

SLAUGHTER AT P.E.B.

Alberta Proves Supremacy

By Owen Ricker

The lid was lifted on Western Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union hockey action over the weekend and the defending champion Golden Bears served notice of things to come as they twice took the measure of the University of Manitoba Bisons by scores of 10-1 and 12-3.

Bisons, showing the effects of insufficient practice and only two previous games, were hardly a match for the Bears on Friday night as the Golden ones took a 4-1 lead in the first period, made it 6-1 in the second, and added 4 more in the third. Ed Brown, Jack McManus, Gary Canadine and Al LaPlante each scored twice for the winners, with Jim Jones and Austin Smith adding singletons. Gib Pritchard replied for Manitoba. Each club received three penalties.

Although tested only 17 times, goalie Fred Lamb pulled off several sparkling saves, particularly in the third period. Lamb's teammates were foiled 39 times by Gene Kilosky in the Manitoba cage.

Saturday the action started quickly and within 2 minutes and 11 seconds the Bears held a 2-1 lead. The Bears added two more before Lavren Loewen counted with four seconds remaining in the period.

Manitoba counted early in the second to narrow the gap to 4-3 but the Bears added two more to their lead before the period ended. The Green and Gold dumped six unanswered goals past Les Maunder in the final session.

Austin Smith, Dick Dunnigan and Don Weaver each scored twice for the locals with others coming from the sticks of Jack McManus, Jim Jones, Bob Merner, Bob Marik, Jack Aubin and Al LaPlante. Besides Loewen, Stefan Solmundson and Don Baizley counted for the Herd. The teams split 8 penalties.

Maunder had a busy afternoon, turning aside 40 shots, while Spike Schultz managed to get in the way of 22 at the other end of the rink.

BACK OF THE BLUELINE

Big point-getters for the weekend were Al LaPlante and Austin Smith who each scored 3 goals and assisted on 5 more. Doug Messier picked up 6 assists and also had the dubious distinction of being the series badman with 6 minutes in penalties. Lavren Loewen and Stefan Solmundson each had a goal and a pair of assists for the Bisons.

An interested spectator at the games was Neil Dewberry, father of Bears' Jim. Another Saturday onlooker, although not quite so interested, was Doug Messier's 3-year-old son. Mrs. Messier presented Doug with another son, a bouncing 7 pound 10 ounce, last Wednesday.

MONKEY MAKING

Bisons showed flashes of ability throughout the series but were unable to put up a sustained attack and had trouble controlling the puck in the Bear zone. Bears, with superior conditioning and more practice, managed to make monkeys out of the Manitobans on more than one occasion. Had the Green and Gold been going their best lick the score would probably have risen much higher, as they missed many excellent scoring chances in the two games.

Dunnigan, LaPlante, Smith and Messier all had to dash down to Lacombe for a Saturday night game between their 'other team', the Lacombe Rockets, and the Edmonton Oil Kings, and then return to Edmonton for a Sunday rematch between the same two clubs. For Dunnigan and Smith the Sunday contest was their sixth game in five days.

Bears next action comes this weekend as they attempt to defend the Hamber Trophy against the UBC Thunderbirds in Vancouver.

Flash: University of Alberta Golden Bears and the University of Saskatchewan split a pair of weekend basketball games, Alberta winning 58-54 Friday and Saskatchewan 81-63 Saturday.

OH GOD, NOT AGAIN!

$40,000,000 In Scholarships Proposed By Opposition

Ottawa (CUP) — University students were promised a scholarship and bursary scheme amounting to $40,000,000 each year when the Liberals are returned to power.

The National Liberal Rally called for the plan of 10,000 scholarships and bursaries awarded on the basis of merit and need to be given each year. This resolution over-ruled one proposed by the Canadian University Federation for free University education. However, CULF vice-president Fred Livingstone (Western) supported the resolution with his amendment, which called for need to be one of the criteria.

In addition the rally proposed a University loan fund to be administered by the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges and or another independent body to ease the financial burden of the students.

Although the resolutions were passed they need not be followed by the party, but it is more than likely that Liberal leader Pearson and the shadow cabinet will adjust their platform to the wishes of the rally.

