THIS FARMER SUCCEEDED

A New Brunswick farmer, in a letter to the Farmers' Advocate, shows very clearly from his own experience that there is a handsome profit in dairying in New Brunswick. He also gives an illustration of a habit that is much too prevalent in this province, which is the habit of discouraging a man who seeks to do something for his own benefit and the benefit of the community. Far too many settlers have come to this province only to be told by their neighbors that they were extremely foolish to choose the province of New Brunswick as a home when they might have gone to the west. Incidentally it may be observed that in the Woodstock Sentinel there is a letter from a New Brunswick man in the west who says: "Tell any young man who can get enough to eat and clothing to keep him warm, to stay there and you will certainly be doing him a good turn."

The correspondent of the Farmers' Advocate tells in simple words his own experience. He says that five years ago he decided to start a dairy herd. He had at the time eight cows of common breed and he bought eight pure-bred Jerseys. He had his stables placed in a better sanitary condition, built a dairy house and bought a cream separator. Having thus made his arrangements, he met an old farmer who had been a friend of his father, and thought it would be well to get some information from a man of experience for the older man had formerly kept thirty cows, and made a specialty of dairying. To the questioner's great surprise the old gentleman stated that he had sold all his cows except two, and was making more money raising potatoes and grain, with much less work. He strongly advised his young friend and sell the Jerseys and go in for something else, as there was no money in cows. The young man went home and talked it over with his wife; and while he felt somewhat depressed, she was more confident, and declared that they would go on with their experiment for a year at least. That first year they sold butter to the value of $880 and pork to the value of $800, and raised four Jersey calves. Summing up he writes:

"We have not decided in the five years we have been in the dairy business that there is no money in it by any means. On the contrary we know that there is lots of money in it, for we have proved it. Our herd now numbers twenty-five, and our profits increased accordingly. I visited Mr. — a few weeks ago, and he is still growing potatoes and grain and still buying the bulk of his fertilizer. If I am any judge of fertility, his farm is not in as good cultivation as it was several years ago. If anyone is thinking of going into the dairy business, by all means do so. The profits are fair and the work a pleasure to those who like it."

"This correspondent complains that one great difficulty in the province is scarcity of help. He says there is no province in the Dominion more suitable than New Brunswick for the dairy industry at the present time. There are two obvious lessons to be learned from the experience of this man. One is that the man who goes about it in the right way can make a great success of farming in this province as well as in dairying. The second lesson is that it is not profitable to pay attention to the discouraging remarks of men who have not made as great a success as they might have done in their own business; since the fault is very likely to have lain in their own lack of knowledge, skill and energy."

A FREDERICTON INSTANCE

The Fredericton Gleaner says that seventy-five residents of the parish of New Maryland have agreed to co-operate with the board of trade and city council, and are ready to give one day or more with teams towards the improvement of the roads through that parish, leading from the city. Arrangements are to be made to carry out this programme, and the use of the city's stone crusher is to be granted for the days to be devoted to road repair. The Missouri plan appears to have commended itself to the people of Fredericton and its vicinity, and it would be a fine thing if the habit should grow and spread. If all the people became personally interested in this matter of road building, as they certainly would if they spent a few days voluntarily at the work themselves, they would very soon unite to insist that the provincial government do its share, and do it better than it has ever been done in the history of the province of New Brunswick.

Let us all hope, therefore, that the desire to give a day or days to road repair, voluntarily, will become universal, and so strong as to produce results similar to those recorded of Fredericton and the parish of Maryland.

On Monday, Labor Day, the Times will not be published.

BIRTHDAYS OF NOTABILITIES

SATURDAY, August 30

William Price, a lumber king of Quebec and head of the firm of Price Bros. & Co., was born on August 30, 1867, at Palca, Chili. He entered the lumber business as a young man and on the death of the Hon. E. J. Price in 1899 became sole owner of the Price Company. He is director of many companies and a public-spirited citizen.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 31

The Hon. S. H. Blake, Toronto, brother of the late Edward Blake and himself an eminent jurist, is seventy-eight years of age today. Apart from his profession he has taken a deep interest in the work of the Church of England and in all religious movements of the day.

