PRIDE.

There is no element in the human character that requires to be governed with more guarded care than that which is manifested in the form of pride. If it for a moment obtains the ascendancy in the mind we become at once the mere instru-ment of inconsiderate impulse, the creature of caprice and folly.

No correct observer of men and things can fail to notice the destructive effects of pride on a large portion of every community. In the individual it assumes the forms of lofty airs, self-conceit, distance, reserve, and often contempt of others. It was a remark of Franklin that "pride dines on vanity and sups on contempt."

Yet in this age of progress and land of light we too often see parents instructing their children to look upon honest industry with feeling of disdain, and thus instilling into their minds those felse idea. stilling into their minds those false ideas of life which experience cannot but form their own worst enemy.

We do not speak here of that pride without which true individuality could not exist for these. not exist; for there is a standard of pride, a consciousness of true integrity and hon-est virtue, that rises far above that conceited element of mind which Dr. Johnson denominated as "abject and mean."

Many of the evils of society can be traced back to those disctinctions which pride has established as a precedent from which to send forth her poisonous bane.

It is a reproach to the age in which we live that these evils should be tolerated or any distinction in society be acknow-ledged. While we are laboring to extend the benign influences of civilization on other and distant lands let us not forget that here in the land of few intil in the other and distant lands fer us not religi-that here, in the land of free institutions, there are giant evils yet to be removed. Let it be inculcated into the minds of the young that no distinction in rank or claim of proud superiority should be taken as the standard of virtue or acknowledged as the passport to honor and distinction.

CAPITAL FOR THE YOUNG.

It is a consolation for all right-minded young men in this country that though they may not be able to command as much pecuniary capital as they would wish to commence business for themselves, yet there is a moral capital which they can have that will weigh as much as money with people whose opinion is worth hav-ing. And it does not take a great while to accumulate a respectable amount of this capital. It consists in truth, honesty, integrity, to which may be added dec firmness, courage, perseverance. With these qualities there's few obstacles that may not be overcome. Friends spring up and surround such a young man almost as if by magic. Confidence flows out to him and business accumulates on his hands faster than he can ask it. And in a few short years such a young man is far in advance of many who started with him having equal talents and larger pecuniary means, and ere long our young friend stands foremost among the honored, trusted, and loved. Would that we could induce every youthful reader of our paper to commence life on the principle that moral capital is the main thing after all!
