

URGES NEW BRUNSWICK FARMERS TO RAISE BEES

Expert Tells of Ease With Which Big Money is Made—A Fine Thing for the Garden Generally—This Province and Nova Scotia Well Adapted for the Industry.

Monday, Jan. 27.

F. W. L. Sladen, bee expert, Central Experimental Farm, of the department of agriculture, Ottawa, is in the city and is registered at the Royal hotel. Mr. Sladen has just returned from Nova Scotia where he was lecturing to the students at Truro on bee keeping, and also spent some time looking into the condition of the industry in the Annapolis Valley. He said yesterday that he found there that very little attention was paid to raising bees, though the conditions were all that could be desired from the beekeepers point of view.

Mr. Sladen said that the purest nectar is produced in the province, and that it is possible to encourage the farmers to take up beekeeping to a greater extent, as it is one of the most profitable and at the same time one of the most interesting of the branches of mixed farming. "The neglect comes," Mr. Sladen said, "more from want of knowledge how to go about keeping bees than from any other reason, and it is the intention of the department to spread the gospel of beekeeping in those parts of Canada." In New Brunswick amongst other places Mr. Sladen will visit Sussex on Monday, Keweenaw, Tuesday, Woodstock, Wednesday, and Centerville, Thursday.

Good Money in It.

"As regards the demand for good honey," Mr. Sladen said, "this is a demand that can easily be created if it is not already there. It is everywhere admitted that honey is the best sweet food for children, and is, as everyone knows, the purest nectar of flowers converted into honey. It is more wholesome for children than sugar. The storekeepers could easily encourage the sale of it, by displaying it more prominently in their windows and developing its use as an article of food. The demand for honey is always ahead of the supply, and as a means of revenue for the farmer it is one that will add very considerably to his income."

"The average yield for each hive," Mr. Sladen continued, "is from $5 to $20, though one hive that came within my notice in Nova Scotia produced 150 pounds of

FINE HORSE BREAKS NECK

Islington Falls and Dies Soon After—Was Animal Which Ran Away With Halifax Lady on Its Back.

Monday, Jan. 27.

Islington, a valuable horse with an interesting record, owned by John H. C. McIntyre, which was to have made its appearance in an amateur performance in the Opera House on Thursday evening next, in the production of A Rose Among Thorns, broke its neck and died almost instantly yesterday morning near the Marsh bridge. The owner, who was in the saddle at the time, was thrown when the horse fell, but escaped with a few scratches.

Islington had an important role in the play, and was to have appeared on the stage in the first act with the leading man riding on its back. The horse had been trained for the part. He will now be greatly missed.

Mr. McIntyre took the horse out yesterday morning, and after riding for seven or eight miles, was returning along the Marsh road, when it came to the end of its first fore foot. Near Elm street the animal slipped and fell, its head striking heavily on the ground. The rider was thrown several feet in front, but was not injured. The horse lived about four minutes after the fall and then it was removed from the roadway.

Islington was a thoroughbred horse in the vicinity of twelve years of age. Its father was bred in Kildare, Ireland, and its mother was a thoroughbred from Kentucky. The animal distinguished itself on the American track, when it was a colt, and was purchased when it was about four years old by a Montreal sportsman who is said to have paid $1,700 for it. The horse was then introduced on the Canadian track and on the Belmont track in Montreal, made a record for the $3 mile, which has never since been beaten.

The animal will be well remembered by St. John people as it was the horse that thrilled thousands of people at an exhibition here about seven years ago, when it became excited on the track in the exhibition grounds and ran away with a Halifax lady on its back.

At this time it was owned by W. S. McLean, who was entered in several races, and the Halifax lady was on its back. The crowd had gathered round the course to see the horse, when Islington ran away. The animal did not seem to be wild, but appeared to think that it was expected to pull off its rider, and as it did so it pulled off its rider, and as it did so it pulled off its rider, and as it did so it pulled off its rider.

The horse was brought from Mr. Allison by Mr. McIntyre, who has him ever since. He was a splendid saddle horse and besides was a great pet.

DON'T WANT A CALL AT BOSTON

The danger that St. John may be practically dropped from the West India service does not seem to be regarded as very great. This port has enjoyed the service for many years and has built up a substantial trade through it and the members of the board of trade and others do not seem to fear that they will not be able to resist any attempt to take it away now as they resisted such attempts in the past. It is possible that St. John would be the port of call under the new arrangement and that Halifax would be left out, but there is no disposition to take it for granted that such would be the case. A service calling at both St. John and Halifax is regarded as a fair arrangement and it is this that the St. John men will demand.

Intend to Stand Against It.

A proposal to share this service with Boston would be something new and difficult to understand. The suggestion is an arrangement is only easy to foresee, however, and is something that the local business men intend to guard against.

