Clarke, the opposition candidate for parliament, is perhaps the most striking character the Klondike has ever produced in any way aside from the Klondike kings who have become world-wide characters. He is 32 years old and hails time he was in the gold commissioner's office here, under the first regime, and of later years has been a stenographer, an unflagging and unremitting political agitator and worker, and for a year editor of the Weekly Klondike Miner, which espouses chiefly the cause of labor and the fight in general against the Ottawa administration of the Yukon and the acts of local officials. Several libel suits have been brought against. Clarke here, but he has been victorious in nearly all respects. He is an indeworker, a shrewd organizer, and yet has a few enemies because of unqualified words he employs in walking rough-shod into nearly all If Clarke wins, Ottawa will have a character no less notable and enthusiastic in politics than James Hamilton Lewis and others who have attracted the attention of the American congress within recent years.

The Yukon opposition party platform calls for, in substance: A whole elective Yukon council; better code on Yukon

CATTLE AND HORSES

An Excellent Class of Sheep Were Also Exhibited-Large Attendance From the City.

Saturday's attendance at the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society's thirty-fifth annual exhibition was quite gratifying to the management, there being present a large number of visitors from the city and a good turnout of the farmers of the district. The show in some respects excelled that held in former years, but, for all, might have been more representative of the district. There are several big stock farms in the district that had not shown a single exhibit. As expected the exhibition demonstrated that the farmers in the district have within the last few years made some big advances in the improvement of their herds. The cattle especially were pretty well represented in each class, there being a fairly good showing of Durham, Jersey, Holstein, Ayreshires and graded cattle.

The exhibits within the hall were excellent in so far as their number went, but there was room for a much larger.

lisplay. This would undoubtedly have been made had it not been for the threatening weather of the forenoon and the previous day, when rain fell heavily. Reference to the fruit and other displays was made in the Times on Saturday.

During the afternoon a racing programme was carried out, and other amusements provided for the entertainamusements provided for the entertainment of all. In addition the Sehl-Bantly orchestra was in attendance, and during the day provided music, also furnishing the programme for the dance, which brought the exhibition a successful conclusion in the evening.

cattle especially were pretty well represented in each class, there being a fairly good showing of Durham, Jersey, Holstein, Ayreshires and graded cattle. One of the most attractive animals on the grounds was that of a monster bull, weighting 2,250 pounds, and belonging to R. E. Knowles. This bull, as may be supposed, was a Durham, but while he was the largest there were a number of young animals which promised to equal, if not surpass, him in size, not a few being Eastern bred.

Next to the cattle, the best showing was made in horses. There was exhibited a splendid class of dight and heavy draught animals, and all looked in the pink of condition. Sheep, too, made a good display, as might be expected from the increased interest taken in the raising of them throughout the district, But there was a poor exhibit of hogs.

Included in the poultry was an exhibit of an entirely new breed in this province, that of the Rhode Island reds, of which a very fine pair were shown by George Anderson. Among other varieties were some Cockins, Plymouth Rocks Leghorns, Bantams, Dorkins, Buff Orpingtons and Mindreas.

RECENT ADDITIONS TO TO PROVINCIAL LIBRARY

A Collection of Interesting Books Lately Secured—Travelling Library System Great Success.

E. O. S. Scholefield, librarian of the egislative library, has lately added to the collection of old volumes and manuscripts, under his charge, a number of scripts, under his charge, a number of most interesting books. One set consists of over one hundred volumes of the Annual Register published in London annual Register published in London annually since the year 1758. The collection was picked up by Mr. Scholefield in a little town in the United States, and was obtained for the comparative trifle of $100.

