

GET THE MEN WHO SELL IT

Magistrate Issues Orders to Police Regarding Men who Supply Boys with Liquor.

Considerable business was transacted in the police court yesterday afternoon. Charles McCarthy, a middle-aged man who was arrested last Friday night and charged with vagrancy, had to be assisted by the officers from the jail to the court room, he was so feeble. He was remanded to jail.

Lewis Kennedy, a seventeen-year-old boy, was charged with having been found lying drunk in a yard off Sheriff street by Policeman Gosselin. The officer told the court that he inquired of Kennedy where he had obtained the liquor and the young fellow stated that he got it out of a bottle but he would not tell where he obtained the bottle.

The magistrate said that the officers should make every effort to find out where the young fellow obtained the liquor and the charge of robbing a man who was drunk and in a great many cases went free. His Honor further stated that there was liquor being sold on the third floor of a Sheriff street house. It would be well for the police to look into the matter, to get busy and bring some of these offenders before the court.

A colored man named Weeks who was arrested last week and pleaded guilty to the charge of robbing a Greek of a sum of money in a Pond street boarding house, was further remanded to jail.

A man named Baxter, charged with indecent assault, was also remanded to jail.

A young man who had been arrested for drunkenness some days ago was brought before the court and was subjected to some remarks from the magistrate who said that the prisoner might be given a term of several months in jail under the Dominion Act and in such a case could not be liberated on the payment of a fine and get out of jail only to obtain more liquor. If, said His Honor, you like the smell of the jail so well that you frequently get arrested, might he as well give you plenty of it and send you in for some months.

A sailor named Linder was charged with having refused duty on board a schooner but as the captain did not appear in court the sailor was remanded to jail. His Honor stated that the captain should appear in court this morning. Because the captain did not want the sailor on his vessel was no reason why he should be left and lodged at the expense of the city and county. The police were instructed to have the captain appear in court this morning to see what could be done with the sailor.

Ethel Barbrick, a girl who was arrested Sunday night and charged with stealing $56 from John Lloyd Douglas Avenue, was before the court and pleaded guilty but said that she did not steal $56 but only $46. She decided to be tried in the police court and was remanded to jail for the present.

Ivan Waters, aged ten, and James Chase, aged eleven, pleaded guilty to having broken into Biglow and Flood's store at 37 Main street, and stealing a quantity of candy. A sentence of four years in the Boys' Industrial Home was allowed to stand against them and they were allowed to go home with their parents.

MATTERMAN ASYLUM NOW LOOMS UP BEFORE THAW

Counsel appearing for the State of New York argued briefly that the writ should be sustained, and Thaw's lawyers bitterly opposed it. Shurtell, White, Fraser and McKeown spoke in turn, all characterizing the proceedings by which Judge Boudreau, the chief of police of Cook county, seeks to free the man he arrested two weeks ago, as an act of fraud and hypocrisy. Mr. McKeown spoke last.

"This case," he said, "by reason of the wide publicity it has attained, has assumed a position of international importance. The eyes of the world are centred here watching the outcome of these proceedings. The writ of habeas corpus is known throughout the British Empire, the United States, in fact the whole world."

"Although we have searched every record we have failed to find an instance where the writ was resorted to in a case like this. If it is decided against us, the writ sustained, it will be a revolution in the whole basic principle of habeas corpus. Therefore, more is involved in this decision than the mere concern of the present case."

Criticises Boudreau.

Here he emphasized that the use of the writ by Boudreau "in Thaw's behalf" without Thaw's consent, was, in his opinion, subterfuge. "It is being used," he continued, "raising his voice, to hand Thaw from one jurisdiction to another. The hypocrisy of Boudreau's attitude is apparent."

"There is no doubt of the attorney-general's power, but if the attorney-general himself could not get out a writ of habeas corpus in this case, I cannot see the justification of his intervening at this time. If he could have been a petitioner it would have been the first action of its kind in history. As an alien under the British flag Thaw has his rights and is entitled to his full measure of time to prepare for trial."

"I will admit that it is his option to ask for a speedy trial, but the only just procedure is to let the matter come up before the grand jury of the King's Bench in October. We shall carry the case to the foot of the throne if necessary."