Several years ago when a company was seeking to establish a steamship service between St. John and Havana the privilege of calling at Boston was requested, but the reply given by Sir Richard Cartwright, who was then minister of trade and commerce, was that "We are not subsidizing steamship services to foreign ports." The company then offered to establish the service without subsidy, if the government would only promise to reduce the tariff on any other line to compete with them, on condition that they would be allowed to call at Boston. Even this arrangement was not accepted by the government.

The suggestion has been made that the danger to Canadian trade which would be incurred by allowing the steamer to call at Boston might be obviated by limiting the tariff preference to goods handled direct through Canadian ports, but this is not regarded as a solution. Men familiar with conditions in the West India say that this would not be acceptable to the island colonies and it would be difficult to have in passage. Furthermore, it would not be any remedy for the delay which would be caused by the calls at Boston.

In discussing the proposed contract with members of the board of trade and merchants interested in the West India business a unanimous opposition to the reported terms was discovered. Not one man could find any excuse for an arrangement of this kind, and every one was emphatic in his statement that the contract must be changed.

Some Opinions.

J. M. Robinson, president of the board of trade, emphasized the fact that it was a bad principle and a poor precedent for the Canadian government to subsidize steamship services to foreign ports, and pointed out that if Boston were the nearest port of call to the West India all the business between western and upper Canada and the West Indies would be done through that port on account of the saving in time and railway freights. He also laid emphasis on the fact that the protest against the arrangement was entirely non-political. The board of trade has no political platform, but the welfare of St. John," he said.

F. E. Williams, of the F. E. Williams Co., Ltd., said: "I cannot understand why a service which includes a call at Boston should be subsidized by the Canadian government. It must be for the benefit of the steamship company as it cannot be for the benefit of the business men. At present, Boston has no regular line of steamers to the West Indies and what little business she does with the islands is handled through New York. With a direct service a West India trade would be built up which would not only be hampered by the extra delay but would have this additional competition to meet. I cannot think that the government will give a subsidy for the benefit of our foreign rivals."

Edwin Peters, of C. H. Peters Sons, said: "Under the present arrangements we cannot get sufficient space in the steamers to fill our orders for the new contract would improve matters but if Boston is included we will be worse off than ever. With the additional competition and with all advantages in favor of our competitors, I do not see how we could do business at all."

Lewis W. Simms, of T. S. Simms & Co., Ltd., said: "The chief difficulty we experience in securing orders in the West Indies is the length of time it takes to deliver the goods. The quicker we can land our goods in the West Indies the better we can compete with American manufacturers. The delays are too long now and longer. The proposed arrangement would also mean the diversion of much, if not all of the western freight from St. John and Halifax to Boston and would tend to minimize the importance of this end of the service."

H. Colby Smith, of A. C. Smith & Co., said: "It would be a great mistake to allow the steamer to call at Boston. Enough freight can be secured at St. John and Halifax to fill the steamers and there is no need of calling at a foreign port to give them the benefit of our subsidized service. Even the Cuban steamer is direct from the Cuban steamer to call at Boston and there would be more excuse for allowing them there would be for the service to the British West Indies."

H. M. Eves, who is engaged in the wholesale fish business on the North Shore, and who is one of the outside shippers who have been expecting to be able to ship through St. John when the new contract is made, is in St. John at present and when asked for his opinion on the proposed contract, said: "Shippers, especially those who handle perishable cargo, require a service as direct as possible, and anything which would lessen these features of a service would be objectionable. It is important to get the goods to their destination as quickly as possible to avoid deterioration and also to take advantage of market conditions, which are constantly changing. On the face of it any extra calls causing additional delay would be objectionable, unless there are some equally important concessions to balance the disadvantages."

REVOLTING STORY FROM RIVIERE DU LOUP, QUEBEC

I. C. R. Employee's Wife Said to Have Been Brutally Maltreated by Six Men and Left in Dying Condition—Lived Long Enough to Name Her Assaultants.

Special to the Telegraph.

Montreal, Jan. 27.—A Quebec despatch to the Star has the following:

Revolting reports come from Riviere du Loup of a crime committed at that point by six men who are said to have kicked and beaten a woman there into insensibility, thrust her into an empty apple barrel, and left her in a dying condition.

The story occurred in the woman's home, where her husband, who is I. C. R. employee, was absent. When the husband returned he found the door partly open, and going inside found his wife unconscious in the apple barrel. He immediately called over her body, indicating that the men had jabbed eight staves against her, in addition to kicking and beating her.

Shortly afterwards the woman recovered consciousness, sufficiently to tell her assailants the names of the six men. To his amazement, he learned, says the report, that they were people whom he had been in the habit of inviting to his home. It appears that the six men, in the excitement, were much the worse for liquor.

So badly beaten was the woman that when a physician arrived to give her the last rites of the church, he was unable to recognize the face of his parishioner. According to the pathetic scene, the victim's little children clung to their dying mother, sobbing bitterly.

One of the men mentioned in connection with the outrage, is himself the father of a large family, while three others were married men.

