UNCLE CALEB'S WILL.

"You mean that you can't put yourself out to give your mother's brother a night's lodging!" said Caleb Cheverel, bitterly. The March wind, bearing dust and grit and bits of flying paper on its restless wings, came whistling around the corner, lifting the old man's faded comforter's ends and turning his blue gose a shade bluer still, while Mrs. Larkins, his eldest niece, stood in her doorway, filling up the aperture with her ample person in such a way as to suggest the familiar legend, "No ad-

Mrs. Lurkins was stout and blooming and cherry-cheeked, dressed in substantial alpaca, with gay gold brooch and eardrops, which bespoke anything but abject poverty.

Uncle Caleb was thin and meagre and shabbily dressed, with glossy seams in his overcoat and finger-ends protruding from his worn gloves like ancient rosebuds coming out of their

"I'm very sorry," said Mrs. Larkins, stiffly; "but we have but one spare room, and that is at present occupied. Of course 1 should be glad to do all could for you, but-"I understand, I understand," said Uncle (heverel, turning coldly away. "I'll go to my niece Jenny. I wish you a very good evening."

Mrs. Larkins closed the door with a sigh of very evident relief.

'I dare say Jenny will take care of him," she said philosophically. "Jenny has a smaller family than I have. But I don't see why he came up to London instead of staying peaceably down in Tortoise Hollow, where he be-

Mrs. Jenny Eldertop, Mr. Cheverel's youngest niece, had a smaller family than her sister Rebesca, but then she had a smaller income as well. She had just finished a vigorous day's cleaning when Uncle Caleb was an-

"Oh, drat the man!" said Mrs. Eldertop, wringing her parboiled fingers out of a basin of steaming soapsuds. "What sends him here just now, of all the times in the world?"

And she went downstairs ungrac iously enough to the street door, where her husband was welcoming the old tranger.

"Come in, Uncle Cheverel-come in!" said honest Will Fldertop. "We're all upside down here—we mostly are, now that the spring cleaning is going on. But there's room for you if you don't mind the children and their noise and a little smell of whitewash in the

Mrs. Eldertop's welcome was by no n eans so cordial. She looked, to use common expression, "vinegar and arning needles" at the visitor, while in her inmost soul she calculated the probability of the cold boiled ham and turnips holding out for one more at her husband, "and you're bound to be civil to him. And here's his overcoat now, with a zig-zag rent in it. Just mend it while you're waiting for the kettle to boil.' 'I won't!" said Mrs. Eldertop.

Come, Jenny, don't scowl so," said Mr. Eldertop, when Uncle Caleb had gone upstairs to wash his hands and face. "Ain't he your uncle?"

"All right," retorted her lord and master. "Then I'll take it next door to Alexia Allen to mend."

Now, Miss Allen, the tailoress, who lived in the adjoining house, was pretty and buxom to look upon, and Mrs. Eldertop had nursed comfortably a teclored of the local statement. alousy of her for the last four years "You'll do no such thing," said Jenny, tartly. "Hand it here."

And she threaded a needle with a black effik and thrust her finger into a thimble, very much as a determined crusuler of old might have donned sword and shield for some encounter "What's that?" said Mr. Eldertop, for a folded paper fell from the pocket of the garment as his wife turned it upside down.

"Some tomfoolery or the other," an-wered Mrs. Jenny, brusquely. "I fancy you're mistaken," said Mr. Eldertop. "It's the rough draft of a will."

"But he's got nothing to leave," shrieked Mrs. Eldertop.

"I'm not so certain of that," retorted Will. "Just look here, Jenny! I give and bequeath to my two beloved nieces, in equally divided parts, the give and bequeath to my two beloved nieces, in equally divided parts, the sum of £10,000, at present invested in

"Go on!" said Mrs. Eldertop, breathlessly. "Read the rest." "There is no rest," said her hus-band. "That's the end of the paper. It's only a rough draft, I tell you. And now, what's your opinion of Uncle Cheverel's fortunes?"

