INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. IX AOVERIER 27, 1904.

We-29 Temporance Lesson—Ina. 28: 13.

Commentary—I. The crown that faddeth (vs. 14). I. Wee—Grief, sorrow misery, a heavy calamity, a curse. To the crown of pride—Sy the crown of the beautiful capital of Insul. ong drink.

I. The crown of glory (vs. 5, 6). 5. Unto the residue—The phophet now turns from the ten tribes to the two tribes of Judah and Benjamin, the remnant of God's people, who were to concaptivity. Judah was to be favored and blessed. Under Hezekiah there was to be a revival of religion. So, to-day Jeho-vah will be "a crown of glory" and "a diadem of beauty" to those who trust

His word and obey Him.

6. A spirit of judgment—A clear perception of God's truth. A clear head is promised as well as glory and beauty. Turn the battle to the gate—Who pursue the fleeing enemy even to the very gates of their own city.—Clarke. We nave a spiritual warfare to wage (Eph. vi. 12) and we are pledged to conquer the world for Christ.

111. Evils of Strong Drink (vs. 7, 8): 7. But these also have erred (R. V.)—
"Jerusaiem as well as Samaria has her inebriates and scenes of disgusting intoxication. Though her punishment is not as near as that of the northern kingdom, there are seen the marks of sure decime.' "Note the effects of strong drini: portrayed in this verse: 1. Erring, wandering into forbidden ways and pa-ces. 2. Even the religious teachers led astray. 3. Wholly absorbed in appetite. 4. They cannot see things as they are, or judge correctly. 5. The whole life is perverted." God's ministers need a pure heart, a clean life and a clear vision.

8. There is no place clean—The liquor asiness is a filthy business and every ne who is engaged in it or has anything to do with it is made filthy by it the parent of uncleanness. The thecome polluted and corrupt.

Precept Upon Precept (vs. 9-13); Whom shall he teach, etc.—Many of these verses as the words used he scoffers as they mocked the pro-"They treat God's method of dealing with them and warning them by his prophets, with contempt and derision. What, say they, doth he treat us as mere infan's just weaned? Doth he teach us like little children, constantly going over the same easy lessons?"—Clarke. We must conceive verse 10 as spoken in we must conceive verse to as spoken in miniery with a mocking motion of the head, and in a childish, stammering tone.—Ewald,

11. Nay (R. V.)—The prophet's reply begins with this verse. Isaiah attacks them with great force and severity, turning their own language, spoken in mockery, back upon themselves: "Yos. mockery, back upon themselves: "Yes, it shall be as you say, ye shall be taught by a strange tongue, and in a strange land, whither you will be carried into captivity. Then you will be forced to learn like children." 12. This is the rest, etc.—God had given them repeated and faithful warnings, pointing out to them the true rest and the way to obtain it, but they had closed their cars and "would not hear," and were going on in their fancied security to certain destruction. 13. And fall backard, etc.—They had had great light, and this made them mockery, back upon themselves: had had great light, and this made the great sinners, and this made them great sinners, and they deserved a terrible punishment. We cannot violate God's law with impunity. Those who persist in their wickedness and spurn His offers of mercy will ultimately be east from his presence.

PRACTICAL SURVEY. In this lesson, God, by the mouth of His prophet, pronounces a woe on the inhabitants of Ephraim, probably including the ten tribes. The capital city, Sameria, is referred to as the "Crown of Puble," and the "glorious beauty which is on the head of the fat valley."

1. Of this city God said: "It is a fading flower."

2. God not only accuses the 1. Of this city Cod said: "It is a fading flower," 2. God not only accuses the men of Ephrain of being drunkards, but compares them to a company of men indulging in strong drink and revely.

3. Characters of this kind always come to shame as a result of their own indulgence. The fertile valley made the pride of Samaria possible. The luxuriant vines, with their wealth of grapes, placed a special temptation before the people. Excessive indulgence was sure to bring destruction, but intemperance people. Excessive indulgence was sure to bring destruction, but intemperance was not the only sin for which God people out de such, had their surroundings and associations been like those of some of their drinking neighbors.?

Let us thank God if we have escaped this terrible monster, drink, and be ready always to extend a helping hand to our unfortunate brothers and sisters who have fallen victims to its power. Every Christian and every lover of his race should array himself on the side of temperance. The curse is to be fought in every land. The fight should be pushed on by every good man and woman. Differences of method and opinion should anot be alowed to stand in the way, or divide the forces arrayed against the evil that is destroving the bodies and souls of such a mighty army. Let us "all at it, and always at it."

AUTO BOAT ON DEAD SEA.

t Navigated on Historic Waters in Most Modern Vessel.

New York, Nov. 14.—The European edition New York, Nov. 14.—The European edition of the Herald says that the Dead Sea, according to the Jewish Chronicle, has been navigated by an auts boat. The navigator saw a number of dead fishes, killed by the salt water of the lake, but was surprised to find that the water had no peculiar color of its own, though it was extremely heavy. Although traveliers have alleged that birds cannot exist around the Dead Sea, he saw a great number of scared swallows.

The monotony he writes, was intense. "Before me I saw the wilderness of Judea, and on the right a green spot, marking the banks of Jordan.

"There was not the slightest sign of life. A deathlike silence prevailed in that strange region, scarcely disturbed by the heavy motions of the waves, feebly beating against the beach."

A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Deceased Was a Brother of Mrs. Cyrus Compound.

"DEAR MES. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elikir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily, and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—MRS. ment than the remorse of any Minister or body of Ministers who from loss of temper or desire of popularity brought upon the country the scourage and calamity of needless war.

"At this auspicious moment I am able to announce to you that not only the peace of the country is unbroken, but so far as I am able to forsee there is no reason why it should not remain unbroken. Not only have we had the good fortune to avoid war, but by the strict neutrality and wise international arrangements we have done something to restrict the area of hostilities. The country, however, has not altogether to restrict the area of hostilities. The country, however, has not altogether escaped anxieties. For the last few days we have been face to face with an incident which moved the people of this country as few other incidents have done. The incident of Oct. 21, in the North Sea, was an attack on our citizens and an affront to the British flag, of which, if intentional, I would rather not contemplate the consequences. It was a deplorable and unacountable blunder, but I am bound to add that recent evidence has satisfied the British Government that the Russian Government believed that the facts were different from what we supposed, and that each party was convinced of the justice of its own cause. Great Britain has adopted the only course in referring the matter to an independent and innartial tribunilal, and we found no difficulty in arriving at the principal questions nor in deciding that the terms for their referrance. principal questions nor in decid-st the terms for their reference ing that the terms for their reference under The Hague Convention were such as we could accept.

Not for Britain to Insist. After detailing what would be the procedure of the court, Lord Lansdowne referred to the smallness of the number of Russian efficers left at Vigo, and said: "It was not for us to assume the responsibility for the selection of the officers. That rested with Russia, and it would be a great mistake to relieve mg men of Great Britain. As such it the Government had received distinct was generally interpreted as a bolder but for intervention than has yet emanated from any neutral power.

Continuing, the Foreign Secretary said that while London was principally said that while London was principally interested that peace should prevail everywhere, he did not think they should think of peace at any price.

"At this moment," said Lord Lansdowne, "contemplating the terrible undertaken. Is there not a better way undertaken. Is there not a better way than this? Is it not better to so arrange matters that a dispute shall not arise at all?
