of it for some seasons past, so many people are recognizing this fact that dances now are given often only for boys and girls, as they are called. Mrs. Darcy's ball in Gros-venor square was an instance of this few married people being bidden with the exception of some chaperons. Two or three years ago it was suggested that chaperons should be done
