Third world war eh . . . well, by the time this column is printed, we ought to know. The three main figures in this Caribbean Circus appear to be Dr. Khrushchov, Dr. Castro and Dr. Kennedy (and you know where he got his LL.D.). I heard someone say last week that they were off to join the Cuban Air Force 'cause they wanted to be on the winning side — that's the sort of patriotism we're looking for.

I think everyone is getting a little tired of this petty male-female conflict. Personally I think it's a lot of hocey and I don't see any real grounds for complaint — we get along pretty well anyway.

Student activities are all fine and dandy but after last Friday night, with the Arts Ball, Law Ball, a couple of house socials and a piano concert, one might wonder if the Campus Co-ordinator has taken an over-dose of nerve food. A less crowded weekend might allow people to do a few things one at a time.

Here's a little thought for the moment — too many people are bumming cigarettes in Student Centre. Personally I think that it's a rather tiresome habit even though it is cheap — so for heavens (we're not allowed to swear in this scandal sheet) BUY YOUR OWN.

Also, it's about the drinking fountains in Carleton Hall; there's hot water only on the third floor, no pressure on the second floor, and the ground floor fountains are being used as ash-trays. Oh well, I suppose there is a lack of water-drinkers on campus and this deficiency won't be noticed.

We hear:

- that the university clocks need to be rewound.
- that usually reliable sources relate that Ross Webster will lose a five dollar bet to Hope Hyslop if he takes out a freshette this year.
- that there were a few broken engagements last week
- that 5-9002 is constantly busy . . .
- that 680 Brunswick Street looked like Dog Patch last Friday nite.
- that "Hobo Hats" such as the one owned by Steve Finch and Jennefer Adam are becoming really popular at most other universities.
- that the Brunswickan Staff is one big happy family with the usual one or two black sheep.

From the McGill Daily — here's something to stir the emotions — to the tune of I'm a Freshette.

I'm a raindrop
I'm a raindrop
I'm a raindrop in the ocean
But I'd rather be a raindrop
That a G — D — Nova Scotian.

The Looking Glass

by DAVE KEAYS

Canadians are such a clean, pure bunch, aren't they? I am one and it's a satisfying feeling. It's wonderful that we are so liberal-minded, tolerant, and unprejudiced when racial strife rages on in other countries.

I just had to get a patriotic big head when I read about that ugly display of race hatred at the University of Mississippi, on being fortunate enough to be a citizen of the land of the Maple Leaf, and the naked Doukabor.

I can't understand why the rest of the world doesn't follow our example. I get all warm inside when I'm reminded that I belong to a nation that is entirely without discrimination. It seems that everywhere else somebody hates another type of people, but we love everybody.

I guess I can't say we aren't without our little faults concerning the acceptance of others who aren't Canadian. One can carry this idiotic hogwash over the limit very easily. We can easily see that the "Darn Roman Catholics" or the "radical Protestants" are "hungry for power" and "out for our blood" and that "they have to be stopped".

Negroes are humans with rights too, but we just have to appease American sentiment and segregate our tourist areas. After all, business is business.

It's only fair to us that Jews be kept in their own camp. They are just too smart for their own good. They like the clothing business so let's not let any more of them into the professions or big business.

Our own racial tolerance really shines when it comes to our treatment of native Indians. Did we crowd them into tiny reservations, as the Americans did, after proving our superiority? Well, yes, we did, actually, but we were generous and paid them cold, hard cash for those lands. Well, not exactly cash, maybe, but a good long-term promissary note.

And it wasn't that we took away all this good land and gave them nothing, was it? We just took a lot of old pastures and crop lands that they weren't using, anyway, and we handed over some high, rocky land and some good, fertile swamps for their reservations.

Isn't it wonderful how we make the Indians observe their rights? In time of war, we let them join the Army just like white people.

Why, in some of our more civilized provinces they can drink side by side with us. They can even go to school with us which may or may not be a blessing.

Oh! Canada. The land of integrated peoples. Well, America Is . . .

OXFORD, Miss.—In the eyes of the world Mississippi is America. The Mississippi of General Walker, of Ross Barnett, and of confederate flags which fly everywhere in this little town, is what America means . . . because a great nation cannot be allowed to lapse into cruelty and violence, even within the smallest part of one of its smallest states.

At this moment America is the Army general who led a mob of teenagers, armed with rifles and rocks, against United States Marshalls.

America is the Mississippi state trooper who urged a group of students to "go get Meredith."

America is the "Ole Miss" student who crushed to pieces a newsman's camera and was cheered by his fellow students.

America is a state trooper who screamed at reporters for not showing "proper Southern courtesy" to a woman — and then stood idly by while a reporter was beaten by five students.

Perhaps the saddest of all of what America is today is the university administrator who used a loudspeaker to urge students to return to their dorms after the riot Sunday saying: "You have done nothing to be ashamed of . . . return to your dorms . . . you have done nothing to be ashamed of."

Look closely at this . . . look closely and see what your America has become.