M. Geoffrion left Sherbrooke this afternoon for Quebec and did not announce whether he would return for the decision.

"I do not know," he said in chambers, and again this afternoon, "whether Thaw will be deported or not. I do not care." But our provincial jails cannot be used as a boarding house or as a place to escape the immigration laws."

The belief prevailed in Sherbrooke tonight that if the writ now before the court is thrown out, the attorney-general will take immediate steps to have the commitment quashed. Thaw will then be free, that is, for the brief instant before he is taken in tow by the immigration authorities. If ordered deported he could appeal to the Minister of the Interior. His chief counsel, J. N. Greenhalgh, of Montreal, was not present today, and it was said he had gone to Ottawa to confer with the Dominion officials in preparation for such a contingency.

A Great Lord Chancellor.

(Montreal Star.) Canada welcomes with all heart Lord Haldane, who comes here with the prestige not only of a great statesman and lawyer, but also of a philosopher who has done his utmost to explain Hegel to readers of English. This combination, rare enough, may seem to many to argue a mind too divorced from the brutal facts of life; but Lord Haldane has always leavened his philosophical detachment with a human feeling which has saved him from becoming too doctrinaire. He has, and has had, a splendid vision of empire; he thinks imperially. There is no living statesman who, short of absolute genius, combines more admirable qualities.

Miss Grace Campbell, of this city, left for Fredericton last evening to accept a position with the Department of Education.

GOLE'S DEATH DUE TO SUICIDE

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict in Case of Man who Shot Himself in Brindley Street House.

The enquiry into the cause of the death of a housekeeper for Gole before Coroner D. E. Berryman in the Court House last night, and the jury brought in a verdict that the deceased died by suicide by a bullet fired by his own hand on the night of August 22nd.

Mrs. Snow gave evidence that she had been a housekeeper for Gole but left him previous to the shooting on the evening that he shot himself and did not know anything about the sad affair until later.

Albert Coyle, a brother, told of the deceased leaving the house about five minutes after Mrs. Snow left.

Police Officer Hanns gave evidence of having heard moaning coming from a yard off Brindley street, and on investigating, with some others, he found Coyle lying in the yard with a bullet wound under the left breast and a rifle lying beside him.

Dr. F. T. Dunlop, who made a post-mortem examination of the body, testified to the bullet having perforated the body close to the heart and of being found embedded in the muscles of the back. The injuries were sufficient to have caused death which was due to internal hemorrhage.

Andrew Coyle, the father of the deceased was called but knew nothing of the shooting.

Miss Alice Kerr, who resided in the house adjoining that of Coyle, told of seeing Coyle in the yard at 8.50 o'clock on the night in question and he was all right then. A short time later she was one of the first to find him lying wounded in the yard.

Dr. Dickson, of the General Public Hospital staff, told of the injured man having been admitted to the hospital and of having stated that he shot himself, that he was all over a woman, and that he was sorry that he had done it.

DETAILS OF TERRIBLE WRECK NEAR NEW HAVEN

Ahead of them was the first section of the Bar Harbor express and a local train, due to stop at North Haven, three miles south of the wreck, led them all.

Under the rules, according to the officials, an engineer may pass a 'banjo' signal at red after he has brought his train to a stop. This, according to the railroad officials, the engineer of the Bar Harbor express did, and came to another stop about one hundred feet on the other side of the signal, a mile north of North Haven.

In the thick fog, came the White Mountain express, with the impetus of seven cars, baggage, day coach and five sleepers behind the engine.

Had Placed Torpedoes.

Meantime Flanagan C. H. Murray, of the Bar Harbor train, had gone back with the torpedoes, a distance, it was said, of four hundred feet. The torpedoes went off, according to the officials of the road and some of the train crew. Then came the crash.

According to Vice-President Whaley, of the New Haven, it would not have been possible at the speed the train was making, for Engineer Miller to have stopped his train within fifteen hundred feet after he saw the signal. The engineer did not see it, he said, until he was almost upon it, or, so-called, more than one hundred feet from the rear of the Bar Harbor express, and at the same moment heard the torpedoes.

His semaphore system been in operation, Mr. Whaley said tonight, Miller would have got a "caution signal" in the previous block, a mile away, and the wreck would have been averted.

