Varsity Reds looking for a home

By Mark Savoie
 Brunswickan News

The only thing that's clear so far is that game 2 of the MacAdam Division hockey finals will not be held at the Aitken University Centre. This is because Gord Lebel, Director of the Aitken Centre and member of the NBAA Final 12 Organising Committee, has scheduled the high school final 12 tournament for the same date.

As a result, Athletic Director Jim Born has been forced to enter into negotiations with UdeM and UPEI in the hopes of convincing the winner of that playoff series to allow game 2 of the division finals to be rescheduled. Born has stated that he is not optimistic of success.

This means that the second game of the series will be played at either the LBR or at Harbour Station in Saint John. Neither site is ideal. The small ice surface at the LBR greatly hinders the skating style of the UNB Varsity Reds, while equally enhancing the slower style employed by both UdeM and UPEI. UdeM, UNB's most likely opponent in the division finals, has been particularly successful in the LBR this season.

The problems with Harbour Station are twofold. In addition to the added expense of transporting the V-Reds to Saint John for what is supposed to be a home game, there is also the fear that the adoption of a neutral site will not be able to attract spectators from UNB. At present, Born knows of no plans by the university to assist students and alumni attend a game in Saint John. Of course, all of this becomes moot should the V-Reds sweep the remaining games of their playoff series with the St. Thomas Tommies this weekend.

tract with the Centre expired in the spring of 1994, and was not renewed until November 24. On February 11, 1994 a copy of this academic year's varsity athletics schedule was delivered to the office of then Associate Vice-President Eric Garland. A copy of this schedule has also been in general circulation on campus since September. Despite this, Gord Lebel has stated that he feels no need to consult with Jim Bron or the Athletic Department when scheduling events for the Aitken Centre.

Gord Lebel has refused to speak with The Brunswickan unless he is given approval by his immediate supervisor, Associate Vice-President Michael Ryan. Ryan was unavailable to The Brunswickan for this week's issue, instead consenting to be interviewed on Monday of next week.

Born is unwilling to overtly criticize the Aitken Centre's treatment of the UNB Varsity Reds. "We have 13 games in the AUC in the course of a season. We have three exhibition games in the AUC. We have the playoffs in the AUC. To me, that's good value, as far as being able to play out of there, and we're quite successful in the AUC".

He is nevertheless obviously frustrated by the team's status at the Aitken Centre in relation to the Final 12 tournament. "The hurdle we have to jump is the one weekend in February when we are told that we can't play in the AUC for our games in the Saturday/Sunday format which the AUAA has in place".

The first few years that the Aitken Centre hosted the Final 12 there was no scheduling conflict with the hockey team, since at that time the team was not a threat to make the playoffs. However, since the arrival of Coach Mike Johnson the Red Devils/V-Reds have been perennial MacAdam Division favourites. This turn of events has caused problems for the Athletic Department and Jim Born. "We met with the AUC and we talked about what's going to happen when we became successful. I've had to talk to the AUAA three years in a row now, and I've also talked to the University of New Brunswick". Born says that he is unsure as to how communications between the Athletic Department and the Aitken Centre could be improved.

The team itself is trying to ignore the problems with the Aitken Centre. "The team's not concerned about it", laughed Coach Danny Grant. "Everybody else is. If something happens and we have to go to another building, then so be it. There's nothing we can do about it". This sentiment was echoed by Alternate Captain Karl Taylor. "You learn very early in life not to worry about things you have no control over".

Pizza burglars break in to Beaver kitchen

By Alex Brennan
 Brunswickan News

At some point in our lives, most of us have eaten at Beaver Foods. And at some point, usually directly after eating, most of us have complained about Beaver Foods. The complaints are usually jokes though, and we continue to frequent our local Beaver Foods hot spot, the SUB cafeteria.

There are two students in particular however, that prefer to frequent this location a little more often than most, even when it's closed. Their only complaint about the food may be that they didn't get any.

On January 21, at 6:20 am, "Pizza PJ", was the unexpected host of two prowlers. Fortunately, this host was ungracious, and relinquished nothing to the world-be burglars.

The culprits gained access to "Pizza Pi" through an unlocked side door of a room frequently used in the evenings, for various purposes. The door had apparently been left unlocked the night before and was an easy way in for the prowlers.

The supervisor of the SUB cleaning crews discovered the crime in progress when he stepped from the elevator and witnessed the two men trying to get into a refrigerator. Upon discovery, the culprits ran from the building, down the pathway, and into Neil House.

The supervisor then alerted campus security and gave them a full report. Rick Peacock, Director of Security, reports that "it appears that they were attempting to steal a couple of pizzas from the fridge, but they didn't get away with anything. Because they didn't get anything from the fridge the charge is break and enter with intent".

Nobody has been charged in relation to this incident, and no suspects have been realized either. The incident has been reported to the Fredericton City Police however, and Peacock urges people with information to contact Crime Stoppers. That number is 1-800-222-

TIPS, that's 1-800-222-8477, in case you missed it on the 5,000 commercials it's aired on.

Break and enter on campus is serious business especially when it concerns a party, Beaver Foods, that provides its services at all eating establishments on campus. So question the food all you want, but at least pay for it first! And come during business hours.

Two people of unknown identity, broke into this kitchen at "Pizza Pi", apparently with an early-morning hunger.