A most interesting book which he secured a few months ago was one published in 1640, and entitled "Speeches and Passages of the Great and Happy Parliament." Some true Loyalist has amended the title in per gold ink to read a lady who died in January, 1900. A most interesting book which he sea mended the title in pen and ink to read the "Wicked, Rebellious, Bloody, Black was announced, was vague. It was and Unhappy Parliament." This volume contains the speeches of many of the died quite suddenly in Dorsetshire, contains the speeches of many of the worthies of that memorable house, including that of Earl Strafford, delivered cluding that of Earl Strafford, delivered when they came of the newspapers mentioned the but all stated that he died sudof religion, some printed formerly and divers more now added, all of them revised for the vindication of his name from wicked and wilful calumnies, and by the same Sir E. Salt Spring Liquor Case Adjourned Until Next Saturday by Police Magistrate Hall. On Saturday afternoon in the provincial police court the charge against A. R. Bittancourt, of Salt Spring island, of oving trafficked in liquor was heard The liquor in question consisted of nine ottles of ale, which Henry Stevens had | obtained from the defendant. Provincial Constable Ego had found the ale in Stevens's buggy after the latter had returned from Rittancourt's store. Stev. ens contended that the ale which he got defendant was not the holder of a

that he was not familiar with its provisions, and would not give judgment until he had an opportunity to look into it.
The case was allowed to stand over until next Saturday.

The case has had two adjournments, when taker before justices of the peace, on Salt Spring island, and was on the last occasion adjourned to Victoria for

STRANGE DOUBLE LIFE

Disclosed By Death Which Came Suddenly on a Man Known By Two Names.

A sensation has been caused throughout the West of England by the discovery ery by the accident of death that Mr. Edmund Hall, an accountant and bee-Oborne, a little village a mile from Sher borne, Dorset, was in reality Colonel Edmund Carter Plant, C. B., colonel commanding the 2nd Glor teers, R. E., master at Clifton College, with a residence and, until 1900, a wife in Bristol.

The story of the discovery is worth Mr. Edmund Hall had lived at Oborne without anyone suspecting that the countant" had another side to his life. He went away from home on bu but no one was surprised at that. When he was at home he was noted for his Curiously enough, that is not one of the "recreations" which "Who's Who" gives as preferred by Col. Edmund Plant. Mr. Hall, who was about 60, went over one afternoon to the farm of Mr. Ryall, of North Wootton, in order to "drive" some bees After this operation he was sitting at tea with Mr. Ryall and his own little son, who had accompanied him. Suddenly he got up from the tea-table, and remarking, "I'm going to faint," fell forward and immediately expired.

An inquest was held next day, and the jury returned a verdict of "Death from natural causes," viz., heart dis-

Next morninfi the Bristol paper appeared with long obituary notices of Colonel Edmund Plant, C. B., who was decorated in 1897 for his services to the volunteer movement. This gentleman was a Hampshire man who settled in Bristol in 1861, first as a science master at the old Trade and Mining school in Velson street, and subsequently at Chfton College. It was in 1874 that he took over command of the Bristol Engineers as major, and devoted himself to rais ing it to its present high state of efficiregiment when he took command had dwindled to four companies, and rose by volunteer officer was recognized not only by the C. B., but by his being selected to escort him to his death. It also contains, in a separate chapter, a "collection of the heavy appears mentioned the heavy appears in the total that the died suddenly while at tea. This resemblance tion of speeches made by Sir Edward to the death of Mr. Edmund Hall was at Dering, knight and baronet, in matter first noticed as curious in Sherborne,

The helmet and sword of the deceased were placed on the coffin, as well as his C. B. and V. D. badges, and there were numerous beautiful wreaths and flowers. The gun carriage was drawn by eight black horses, and was followed by the charger usually ridden by the deceased. There were no mourning coaches. The chief mourner was the brother of the deceased, Col. A. U. Plant, who wore his uniform, and followed on foot. The Lord Mayor of Bristol sent his carriage, and there were dense crowds of onlook

The reasons for this strange double life so long maintained have not been dis-closed, but it is stated that the dead man's surviving children at Oborne were ntirely unaware of his real identity until after his death.

AVALANCHE BREAKERS.

In Switzerland the people have entered upon effective plans to defeat the avalanche n its devastating work. No more need the traveller be told, "Beware the awful ava be said he ordered it about three weeks of destruction are now broken up before bodies of snow that accumulate into masses Joseph Nightingale, who was with or velocity sufficient to make them danger-Stevens when he got the ale, also gave evidence.
