Westover and a companion named Hughie Boyle, summoned to court today on an assault charge.

Westover was found guilty and fined $5 and costs, but Boyle was acquitted, as the evidence did not show that he had done any more than render slight assistance by taking hold of the complainant's hand.

The testimony of Mrs. Bougs, whose husband is connected with one of the units at Carling Heights, was to the effect that young Westover had first asked her to go for a drive with her sister, but she had declined. He then gathered her up in his arms, a la Douglas Fairbanks, and before she realized what had happened, was in the buggy and being driven away.

Emily Brooks, Douglas Brimson and Alfred Turner corroborated the evidence of Mrs. Bougs, but as the latter had made no outcry, they did not interfere.

I can always see the spirit of the departed leaning over the grave, watching its own funeral. That may seem a strange thing to you. It doesn't to me, and to us who know and understand. The spirit hovers around the material body for three days after it passes out. It is probable that a subconscious understanding of this truth has made it the custom to keep bodies for three days after death before burial."

Met Mother's Spirit.

"Medium though I was, I was profoundly skeptical about a materializing medium in America until I had an experience with Mrs. Sawyer in St. Louis, when, accompanied by my husband, I went to a seance on invitation of an old gentleman, Professor Wilkinson. A number of spirits had been materialized, among them Professor Wilkinson's daughter. I hadn't known her, so I couldn't be sure whether it was a fake or not. But I was convinced when my own name was called out, and I was asked to go up to the cabinet and meet a spirit that wanted to materialize for me. It was my mother, and she put out both her hands and took mine. She always had a stiff finger, and it was this that struck me more than anything else in the materialization. 'Have you a stiff finger in the spirit world, mother?' I asked her.

"No, my child,' she replied, 'but had I not had a stiff finger when I came to you, you would not have believed.' She then wished to be introduced to the Mrs. D. Saunders Receives Group Picture From Germany

Overwhelmed by Germans While Fighting-Three

Joined the 33rd.

A photo has been received in the city by Mrs. D. Saunders, 270 Dundas street, showing a collection of allied prisoners at a German prison camp, her husband being one of the number.

Corp. D. Saunders was one of three brothers, all of whom enlisted with the 33rd Battalion. He was in many of the larger engagements prior to June 2nd, when he and his brother Charles were taken by the Germans in a battle in which the Canadians were cutnumbered five to one.

Germany, while Charles is still at another camp to where he was transferred immediately after taken a prisoner.

The third brother, Pte. Harry Saunders went over with the first draft of the 33rd, and was returned several months ago. He is stationed at Carling Heights doing duty as a bayonet instructor.

The garden party last night in connection with Ridout Street Methodist Church was a fine success. Though rain fell up-town, there was none in the south, and the grounds were in perfect condition. They were lighted beautifully with dozens of Chinese lanterns and electric lights, also decorated with Heights doing duty as a bayonet instructor.

All three came from Otterville, Oxford County, where the parents still reside.