Colonel George Taylor Denison, police magistrate of Toronto and one of Canada's most ardent imperialists, observes his seventy-fourth birthday today. He was born in Toronto and has had a notable career as lawyer and soldier.

Robert Hobson Hamilton, president of the Steel Company of Canada and an ex-president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, was born in Berlin, Ont., on August 31, 1861.

The Hon. Charles Smith Hyman of London, Ont., ex-minister of public works for Canada, was born in London on this date in the year 1864. He has long been engaged in the leather business in his native city.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 1

This is the natal day of Henri Bousa, a noted French-Canadian newspaper man and politician. He is just forty-five years of age. Born in Montreal he has been long engaged in newspaper work, and is now editor of Le Devoir. He sat in the House of Commons from 1896-1907 as an Independent Liberal but is now regarded as the leader of the Nationalists.

The Hon. J. A. Loughheed, government leader in the senate and a member without portfolio in the Borden ministry, was born fifty-nine years ago today at Brampton, Ont.

The Hon. J. D. McGregor, lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia, also observes this as his birthday. He is seventy-five today, a native of New Glasgow and long engaged in manufacturing there.

The Hon. C. W. Robinson, ex-premier of New Brunswick was born forty-seven years ago today in Moncton, N. B.

Judging by Smell

Pat and Jim were trudging along the dusty road when a fat touring car passed them with a white like a roar of a gas engine, disappearing in a cloud of dust.

"Gorry!" exclaimed Pat, "him chug wagons must cost a hape aw cash. The rich in this country is fairly burnin' money."

"Indeed, thin," replied Jim, "the smell aw it, it must be that tainted money we do be hearing so much about."

HER BABY WAS BOTHERED WITH DIARRHOEA

FROM THE TIME SHE WAS BORN

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY CURED HER

Mrs. Thomas Skalingo, Schreiber, Ont., writes: "My little girl, who is now nearly four years old, and is as healthy and strong as can be, was bothered with Diarrhoea from the time she was born until she was over two years old. The doctor in the hospital, where I was when she was born, did everything he could but did not get it stopped. Just as soon as I got out myself, I got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and gave it to her, off and on, whenever she needed it, and I never had always check it without any bad after effects, and in time cured her altogether. I always keep it in the house, as I have never found anything to compete with it for Diarrhoea."

When you ask for "Dr. Fowler's" be sure you get it, as some of these no-name, no-reputation, so-called strawberry preparations are being sold on the reputation built up by Dr. Fowler's. To insure getting the genuine, see that the name of The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont., appears on the yellow wrapper. Price, 35 cents.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

Stephen O. Adams of Calais, has disappeared from Boston after the shooting of Charles J. Hoff, compositor on the Boston Post. Adams' wife, over whom the two men quarrelled, is a native of Calais. They had gone to Boston about five weeks ago, Adams being employed as a chauffeur.

There is dissatisfaction amongst the citizen soldiers at Nanaimo, B. C., over the fact that they are receiving on an average of about $100 per day. The permanent employers are threatening them from Vancouver with loss of employment if they do not return from the scene of the strike, and desertions are feared. A petition has been sent to the militia department at Ottawa asking for $2.50 per day while on strike duty.

The first lord high chancellor of England to leave that country since the visit of Cardinal Wolsey to France four hundred odd years ago, Viscount Haldane arrived yesterday in New York on a brief visit to the States and Canada. He will visit Albany and other American cities, before going to Montreal as the guest of the American Bar Association before whom he will deliver an address on Monday. In an interview in New York he said that he was in favor of woman suffrage, that most cordial relations now existed between Germany and England, and predicted home rule for Ireland in the near future.
