"Happy Land" Not "Far Away." Say not the Happy Land Is "far, far away,"

We on its threshold stand Both night and day. Soon we with joyful haste Quit this sad dreary waste, Pure joys, and sweet, to taste, Not far away.

Swiftly our moments ru Fast, fast, away, Heaven is almost begun Short the delay. See how the pearly gate Doth for us wide open wait, Angels with songs elate, Cry "come away."

Children of God, awake Look for the day, Soon will the morning break Life wears away. Keep, then, your armor bright, And your shining garments white, So shall ye dwell in light, Forever and ave. -- Montreal Witness.

..... Story of a Strayed Child.

Late last Autumn, a farmer living near th Adirondacks, in New York, went out to cut timber in the mountains, in a remote and solitary locality. He took his son along with him, a boy of about four years of age. After having been employed for a short time, he missed the child, who had been amusing himself in chasing a kid which he had found on the hill. became alarmed lest he should have fallen into one of the many ravines, or stumbled ever, could be found. In vain did he call upon his name, for no answer was returned. Over this gorge he conceived it impossible for a child to make its way. In the evening he found means to send to the settlement an account of the circumstance, and several humane persons, rocky region. One of them happening to cross over the gorge alluded to, perceived there the mpression of the boy's footsteps, and these were occasionally traced all the way down to the margin of the Hudson, where they lost all trace of the unfortunate little wanderer, and were filled with the most painful apprehensions that he must have been carried off by the stream. Going along its banks, and crossing ravines and which they conceived it almost impossible the child could have passed and climbed, they again found the print of his naked feet on the oft sand of a small rivulet ; and by applying a measure which they had taken of the former im

Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.