"I do not wish to place any blame on this case," said Mr. Whaley. "This view of the foggy conditions a question to be determined is whether he was running too fast under the circumstances. There is no rule of the road which would require him to make up time and take a risk while running in a fog, and as far as I know he had no intention to make up time."

Chief Engineer Ellwell said tonight that the New Haven has been advised by the Public Utilities Commission to abolish the "banjo" system, once last December and again in March, following minor wrecks. In March, of which the blame was laid at the door of the "banjo" system.

Passengers in both trains were The White Mountain's engine, No. 1337, with of the new Pacific super-heater locomotive that figured in the Stamford wreck of last June, ploughed through the two parlor cars of the Bar Harbor, as if they had been as much paper mache. In the forward car of the Bar Harbor express, there was panic among the passengers, but the White Mountain came to a stop so gradually, comparatively speaking, that many of its passengers scarcely realized that anything serious had happened.

For several minutes after the first shock there was silence, the passengers said, and then, in the still morning, they sounded the screams of the wounded.

Kirby-Stephen, Sept. 2.—None of the four bodies recovered from the train wreck had been identified up to a late hour tonight.

The collision was due to failure to observe the signal.

The driver of a second train, in a statement, said that he was engaged in oiling his engine and did not notice the train at Mallett station, two miles from the scene of the disaster. His mate saw a lantern wave when they were close to the other train, but it was then too late to avert a collision.

The signal man at Mallett station, declared that the signals were dead against the second train.

MANY TAKE UP FARMS IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Twenty New Settlers Arrived this Week and Occupied Land Under Farm Settlement Act.

Twenty more new settlers arrived this week for New Brunswick. They came on the steamer Monaghan and for the most part, will take up farming in the province. Of the number, thirteen belong to one family. The new arrivals have all been placed in positions within a few hours after their arrival.

In addition to the new settlers, a number of natives are making demands on the Farm Settlement Board for farms under the Farm Settlement Act, and the board is daily receiving applications from all over the province. During the past week three applications were received from Canada, one from Ontario, one from Quebec, and three from New Brunswick. The farm settlement idea is daily gaining in popularity, and New Brunswickers are beginning to realize the benefit of the scheme and are taking advantage of it. The same advantages are being held out to the native as to the new comer, and the easy terms under which it is possible to secure farm lands in accordance with the settlement plan is keeping many at home who otherwise would look for farms outside the province.

James Gilchrist, superintendent of immigration, has received word from Mr. Bowden that the latter is traveling through Scotland in the interests of New Brunswick. During the past years the emigration from the land of the heather to Canada has been small, but Mr. Bowden is breaking new territory this year, and good results are looked for. He has visited the large fairs throughout the country, exhibiting scenes of New Brunswick, and lecturing on the possibilities and advantages of this province, and it is expected that the coming winter will see an increased number of settlers coming to New Brunswick.

Diaz Might Help Same.

(Montreal Gazette.) Felix Diaz, from England, announces that he will be a candidate for the presidency of Mexico. That is interesting, and may be promising. If there is anything in a name in such a connection a Diaz should be a good candidate, and a strong president if he is elected. And Mexico needs a strong president.

SENATOR BOIES PENROSE

Senator Penrose introduced a resolution requiring President Wilson to take the necessary steps to place United States troops in Mexico to protect American lives and property, such a step to be decreed by the Senate as in no way an unfriendly act toward Mexico.

RAVOLA HAD ROUGH TIME

Portland, Me., Sept. 12.—The schooner Ravola, which arrived on Saturday, lumber laden from John, N.B., for Boston, had a rough experience in the gale of Friday last, which the captain says was the worst he ever encountered.

The schooner was a great while in the harbor. The wind was blith with terrific force and the sea was high, the waves beating over the cabin, and the cabin flooded, shipping four feet of water in her at time. The schooner's deck was under water many times, and the per was a happy man when he rounded Portland Head early in the morning. Although leaking, what the Ravola will proceed to destination as soon as she makes necessary repairs.

Cap. McDuffee of the tug Canada reports seeing off Cape Elizabeth yesterday a large quantity of lumber, which had evidently not landed last week, and which was probably a portion of the deck washed overboard from the schooner Ravola in the gale of Friday last.

THE LEAK STOPPED
