

The Living Age, which has appeared with never-failing regularity for nearly two generations, reflects as faithfully as ever the age in which we live. It is composed of the best articles of the best periodicals, reproduced without abridgment, and is as much superior to any of them as the master-piece of the Grecian artist was to any of the beautiful women who furnished each some particular charm for the representation of perfect beauty. Each number as it is received is a delight.

The latest issues contain papers by the best-known writers, experts in the subjects treated: "In the House of Commons Half a Century Ago," by Sir C. Gavan Duffy; "Scottish Litterature," by Arthur J. Balfour; "A Reminiscence of Tennyson, by William Knight; "The Antiquity of Man," by Sir John Evans; "Contemporaneous Problems: The Colonial Policy of Europe and What that of Spain Should be," from the Spanish of the late Senor A. Canovas del Castillo; "Europe's New Invalid," by John Foreman, "Old Fiction," by Augustine Birrell; "The Superstitions of Shakespeare's Greenwood," by George Morley; "France, Russia, and the England of the Jubilee," by Francis de Pressensé; "The New Sayings of Christ," by M. R. James; "A Trappist Monastery in Natal," by Carlyle Smythe; "Ethics and Science," by Julia Wedgwood; "The Works of Robert Louis Stevenson;" "Unpublished Letters of George Canning," etc., etc. In fiction, besides an occasional short story, there is at present running a quaint and suggestive story, entitled "In Nature's Waggish Mood," translated from the German of Paul Heyse for The Living Age.

The present will prove an exceptionally good time to subscribe for this unique magazine, for the publishers announce that, to all new subscribers for the year 1898, the weekly numbers of 1897, issued after the receipt of their subscriptions, will be sent free.

THE HYPNOTIC MAGAZINE

Lee Howard questions the credibility of both possession and cure. Reports of the Chicago School of Psychology, the Illinois College of Psychology and the Kingston School of Suggestive Therapeutics by Drs. C. O. Sahler, Herbert A. Parkyn, Dr. A. H. Burr and others; Editorial Notes and Enquiry Department complete this number. The Hypnotic Magazine is a monthly record of the practice of suggestive therapeutics, and is edited by Drs. Sydney Flower (LL.D.) and Wm. Henry Bischoff (M.D.). It is published by the Psychic Publishing Company, Chicago.

SANMETTO IN CYSTITIS AND PROSTATIC TROUBLES.

Sanmetto yields uniformly good results at my hands. I have prescribed it in chronic cystitis of long standing, where the standard remedies failed, and effected a permanent cure. It is certainly ahead of anything I have ever used for enlarged prostate, and in fact for all prostatic troubles.

SANMETTO IN ENURESIS NOCTURNA.

Mrs. H. M. Robertson, M.D., of Middleport, N.Y., writing, says: "I have just received a letter from the mother of the girl to whom I gave the Sanmetto for nocturnal enuresis, and she assures me that her little girl has no more trouble of that kind, nor has had for some time, so thinks she is cured. I feel sure this case has been cured by Sanmetto, for it was an obstinate case, and did not seem to yield to anything before I gave her the second bottle of Sanmetto, although I had tried all the usual remedies. I believe in giving credit where it is due."
