experience of them has shewn them to be a class of men who read more readily than most persons, the intentions of those who approach them, and have always a word of welcome for those whom they believe to be right. We have no doubt but that our new Railway Secretary will speedily win his way into their confidence.

The reception accorded him has been most pleasing. Everywhere he has met with the greatest kindness. One qualification likely to win for him the confidence of the men, lies in the fact, that having been a bona fide railway man he can enter more readily into an appreciation of the temptations and trials of the men.

RAILWAY WORK.

WE are looking for much blessing in this department. Mr. Jex, the Railway Secretary, has entered the field with this one object in view, the spiritual welfare of the railway friends. We have no sympathy with the idea that railway men need to be amused before we can approach them on spiritual affairs; in fact, our

RAILWAY MEN'S RE-UNION.

OUR Railway Committee is busily engaged in completing arrangements for the Railway Men's Re-Union to be held (D.V.) in Shaftesbury Hall on the evening of Thursday Feb. 21st. A very attractive programme is being prepared, and no effort will be spared to make the gathering one of profit as well as pleasure. A cordial invitation Justified freely by His grace.
