HOW PAINT MEN CAN DO WITHOUT GERMANY

Mr. C. C. Ballantyne Says Canadian Manufacturers Are Already Seizing Their Opportunity

Canada Imported Paints and Colour From Germany in 1913 to the Extent of $281,475—Will Have no More Doing With Germany.

In response to an enquiry sent by the Journal of Commerce as to what efforts were being made to replace German products by those of domestic manufacturers several letters have already been received.

Quite a few of these lines are on the free list, or are subject to exceptionally small customs duties, and therefore, I hope that the Canadian Government will render every assistance to the manufacturers in Canada who are now making some of these lines that are imported from Germany.
