

might they about it was that in the long run an addlⁿ motive, reliance to economic was sufficient to bring a no. of people to come at their own cost.
 Granting that certain persons were going to be at expense of bringing cultivation of soil into the country, there must be some means devised to bring them a return. It is a sign of things that the capitalists of Holland - the most ~~defensible~~ ^{defensible} when they began to talk about putting hands in their pockets to bring people to New Amster-dam, did find no other machinery to ensure their profits than the forms of decaying ^{improved} ~~found~~ systems around them. The patroon system was a transplant to the new world of a decaying manorial system as an investment for bringing over cultivation

Dutchmen were seen more out of touch, yet Penn when he began to establish his colony fell back on forms of Eng manorial system

~~For some time~~
 The West India Co of Holland was chiefly engaged in an unsuccessful attempt to conquer Brazil & other Spanish possessions in S. America. From 1630 on they began this effort. - efforts finally unsuccessful, the only permanent acquirement of the Dutch Co being a strip of Guinea which was transferred to Britain in 1800 with all the claims which had been decided for each by the Peace of ~~Utrecht~~ ^{Utrecht} -

Re East India Co.
 The Dutch Republic fitted out 1598 had at