CHATHAM DEFEATED AT FREDERICTON

Chatham, champions of the Northern Section of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Hockey League, were beaten 2 to 1 in a thrilling overtime finish by the Fredericton team of the Western Section of the league Friday evening before a large crowd of fans at the Artie rink, Fredericton.

The teams were evenly matched but both tired at times with the ice a bit sticky.

Fredericton took an early lead but had the better of play in the first period when the ice was fast. Chatham evened the score in the second period on an individual rush by Pete McLean, the big defence player of the Campbellton club who was brought along to reinforce the visitors' team and to allow Captain Milton to play at centre, Duncan, their regular star was ill.

EASTER SUNDAY

Easter Sunday was fair and cold with a strong north-east wind blowing. The extreme cold weather made it impossible for new finery to be worn. The day was observed in the usual manner with special services and music in all the churches.

FIRE ALARM

A fire alarm was sent in Sunday afternoon for a small blaze on the roof of St. Andrew's church, which ignited from a spark. It was quickly extinguished.

HE PUT PARIS CAFE ON MAP FOR TOURISTS

Paris, March 27—From railway station cook to twentyfold a millionaire in forty-five years is the life story of Leopold Mourier dean of French chefs, who died in Paris this week. Mourier's career had a special interest to Americans, as his fortune was established by catering to the appetites of tourists in restaurants that are the prized associations of every traveler who has passed this way. After five years apprenticeship in Grenoble, Mourier arrived here in 1877 and became the chef at Paillard's on the Boulevards and with the Cafe Anglais the leading restaurant in Paris. Later he became its manager. Then came the inspiration to financial success when with his friend's assistance he obtained the proprietorship of the cafe de Paris in the Avenue de l'Opera. A once popular resort but which had run down. Subsequently he built the new Pre-Catalan in the Bois de Boulogne on the site of the old dairy farm. This resort shared with Armenouville the fame of being the afternoon gathering place of the fashionables of two continents. He also purchased Fourquet's in the Champs Elysees, a favorite place to take an apertitif.

Mourier's declining years were spent in philanthropy and only last summer he received the rosette of

The New Brunswick Lumbermen's Association Convention opens Wednesday evening in the Brunswick Hotel and continues Thursday and Friday.

It is understood that one of the matters to be discussed by the delegates will be with respect to the N.B. Workmen's Compensation Act. The lumbermen have asked, it is said, that employers as the sole contributors to the Compensation Act Fund, have representation on the Board.

SNOW PACKED LIKE ICE

The intense cold wind which prevailed last week blew so hard in this vicinity that the snow was packed as tight and hard as ice. In some sections the fields could be gone over by a horse and sled without showing the least track of any kind. The older residents say that they have never seen a similar instance, and speaking to a gentleman from Sweden, he said he had never seen the like of it in that country in all the years he had lived there.

BLIZZARD AT CAMPBELLTON

Landry Building Unroofed by 70 Mile Gale—Trains Late—Zero Weather.

Campbellton, March 28—During the worst blizzard which Campbellton has experienced this winter and in fact for many winters, half of the roof of the Landry building, opposite the C.N.R. station was blown off tonight about seven o'clock. When this happened some person got excited and rang the fire alarm and this in turn caused great excitement throughout the town as many people rushed to the scene, fearing that a fire would cause great damage during the extremely high wind which was blowing since an early hour this morning at a velocity of nearly 70 miles an hour.

As a result of the storm all trains are hours late. When the roof blew off the Landry building no one was injured, but a passerby had a very narrow escape when the wood and bricks fell, barely missing him. Some of the pieces from the roof landed in a yard about half a block away. In addition to the wind the weather is all the more uncomfortable as the temperature is below zero and very few people have ventured from their firesides unless absolutely necessary.

Cariboo and Caribou

1. Casting on Quesnel Lake; 2. A fair morning's catch; 3. Cleaning the gun for the hunt.

WHAT is one of the finest big game and fishing sections of North America and one of the last great stands for big game, lies within easy reach of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the Cariboo district of British Columbia. Here, as nowhere else on the continent, are found in abundance the bear, grizzly, brown and black; the moose and caribou, and the wary mountain goat and sheep. The cougar is often seen and heard and the smaller fur bearing animals make a trappers paradise of this vast virgin territory. As will be seen from the picture above, the fishing is superlatively good; it is the fishing country of the west.

"Who is the man with soul so dead and bent on irksome chores, who hath not sometime to him said, 'I'll seek the Great Outdoors?'" Each year an increasing number of hunters and fishermen are absorbed by the district, but so vast and extensive is it, that there are yet parts of it that have never been visited by the hunter, and streams that have never had a line thrown over them. To reach the Cariboo district one usually leaves the railway at Ashcroft from which place, arrangements having previously been made, one starts out by automobile over the famous Cariboo road to Quesnel Lake, Harpers Camp, Horsefly Lake or one other of the numerous camping sites. The road, which winds among the foothills for hundreds of miles, climbs to an elevation of 5,000 feet and drops gradually to below the 2,000 foot level by the lakes, was made famous by the horde of gold seekers who passed over it in the days of '49. The old road houses built in those days are still there, and while many of them are used as headquarters for the large ranches in the district they afford simple but comfortable accommodation on the trip.

From the camps one can just paddle along the still, black, green bordered streams and lakes over which the snow capped ranges tower, or one can sit at ease by the camp fire and watch the sun sink behind the hills set ablaze with its glory, listening the while to the soft rustle of the wind in the tree tops and the gentle plashing of the water on the crags. If one is of a more aggressive careful and well tried guide, strike through the wilderness in search of its natural denizens, or, armed with rod, fly and other bait, angle to the hearts content. One may spend weeks, making short trips by boat, canoe, or saddle horse, fishing in the lakes and streams near by, and getting back to camp each night, or travel with the necessities for bivouac and commune with the wilds for days or weeks at a time.

The Cariboo hunting and fishing grounds are located in the Great Interior Plateau, lying between the Rockies and the Cascades, east of the Fraser River. Ashcroft, the jumping off place, is on the main line of the Canadian Pacific 202 miles east of Vancouver. Equipment for trips can be purchased there or at one of the various hunting centres in the district close by. Guide and outfitting companies cater to every necessity and the "Cariboo" and other lodges adequately care for the wants of the business or professional man who does not care for an extended hunting or fishing trip but desires to get away from civilization for everything for a while.
