Fables On Health

CARACHE CAN BE RELIEVED
MANY mothers are able to determine whether or not their babies have the carache from movements of the baby's hands. Often the young baby, even when at a very young age, will attempt to get his hand to the ear when pained by carache.
Heat is one of the simplest and best remedies. The child should lie with the ear against a hot water bag, or a warm flannel cloth. Be careful that the heat is not too hot to burn.
If this does not help, syringe the ear with warm water. It should be about 105 or 110 degrees Fahrenheit.
When a pea or bean becomes lodged in the ear, DON'T pour water into the ear. It will cause the seed to swell.
Water is an excellent remedy when insects crawl into the ear. Usually there is wax in the ear, through which an insect can not pass. Even if it does, there is a membrane which prevents insects from entering beyond a point where they may be reached.
Call a doctor if you are not successful in removing an object from the ear.

Adventures of the Twins

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.

DOCTOR BILL HAS A NEW PATIENT.
Doctor Bill's telephone rang, but he was so busy getting Mike Minorca's leg tied up that he had to send Nick to answer it.
"In this Doctor Bill's Hospital," asked a voice when Nick said "Hello."
"Yes, it is," answered Nick. "Who is talking, please?"
"It's me," said the voice, "and as I can't fly, will you please tell the doctor to send his ferry boat for me and take me over."
"Where are you? And who are you, please?" asked Nick politely.
"I'm Mrs. Ostreich and I'm waiting on the sea shore. It's as far as I could get. I can't swim like some of the birds—and I can't fly—will you please send for me right away?"
"Sure," said Nick. "I'll get you."
So the Twins took Doctor Bill's ferry boat and got Mrs. Ostreich and brought her to Doctor Bill's Hospital, and by that time the rooster was all fixed up so the bird doctor had time to look at his new patient.
She was about three times as tall as

FLAPPER FANNY says

LOST RUDDER
Losing her rudder about eight miles down the bay yesterday afternoon, the tug Neptune used from bunker hole covers along over the starboard bow for steering and back up to a point off Partridge Island from where she was taken in tow by the pilot boat. It was 9 o'clock last night when she docked.

It Looks Real Snappy

WIDE bands of shaded striped silk trim this navy blue frock with its long tunic and short sleeves. The silk shades from very dark to very light blue, and gives a very striking effect. A knot of blue gros grain ribbon with long ends finishes the turn-over collar.
