NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

President James Pilkington of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, will bring up before the members of the association at its annual meeting in Detroit, next month, a plan for the purchase by the association of a car that shall be reserved for the transportation of oarsmen to the national regatta each year. It is the president's intention to keep the car in New York, so that when the annual regatta is held at distant places, as for instance this year at Detroit, the oarsmen can ship their craft by water to New York and then continue with the New Yorkers in jointly using the car for the rest of the journey. The car would, of course, be so fitted up that the shells could be safely transported without the risk of damage to the present method of shipment in box cars.

Sol Mintz, of Hamilton, Longboat's manager, arrived at Deseronto, Ont., on Thursday, and was met at the station by his Indian chaperon, who took him to Mr. Maric's home on the Mohawk reserve. Longboat has been here since July 1st, and has been taking the best of care of himself, keeping away from the hotels. "I have my own contract now and think I will be able to clean all these good runners up again," said Longboat.

"Andy" Oakley, the pitcher, so well known in St. John, will manage the Manhattan of New York. Tom Doran, the old Boston pitcher, will be manager of the "Andy" backstop.

The Russian Derby, the eighth Russian racing event, which will be run off at Moscow July 11, is attracting unusual attention because eight American horses will compete in this event. C. K. G. Billings of New York has arrived at Moscow with Lou Dillon, and will take personal charge of his horse. Mr. Billings intends to give an exhibition of Lou Dillon's speed and style, but will not compete for prizes.

None of the spot light for Hans Wagner, king of baseball. He's beautiful almost to a fault. When the Pirates play in Pittsburgh, Wagner sticks close to the home in Carnegie. He rides to and from in his automobile, touring car. Never starts for the grounds until the last minute, and always hikes out for home the minute he climbs out of his baseball bag.

On the road Wagner sticks close to his room. Jim Malloy, chief clerk at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in Kansas City, who used to be on duty at the hotel where the Pirates stop when in St. Louis, was talking to Fred Clarke in the rotunda of the hotel. He asked where Wagner was. "Up in his room," replied Clarke. "He seldom comes down here one night reading the newspapers. One of these hotel 'peeps' walked up to him and asked him how he was."

"I don't know you," Wagner blurted out. "Why, you're Hans Wagner, ain't you?" chirped the 'peep'. "No," he replied. "Do you know you're the fifth man that's mistaken me for him tonight?" And saying that Hans "beat it" up to his room.

John Willis, of Chicago, was too strong for Terry Martin in Philadelphia on Thursday in the wind-up at the Broadway Athletic Club. Martin was obliged to fight on the defensive. In the fifth and sixth rounds Martin displayed more confidence and fought back in a victim manner. In the sixth he caught his opponent with a well timed counter and closed Willis's eye. It was the Chicago man's battle, but Martin made a good showing in view of his great handicap in weight.

One by one the veteran players are passing from baseball. A lot of the old-timers have been making good for several years in the minors, but even leagues of less speed than the majors are passing up the men who have had the big reputations in baseball for years.

The most recent old-timer to go is George Van Halten. Until a week ago he was with Oakland in the Pacific Coast league, but he has been released and will probably confine his attention to independent baseball and to his trade, that of a father.

Years ago Van Halten was one of the classic players in the big show. Until this year he topped the batting order for Oakland. He hit .242 and scored 88 runs in 1908, and was good enough to lead off for his club. He stole 20 bases, which is going some for a man 44 years of age.

MARATHONS WIN
DECIDING GAME

Defeated the Clippers Last Night Making Eight Victories
out of Eleven Games Played

The Marathons won the deciding game with the Clippers on the Victoria grounds last evening by the score of 6 to 5, and have won the right to play off with the winners of the Inter-Society League for the city championship.

In their series with the Clippers they have won eight, lost two and tied one. Their superiority over that team has been pretty well demonstrated. In that time they have scored sixty-three runs and have had forty-four runs scored against them.