Two of the six men, it is said, have already fled from justice, while large sums of money are claimed to have been paid to get the affair hushed up.

As a matter of fact, the attorney general has had no official report of the crime which occurred in Riviere du Loup this morning. Later, it was announced from the department that reports from private sources had arrived concerning the crime. The reports were somewhat contradictory in nature, but as a result, members of the provincial police force had been despatched to the scene, and the department expects to receive an official report through the crime tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile, every traveler coming in from Riviere du Loup, and in fact, every one coming from that vicinity has the same tale to tell in substance, though there may be difference as to matters of detail.

The Story is Exaggerated.

Canadian Press.

Quebec, Jan. 27.—The attorney general's department has taken up the case of the Loup case, and has sent Provincial Detective Trudel to investigate. It is said that the accounts already published have been greatly exaggerated and that the story of the crime committed in Riviere du Loup is a case of a woman who was partly to consumption and partly to the excessive use of strong liquor. If it should turn out otherwise after investigation then the body will be exhumed and an inquest held.

BANK BILL SECURE

Tory Opposition It Muzzled

Hon. Mr. Emmerson Scores Its Provision as Tyrannous

Declares Canadian Bank Association in the Dominion Monopoly in the Dominion—Hot Time Expected Committee—West Trade Treaty Up To

Special to the Telegraph.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—The banking bill second reading at midnight after days' debate, carried on almost by Liberal members.

The silence of the Conservative opposition as upon as of the greatest significance. There were thirty Conservative members who the outset signified their intention to speak. Premier Borden, Finance Minister White brought the bill. They were told that the bill outlined the purposes of the government, well and pleased its friends, criticism by Conservative private members would be regarded with disfavour. The result was that no Conservative member of the cabinet, or of the task of presenting the bill, was left entirely to the measure. It is expected to meet warm reception in the banking bill, which it has been referred to, that his hand would be forced. Mr. White tonight, in a debate, stated that he would be glad to accept amendments.

Tomorrow the West Indian movement will take up the bill. Hon. Mr. Emmerson.

The debate on the motion for the reading of the bill, which was resumed in the house, noon by Hon. H. R. Emmerson for Westmorland. Mr. Emmerson's speech was previously published in the paper. Mr. Emmerson's speech for reform which had been in his address last week. He commended the "daring and noble" character of the bill, and in the name of Canada's whole people, he required courage for a member without regard to ship or politics to do as the North Ontario had done, and to stand by the bill. He said that the bill was a public confession of the government's policy, and that it was a public confession of the government's policy, and that it was a public confession of the government's policy.

Canada's Greatest Monopoly.

Mr. Emmerson was inclined to appointment of a monetary commission, such as had been engaged in by the government. The public had been told, had resulted in a monopoly, the most powerful today. There was, he said, a combine and no more "tyranny" than that exercised by the bank of the bill before the government. He said that the bill was a public confession of the government's policy, and that it was a public confession of the government's policy.

Mr. Emmerson called attention to the fact that the bill was a public confession of the government's policy, and that it was a public confession of the government's policy.

ST. VITUS DANCE

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Chorea, or as it is more generally known, St. Vitus' Dance, is a disease that usually attacks the young children, though older persons may be afflicted with it. Its most frequent cause is a deficiency of the blood, and the disease progresses this twitching takes the form of spasms in which the jerking motion may be confined to the head, or all the limbs may be affected. The patient is frequently unable to hold anything in the hands or to walk steadily, and in several cases even the speech is affected. The disease is due to debility of the nerves and is always cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich the blood, tone and strengthen the nerves and thus restore the system to good health. The following is a striking instance of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do in such a case. Mrs. Clara Phipps, Pelee Island, Ont., says: "At the age of fourteen my eldest daughter, Edith, became much run down, and the trouble developed into St. Vitus' Dance. First her arm was affected, then her left leg, and entire left side. She grew so bad that she actually could not hold anything in her hand, and could only go about with a sliding, jerking motion. Notwithstanding that she was given her medicine, she seemed to be growing worse, and finally her speech became much affected. We became so much alarmed about her that finally her father got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she began giving her these. In the course of a few weeks she was much better, and before all the pills were gone she was again enjoying perfect health. This was in 1908, and as she has not had a symptom of the trouble since, I feel justified in saying the cure is permanent."

Be sure you get the genuine pills which are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BIG FISH CARGOES REACH BOSTON

Boston, Jan. 29.—One of the largest cargoes of fresh fish ever landed in Boston in mid-winter was brought in today by thirty salt boats. The total for the day reaching 708,000 pounds, or 354 tons, of cod, haddock, and other fish. The boats had the haddock and halibut. The cargo was received materially during the day.

If you have no access to a hot water tank when it is needed, a good substitute is a barrel half filled with hot sand or salt. A good idea is to keep half a dozen little ones filled and ready.