"He's been a miser all along," said Mrs. Eldertop, her face growing radiant. "Making up poor mouths and travelling around the country with all this money in the funds. A regular old character—just like those one reads about in novels. Put it back, Will-put it back. We've no business to be prying into Uncle Caleb's se-crets; but what a blessing it is he came here, instead of stopping at Re

And when Uncle Cheverel came donwstairs he was surprised at the sweet smiles with which his niece Jenny welcomed him.

Before she slept that night Mrs Eldertop put on her bonnet and shawl and ran iround to the Larkins' man-sion to impart her wonderful tidings to Sister Rebecca.

"You don't say so!" cried out the astonished matron. "Gespel truth!" said Mrs. Eldertop. "I saw it with my own eyes."

"He must come here,' said Mrs.
Larkins, resolutely.

"Not f I know it," said Mrs. Eldertop. "He's my guest, and my guest he shall remain." "Rut if I'm to share equally with you," said Mrs. Larkins, "I ought to show him some attention, the dear, generous-nearted old :nan!" "Lest he should alter his will," shrewdly remarked Sister Jenny. 'You always were a wordly creature,

"No more than yourself!" said Mrs. Larkins, bristling ap. "But it's my family I am thinking of, Jenny. I'll tell you what-I'll come round and see him tomorrow.' "But loa't you breathe a syllable about the will," said Mrs. Eldertop, in mysterious whisper. 'Oh, not for worlds!" said Mrs. Larkins, fervently.

During the next week Uncle Cheverel was overwhelmed with civilities. On Thursday a new suit of clothes arrived, with Mrs. Larkins' best love and compliments. On Friday Mrs. Larkins came with an open barouche to take dear Uncle Caleb for a drive in the park. And on Saturday Mrs. Eldertop burst into 'ears and declared she should never be happy again if her mother's only brother didn't pledge himself then and there to make his future home with herself and

Uncle Caleb looked a little puzzled "Well," said he, "if you really make a point of it—but I was intending to meet Cousin John at Gravesend."
"Dear uncle, promise me to stay here always," cried Mrs. Eldertop, hysterically. "Just as you say, Niece Jenny" asented the old man, complacently. Mrs. Eldertop felt that she had carried her point. But when Mr. and Mrs. Larkins came on Sunday afternoon to press a imilar petition Uncle Caleb opened

"My importance seems to have 'gone up' in the market," he observed quaintly. "I never was in such demand among my relatives before. But can't be in two places at once, that's

And he decided to remain with Mrs. Eldertop, greatly to . he indignation of the Larkins family, who did not hesitate to hint boldly at unfair advantages and undue impartiality. But just as Mrs. Lrkins was rising to depart, with her handkerchief to

"One side's written on," said he, and t'other ain't. It was lying on the I stepped in to see if Joseph Hall was employed there as porter still. An old chum of mine Hall was in Tertoise "A good for nothing old vagabond," said Mrs. Eldertop, acidly, "without a half-penny laid up ahead."

Neither conductor was months, he said, so I jest picked it up and put it in my pocket. Everything comes in use once in seven years, they say, and this is just right for little-Johnny's kite tail."

Mrs. Larkins looked at Mrs. Eldertop, Mr. Eldertop stared into the specacled eyes of Mr. Larkins. Uncle Caleb chuckled benevolently as Nttle Johnny skipped away with

CHAMPION NEW BRUNSWICK

On Saturday Sumner L. Crosby, the well known taxidermist, received the giant moose head of the season. The big animal was shot in the vicinity of Nictau Lake, in New Brunswick, by Capt. C. P. Williams of Albany, N. Y. Capt. Williams' guide was Geo. Armstrong of Perth, N. B. The head, although four inches smaller than the big Cook head, is the handsomest ever seen here. It has a spread of 63 inches while the blades in the clear are 19 nches in width. On each side are 16 toints, arranged in perfect symmetry. It took four days for the successful hunter and his guide to get the head out of the woods. Mr. Crosby also has the champion saribou head of New Brunswick. Up to Saturday noon he

One passenger, John Kerrigan of Cherry valley, was killed outright and another, Walter H. Holbrook of Leicester, died on removal to the hospital. Five or six others received dangerous injuries. The accident was caused by fog. which made it impossible to see an arproaching car.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 21.—In an electric car collision on the Worcester and suburban road near Leicester this afternoon John Kerrigan, aged 45, of Cherry valley and Walter H. Holbrook of Leicester, aged 19, a newspaper man, were killed and a dozen other passengers were more or less seriously injured.

