

Committed to his Charge

There is a new Rectory pew, but in the old one sits a sad-looking little widow, a serene contentment in her eyes as she looks from the blooming, girlish faces on one side, to a handsome boy on the other—"Eustace, only and beloved son."

THE END