

the Capt. thinks if I see some of the Officials of the Penard Co. I can save him from that. I have had a long talk with Sugrill, & seen his soldiers work, & his discharge papers, & am convinced that the most I can do is out-tor must to help such a man. So I have decided to ship him to Canada this time, & just as soon as ever I can - with a letter in his pocket commending him to specter caught on & said he misdealt things (of course they had been R.M.S. "IVERNIA" told just what his to tell) & that they could be caught & sent back any time in three years if it was found they had been brought in on false pretences - all five coming from the same place, going to same destination, with the same amount of money in their purses was suspicious!

Well, he got 8 months work &