The accident was largely due to the thick mist that hung like a funeral rall over the landscape. A large vestibuled car leaving the city for Leicester at 1.40 o'clock had reached the top of what is known as Leicester hill, where it is supposed to wait on a switch for the regular Worcester bound car. So far as can be learned tonight, the men in charge of the car attempted to steal the switch and neet the usual inbound car on the next turn out. This car was in charge of Conductor Michael J. Galien and Motorman Thomas Hiney and was fairly speeding over the icy tracks when the other car loomed up in the fog. The next instant there was a mighty crash, and without a moment's warning or an opportunity for escape, twenty people were involved in the horrors of a wreck that overshadowed in the awfulness of its detail any accident that has ever occurred upon an electric car line in Worcester county. Had the tracks not been enshrouded in the fog the motormen would have seen in time that a collision was likely and applied

Those most seriously injured are: Henry Henshaw Leicester, internal injuries: Mrs. Abbie P. Bowers of this city, bie P. Bowers of this city, severe scalp wounds; Mrs. Helen Pfeffmahn of Worcester, feet badly crushed; Mrs. Estes of Smithfield, R. J., mouth cut, prostrated by shock. Up to a late hour tonight no arrests had been made.

RAILWAY GROWTH.

The Year's Advance in Canada, the United States and Mexico.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Preliminary estimates made by the Railroad Gazette show an increase of 2,865 miles during 1898 in the railroads of the United States. This is the largest increase reported since 1892, when 4,419 miles were added. 27 .- Corn Hill, Kings Co., miles were added. Of the increase this year more than one-third was supplied by nine roads, among which were the Great Northern, with 165 miles; the St. Louis and San Francisco, 142; the Mobile and Ohio, 128; the Washington County, a new road in Maine, 118; the Pecos Valley and Northeastern, 106, and the El Paso and Northeastern, 106, and the El Paso and Northeastern, 100 miles. In the cistribution of the new mileage by states, Minnesota takes the lead, with 253 miles; then follow Texas, with 138; Louisiana, 171; Alabama, 161; Oklahoma, 157; Arkansas, 140; Maine, 123; California, 115; Missourl, 111; Michimiles were added. FISH FOR BRAZIL.

A feature of the business of Hallfax just now that is deserving of special notice, says the Heraid, is the efforts that are being made to regain a part of the northern Brazil fish trade. Forty years ago much of this was controlled by Halifax merchants, but they lost their grip on it, and the busiless went to St. Johns, Nfid. Shipments have been made by one or two firms for some time, and quantities have been sent forward via New York. N. and M. Smith are now loading the brigantine Goldfinch with a cargo valved at $20,000, destined for northern Brazil, and it is expected she will sail tomorrow. The market will not take our bank fish, and they require spe-cial packages. The Goldfinch's ship-

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Ill, miserably clad and apparently in acute destitu-tion, the Marchioness of Conegal ap-plied yesterday for admittance to the Great Northern Hospital, from which place she was removed to the Islington workhouse infirmary. She explained that she was homeless and not will-ing to communicate with her wealthy friends, or with her husband, who is

The story of the life of the march-ioness is painful. She left her hus-band in 1873, and in 1889 instituted separation proceedings, at which counter charges of misconduct were made Unsavory details of their conjugal life were also bandled about. The marchioness failed to obtain alimony, and has since received assistance from her friends. In May last she broke her leg in a hotel elevator and was taken to an hospital. The marquis has had a troubled financial career.
