

After "Lights Out."

Mac to the Rescue.

In a little estaminet, on the borders of Belgium, a British soldier was having an argument with the French girl behind the bar, on the question of change. His vocabulary was limited to about six words, and even these the girl did not understand. Just when there seemed no possible chance of clearing up the matter, a Scotsman came to the rescue.

"Parlez-vous Francaise, mademoiselle?" he asked.

"Oui, monsieur," said the girl eagerly.

"Then why the hell dinna ye gie the mon his change?" said Jock wrathfully.

Things That Win the War.

The following official letter was received recently at a certain headquarters:—

To Lieut.

Bird's nest in G.O.C.'s fire place—please remove.
Capt. and Adjutant

Dinner was in full swing in the big mess room, when the Orderly Officer made his appearance on the scene.

Orderly N.C.O.: Mess Room, 'Shun.

Orderly Officer: Any complaints, men?

Young Buck: Yessir.

Orderly Officer: Well, what's the matter?

Young Buck: I found an indelible pencil in my sausage, sir.

Orderly Officer (examining pencil): Well, what did you expect to find—a fountain pen?

SAPPER C. A. BABY.

A London policeman was over here recently on a special case. One Tommy remarked to his chum that he had seen him.

The other Tommy immediately asked: "Where is he? I want to see him. It's just as good as going on leave."

Q.M.S. GROWCOCK.

In a certain bar in a certain depot there is a bartender who is badly afflicted with a stutter. One day a man who was similarly unfortunate came in and tried to buy a drink.

That started it. Each thought the other was trying to imitate him, and the fight lasted for three hours.

Next morning they appeared before the Colonel.

The first man was marched in and the charge was read out to him. He was then asked what he had to say.

"Sus—sus—sus—sir," he began, "I—I—I—wa——"

"March him out," said the Colonel.

The second man then appeared, the charge was read, and the usual question asked.

"Wu—wu—well, sus—sus—sir, I—I—I——"

"March him out, case dismissed; insufficient evidence."

A woman got a bunch of dyed eggs ready for the children at Easter, and left them out to dry.

The rooster came along and sized them up. He did this twice with his head on one side. Then he went off and killed the peacock.

ESTABLISHED 52 YEARS

Military Tailors

FITTINGS IN THREE HOURS A-TER
GIVING ORDER.

34,

Queen's Rd.
Brighton.

Tele. 5937.

Close Saturday 1 o'clock.

BREECHES A SPECIALITY.

TRENCH COATS READY TO WEAR.

Canadian Engineer Buttons and Badges.

Personal attention by Senior Partner, J. G. FARR.

The Canadian Sapper

THE OFFICIAL MAGAZINE of the CANADIAN ENGINEERS

Published by the Canadian Engineer Training Centre.

President and Manager—LIEUT. G. H. CLIFF, C.E.

Editor—DRIVER J. BUTTERFIELD.

¶ "The Canadian Sapper" is published monthly, price 6d., with the idea of keeping the several units of the Corps in touch as to their social and sporting events, and entertainments, together with illustrations, articles, and items of general interest to the Engineers.

¶ Articles, photographs, and correspondence of general interest to the Canadian Engineers are invited from all members of the Corps, at home or abroad.

¶ All copy and photographs, etc., will be returned if requested.

¶ Correspondents are requested to use one side of the paper only, and to post copy to reach Editor not later than the 6th of each month.

¶ Advertising rates can be obtained from the Office of the Magazine.

¶ Communications to be addressed to The Editor, "The Canadian Sapper," C.E.T.D., Seaford, Sussex, England.