

The existing division was due, as you know, to the action of the Senate of the University respecting matriculation. The Senate has recently reverted to the former plan of having only one examination for matriculation. If we decide to have no departmental examinations affecting High School work until pupils complete form three in the High School, it will be a great relief to both teachers and students.

In conclusion, Mr. Chairman, I wish publicly to express my full appreciation of the uniform kindness, sympathy and courtesy extended to me by the teachers, trustees and inspectors of the Province in all my official relations.