The game last evening was delayed in starting by a shower of rain. At 7:10 play was begun, the Marathons taking the field, Gilmore opening the proceedings for the Marathons, but after three runs and two hits had been made off his delivery, he was replaced by Smith, who pitched a very steady game. The Marathons did not seem to steady down, and five runs were made by the Clippers in this inning. A feature of the inning was a double play by Titus unassisted he catching a hot one from Crosby and then catching Lynch off base.

The Marathons started out with five runs against them, but an accumulation of six errors gave them chances which they took, and worked in six runs, winning the game. Board pitched for the Clippers. He allowed only three scattered hits but received poor support. The score was:

THE STABILITY OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE AT STAKE SAYS HENSON

Notable Address Delivered Before the Canadian Club at Victoria, B. C.

(Victoria Colonist, July 1.)
In an inspiring and eloquent address, fervid with patriotism, and telling in unmistakable language the gravity of the situation confronting the Empire today, the Rev. Canon Henson, of Westminster Abbey, made his first public utterance in Canada yesterday at a luncheon given in his honor by the Canadian Club of this city. In the course of his address he said that the clergy of England were neglecting their duty if they failed to point out the need of sacrifice by the people to maintain the heritage which their fathers had won.

Speaking as a canon of Westminster Abbey, and as the latter is the House of Commons church, I feel proud of that position which I occupy. I want you to know that at home I am known as a cross bench man. That is, I belong to neither the Liberal nor the Conservative political party. I should be known as a 'mugwump.' I am explaining this to you because I want to speak of a great anxiety which is now clouding the minds of our people at home. We have arrived at a phase in our history where our domestic, our national, our imperial, and our religious duties are all at stake. I have the honor of knowing the great men of both parties at home. There is not one of them who cherishes the guilty ascription of making war. But the great men of both parties realize that the Empire today is under a cloud of responsibility. We have two conceptions of duty, based on tradition, which are not cherished on the continent of Europe. One is a now practically assumed and un-defended. Why should we alone among nations believe, with the immense privileges which are ours, that we can go on for ever enjoying the heritage which our fathers won for us. The Empire must be sustained by a new patriotism, a patriotism emanating from the nations themselves with England. Imperialism is a duty, and it is a duty which is not shared by the nations of the world. Imperialism may become an impermanent and non-moral sentiment. Patriotism will make a man understand the patriotism of other countries.

Canon Henson pleaded for patriotism of the highest and broadest kind. He said that patriotism to rest upon the ancient foundation of the home and the virtues, which we sometimes call the virtues of the Empire, is based upon the heartache. It is the world's guarantee of peace, provided it is strong enough to protect itself. If it should fail in this respect and its wide domain should become a prize for the nations to struggle for, it would be a disaster to the world. Few of us have ever thought what would be implied in the resumption of national wars. The world as we know it should cease to exist as a political fabric.

How often it is that the victims of disease, fever, measles, la grippe and other contagious troubles are weak and ailing, even after the disease itself has disappeared. They pick up and pick up strength as they ought, remain listless, tired and discouraged. The reason for this is that the blood has been impoverished by the ravages of the disease through which the victim has passed. Strength will not return until the blood is enriched. The blood can be enriched by no other medicine as quickly and as surely as by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People—to enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves is the whole duty of these pills—thousands have found them beneficial in bringing strength after disease had left them weak and run down. Among those who owe good health to these Pills is Miss Laura Hisco, New Ross, N. B., who says: "Following an attack of measles I was left greatly run down and suffered from a bad cough. I was advised to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and procured half a dozen boxes. Before they were all gone I had regained my strength; my cough had disappeared and I was once more enjoying perfect health."

The experience of Miss Hisco is that of many others. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich, red blood. This new blood strengthens the nerves and banishes such ailments as rheumatism, neuralgia, lameness, dyspepsia, etc., and brings the glow of health to pale cheeks. The Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
