

Farm and Garden.

Wintering Cabbages. One way is the Indian method of burying the heads and leaving the heads in the air.

How much Manure to the Cow? Mr. Quincy, of Massachusetts, who is an earnest advocate of the soiling system, stated at a meeting of the N. Y. State Agricultural Society, that a cow's manure was of equal value as well as the soil, when used in its own experiments, which have been conducted over a long series of years.

Miss Martineau on Female Dress. Do the petticoats of our time serve as anything but a mask to the human form—a perversion of human proportions? A woman in a long, flowing dress, with a high collar, and a full skirt, is a child looking up from a haycock.

A Good Farmer in a Neighborhood. In looking over some recent remarks by Hon. Z. Pratt, on taking the chair at the formation of the Farmers' Club, we find the following suggestive paragraphs. A good farmer in a neighborhood is a great blessing.

The best Kind of Hay. There is probably as much difference in the nutritive properties of the grasses as there is in grains or fruits. Analysis shows this, and the instinct of cattle indicates quite as much.

Potato Fly. (Cauliaris vitata). J. M. B. of Dutchess Co., N. Y., sends several specimens of a beetle, which he says has done considerable damage to the leaves of various garden vegetables—chiefly the potato and beet.

Value of Charcoal. The use and value of charcoal are very little understood. The underlying of stable beds with it has been found to serve an excellent purpose, as it is a sure and prompt absorbent, and renders the urine inodorous.

Miscellaneous.

The Great Eclipse of 1869.

M. Faye, in a memoir lately read before the French Academy, suggests a concert in the observations to be made by astronomers upon the great eclipse of the sun of July 18, 1869, partial over a great portion of Europe and America, and total in Spain, Algeria, and Morocco, and a portion of North America.

The Human Voice.

The most beautiful and touching instrument, which man has received from the hands of his beneficent Maker, is the voice. Through words he can impart life and significance to his melodies; he can evoke the most secret feelings of the heart, awaken every passion into living reality, and powerfully vibrate all the chords of the soul.

Earthquakes.

At the recent meeting of the Leeds (England) Philosophical and Literary Society, a paper by Sir John F. W. Herschel was read. He thought he should be able to show that the volcano and earthquake were inseparable—incidents in a vast system of action, which they owed the very ground they stood upon, without which neither man, beast, nor bird would have a place for its existence, and the world would be the habitation of nothing but fishes, as geology taught them that, foot by foot, or inch by inch, and through part by part, the sea was constantly wearing away the land on every coast of Europe, Africa, and America.