LOANS PROPOSED

C. M. Jeffery, a Young Liberal from Vancouver, read the proposal for loans which asked that "all qualified students at Universities and similar institutions will be able to borrow from the fund, to meet genuine educational needs."

These loans will be interest free for the period of study, after which a "moderate rate of interest will be charged for four years". The loans will be expected to be repaid within that time.

Student opinion of the resolutions was varied. However, those who indicated their feelings felt it was a step in the right direction. During the discussion the students held two demonstrations—one for the benefit of the CBC—to stir up some enthusiasm in the crowd which listened but cheered little, through the evening.

TORONTO DISSENTER

One dissenting voice among the CULF members was Jim Fleming, head of the Toronto party who felt that the scheme was a "negative approach to the problem", but "is a step forward which the PC's are certainly incapable of taking".

Rather than limit the scheme to 10,000 scholarships and bursaries, he believed that "any qualified student should be able to draw on the fund". He also felt that "merit and need" meant a means test for students. Fleming was one of the members of the CULF who called for the adoption of a resolution calling for free University education. CULF passed such a resolution a day earlier but had failed to define what it meant by free.

Vice-President Livingstone disagreed with Fleming on whether or not it would set up a means test. He thought that free education might come eventually, and indicated he would not be opposed to it so long as such "welfare did not destroy the initiative of the individual".

Western Vice-President Tex Enemark (UBC) agreed, "I believe a fellow should have to work for what he gets". Student editor Jim White (OAC) said he "didn't want a system of entirely free education", but declared "It's about time we had money to put people through University".

Model Parliament

This week our campus politicians win or lose your support. This is campaign week for the annual University of Alberta Model Parliament.

Campaigning officially started at 3 p.m. Monday. The schedule calls for three general public meetings: rally at Convocation Hall on Tuesday, and at the Education auditorium on Thursday, plus a leaders' debate on Unemployment in West lounge Wednesday. The rallies are at 11:30. The debate is at 12:30. There will also be speeches at residences and club meetings.

Election day is Friday, Jan. 27. Voting will take place from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at eleven convenient polls across campus.

Model Parliament will be in session from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. on the evenings of Feb. 6, 7 and 8 in Convocation hall. Sessions will be open to the public. The 65 seats will be divided among the six campus parties by percentage of total vote.

Bob Jarvis, law 1, is Co-ordinator of Model Parliament, which is sponsored by the Political Science club.

Winter Works

The parking lot planned for the site of the former Drill hall will not be ready for use until late spring, B. W. Brooker, superintendent of buildings, said last week. Levelling operations cannot begin until the ground has thawed. The lot will be gravelled.

He made no mention of the effect the delay may have on the federal winter works program.

The extension to the Engineering building should be completed by mid-March, Mr. Brooker stated. The department of public works has taken over the building from the contractor, and is doing interior finishing work. Some parts of the wing will be ready for use by the end of January. The extension was first used during examination week, January 9-14, but has not been otherwise occupied.

Bleed

Once again the time is approaching for the letting of blood. On Feb. 6 to 9 and 20 to 22, the brave students of U of A will have the opportunity of rolling up their sleeves for the Red Cross and their fellow men.

To speed the flow, several trophies and competitions are traditional. Inter-university competition features the Corpuscle Cup, which goes to the University having the largest percentage contribution.

For the largest faculty donation, there is the Transfusion Trophy, which was won last year by physiotherapy with a 100 per cent turn-out. The Ash Trophy is the goal of a competition between the medical and engineering students. There are also other smaller competitions including an inter-fraternity contest.

Last year, 50 per cent of the student body donated 2,402 pints. Andy Stewart, med 4, who is in charge of the drive, hopes that, due to the increased student population, 3,500 to 4,000 pints will be realized this year. The Law faculty was lowest with 40 per cent.

Many students may hesitate to contribute because they are involved in athletic activities or are about to write an exam and feel it would affect their performance. The Red Cross wishes it to be known that tests indicate the blood is actually better after giving. Short of jaundice or malaria there is no good excuse for getting out of it.

Andy Stewart will be assisted in the clinic operations by Jack Yasayko.
